Hitler Faces Curb of Martial Law.

[Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Dec. 8. — Chancellor Bruening answered the challenge of Adolf Hitler and his Fascists tonight by warning the nation that President von Hindenburg will invoke martial law if necessary to save the constitution.

"There is no other authority in this country save that prescribed by the constitution," the chancellor said.

His address to the country was made after a new and drastic emergency decree, slashing prices, wages and rents had been signed and made into law by President von Hindenburg. The decree, a 48 page document, the longest ever issued by the government, was designed to provide the final virtues for what Dr. Bruening called the "capitulation period imposed upon Germany."

Cuts Pay Scale to 1927 Level.

The radical character of the measure was indicated by its reduction of wage scales to the level of Jan. 1, 1927.

On the political side the decree laid down safeguards for a peaceful holiday season. It wiped away the cherished right of Germans to wear uniforms signifying their political faith, even as the brown shirts of Hitler's Fascists, the reichsbannermen's republican costume, the steel helmet organization's war gear, and the communists' red. It forbade all political meetings and demonstrations until Jan. 2.

Following are some of the other things the new decree does:

Cuts house rents and prices of standardized articles, coal, and potash 20 per cent.

Establishes a price commissioner.

Cuts salaries in the reich, states, and communes 9 per cent and wages 10 per cent.

Lowers Interest Rates.

Lowers the interest rate on loans, bonds and mortgages, public and private, to 6 per cent where it was as high as 8 per cent and cuts it 25 to 40 per cent where it was higher.

Lowers the Lombard rate (interest on security loans) to 9 per cent from 10 per cent.

Cuts physicians' fees and provides easier terms for sick insurance.

Protects land owners against forced auction sales by providing that no bid under 70 per cent of the property's value need be accepted.

Provides for issuance of new 4 pfennig coins (worth 1 cent).

Reduces some taxes, but increases turnover tax from .75 per cent to 1 per cent.

Increases compensatory taxes on imports.

Hits at Flight to Capital.

Strengthens measures against flight of capital by providing for various degrees of confiscation.

Empowers state authorities to demand surrender of all firearms.

Limits traffic in blackjacks and similar weapons.

Threatens with three months' imprisonment all who defame public officials.

The communists were the first to protest against these new restrictive measures. They addressed a demand to Paul Loebe, president of the reichstag, for convocation of the reichstag on Dec. 15 that they might press for repeal of the emergency decree. They also called for reopening of the reichstag that there might be open discussion of financial, business and foreign affairs.

Bruening Statement Vigorous.

Chancellor Bruening's statement to the nation was couched in vigorous language.

"The government must and will not hesitate to meet with iron energy the threatening, ruin of the power inherent in our people," he said. "It tolerates no other authority except the constitutional authority.

"The reich president and the reich government alone are in control of the instruments of authority of the state.

"These instruments will be invoked with unrelenting sternness, if necessary, by declaring martial law against all who might undertake in these hours of extreme test of the nerves to contravene the constitutional authority.

Doubts Claims of Legality.

"While the leader of the national socialists [Hitler] has proclaimed the legal methods and aims of his political intentions, yet in stark contrast thereto stand the violent demonstrations of leaders who deem themselves no less

Sheriff Gets 3 Months in Jail Scandal

Sheriff John Perucca of Grundy county was sentenced to three months in the Du Page county jail at Wheaton by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday for contempt of court in granting liberties to a prisoner. This prisoner was Anton J. Resch, former mayor of Stickney and alleged Capone henchman.

Resch, Judge Woodward found, was free to come and go at the county jail in Morris where he is serving a year's sentence for violation of the prohibition law.

Both Held to Grand Jury.

Judge Woodward held both Perucca and Resch to the federal grand jury in bonds of $2,500 each on a charge of conspiring to allow a prisoner to escape. Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher was instructed to present evidence to the grand jury also against Perucca for permitting a prisoner to escape.

Perucca was granted a stay of execution for one week, but both he and Resch were covered when late into custody until they furnished bond.

Points to Hospitality.

In his opinion Judge Woodward dwelt on Perucca's hospitality to Resch. Judge Woodward found that on last April 1, Perucca permitted Resch to take an insane prisoner to Elgin in company with a deputy sheriff; that Resch was seen many times on the sidewalks in front of the jail; that Resch slept in the prisoners' cells or in the sheriff's quarters; that he met his friends openly outside the jail, and lolled on the grass of the courtyard lawn.

A hearing on similar charges against former Sheriff Henry J. Jones, of the same county, and Matt Bauer, Oak Park bootlegger, who was released after a few months term recently, was set for Dec. 15. The hearing of evidence against Perucca and Resch was completed early in November.

$47,840,000 FRENCH NAVAL BUILDING BUDGET IS O. K.'D

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The finance committee of the French chamber of deputies approved today an appropriation of $47,840,000 for the 1932-33 naval construction program.

The naval committee last month approved a 1932-33 construction program calling for four second class cruisers, one destroyer, one torpedo boat in the limited category, one hydrographic craft, and one river gunboat in the unlimited category.

These are all replacements.

TRINIDAD BARS FOES OF DIVORCE LAW FROM CITY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 8.—An amazing situation is developing here following a decision by the government to press the divorce bill to a second reading on Friday. The bill has already passed first reading.

Opponents of the bill had decided to stage a monster demonstration on Friday, bringing special trains with thousands of peasants into the city. This morning the government ruled that the railway must refuse to run special trains on the ground that large crowds in the city would constitute a danger to public safety.

Vandals Toss Acid in Four Cleaner Shops

Acid throwing terrorists continued their campaign of intimidation against independent cleaners and dyers last night. In four places they destroyed garments valued at about $5,000.

Two men with pistols entered the Rosette shop at 1048 Wilson avenue and, after forcing the owner, E. Stein, and two employes into a side room, tossed acid on 75 dresses. In the Economical shop at 4554 Broadway the proprietor, Herman Berah, and three helpers were made to lie down on the floor by two men who then spent a leisurely ten minutes systematically ruining garments valued at $3,000.

Bind Owner of Shop.

Jack Bindman, owner of the Uptown Quality Cleaners and Dyers at 4922 Broadway, was alone in his shop when two men entered. One tied him to a clothes rack and compelled him to look on while the other with a sharp knife ripped coats and suits to pieces and treated the debris with chemicals.

The fourth place visited was the Popular Cleaners and Dyers shop at 2746 Milwaukee avenue, where Isadore Berah and two of his employes were forced to stand against a wall while the destruction was in progress.

Report Death Threats.

Many of the independent cleaners have reported receipt of death threats. In addition to the kind of terrorism which occurred last night they say that the vandals sometimes load suits with chemicals which cause explosions when brought in contact with cleaning fluids.

The Cleaners and Dyers' Institute, to which most of the large concerns belong, has set an agreed price of $1.25 for cleaning a suit of clothes, a price which the independents maintain is too high under present conditions. They have asserted a belief that the high price will cause Chicago patrons to mail their garments to other cities for cleaning.

LIFT SORORITY CIGARET BAN AT NORTHWESTERN

The Women's Quadrangle association, governing body of the sorority houses at Northwestern university, lifted the ban on cigaret smoking in the sorority houses yesterday. While not directly acceding to a petition in which the girls asked the abolition of the anti-cigaret rule, the Quadrangle association decided that each sorority house might make its own rule. It is expected that an overwhelming majority of the houses will vote to permit smoking.

Robber Is Slain in His 3d Raid on Same Office

The taunt, "I'll be back again," hurled five weeks ago at the manager of an insurance office whom he had just robbed, proved the death warrant of Carl Hein, 37 years old, a thief and gunman with a ten year police record. He went back last night, intent on robbing the office for a third time, found a police guard waiting for him, and was slain.

Hein was killed by Sergt. Martin S. McCarthy of the commercials squad. The gun fight in which he died took place in the branch office of the Prudential Insurance company at 2162 Halsted place. The office is half a block from the busy intersection of Western, Lawrence, and Lincoln avenues, and hundreds of homegoing workers were attracted to the scene by the shots.

Seals Bandit's Fell Escape.

Hein's companion in the robbery attempt escaped. William O'Rourke, manager of the office where the two gunmen sought to rob, identified the dead man as one of the two bandits who held up the place on Oct. 1, taking $1,400, and who returned on Nov. 3 and took $300 more.

During the second holdup Hein promised to return, O'Rourke said. This threat caused the police to post a guard in the office. Sergt. McCarthy and his partner, Detective Harold Tierney, were on duty there last evening.

O'Rourke had departed on an errand. Four girl employes, Lillian Teelund, 4439 North Damen avenue; Hazel and Helen Hansen, sisters, of 3906 North Western avenue, and Virginia Anderson, 3924 Newburg avenue, were preparing to close the office for the night.

Sergeant Ready for Robbers.

The office is half a story above the street, at the top of a flight of stairs. Sergt. McCarthy walked to the door opening on the stairs and opened it for a precautionary glance at the street entrance. He kept his hand on his revolver as he did so.

Hein was standing on the other side of the door, a .45 caliber pistol in his hand. His companion was behind him.

"Put up your hands. It's a stick-up," said Hein as he lunged at Sergt. McCarthy.

"Stickup, hell," yelled the sergeant.

He grabbed Hein's arm, thrusting down the robber's revolver as he drew his own weapon. Hein's first bullet went into the floor. McCarthy shot him in the cheek.

Shoots Bandit Twice More.

The other bandit fled and Hein, jarred by his wound, staggered to the head of the stairs. There he turned, wavered, and raised his pistol again. Before he could fire Sergt. McCarthy shot him twice in the chest.

Hein tumbled down the steps, dying, as his companion jumped into an automobile and drove away. Hein's body was identified by his father and Miss Edna Worman, 20 years old, 3936 North Keating avenue, who said she was his sweetheart. Hein also lived at that address. His full name, his father told the police, was Theodore Carl Hein. The elder Hein and Miss Worman were detained for questioning.

Linked to Exley-Duffy Case.

Hein's fingerprints showed that he had a long record in the police bureau of identification, as a robber and burglar, having first been sentenced to the Bridewell in 1922.

In February, 1924, Hein was arrested in the Hayhelle Exley-John Duffy murder case. It was suspected that he was the driver of the automobile in which Exley, a racketeering gangster, was taken for a ride and murdered after he had killed the Exley woman at 1215 Carmen avenue.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—(Special.)—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, fifteen state senators, and fifteen members of the house of representatives met here together with heads of the local governments of Cook county this today and began the study of state tax problems that it is hoped will show the way out of the maze of politics before the special session of the general assembly.

This meeting followed an urgent appeal by Mayor Cermak of Chicago in spokesmen for all the local units seeking remedial legislation for their financial difficulties. The mayor addressed a joint session of the two chambers and, without any radical departure from its program, warmly indorsed the program presented by Gov. Emmerson's tax conference. He especially declared politics should be forgotten in a crisis like the present one.

The second meeting, to which the governor participated, was that of the newly created joint committee of the two houses which is to hand out straighten out the present uncertainty and get united support behind a specified set of bills in an effort to hasten final action upon them.

High Hopes for Action.

Seldom, according to old timers, has a governor of Illinois sat in with legislators in an effort to aid in legislation. Hopes are high that this union of Republican and Democratic leadership will produce the enactment of a substantial program with a chance that important action may be taken before the first of the year. That hope still survived when the meeting in Speaker Shanahan's office, after two hours of general discussion, recessed until morning when it will get down to business, it is said, taking up one bill after another for the purpose of preparing a schedule that will receive the support of the combined forces.

Only three Democrats appeared to the Chicago mayor's ideas concerning the next state ticket queried him about his personal attitude on a few matters and most of these he met by reading extracts from his carefully prepared statement on the situation, including his declaration that the recommendation of the governor's conference for the reconstruction of the tax machinery of Cook county must be followed regardless of the political sacrifice involved.

All Avoid Partisanship.

The mayor was followed on the rostrum by President Emmet Wheelan of the county board, a Democrat; State's Attorney Sirkman, a Republican; President T. J. Bowler of the sanitary district, and President L. H. Myers of the Chicago school board, a Republican. In none of these speeches did partisanship appear.

Not the least of these appeals was the one by Gil Orr of Chicago in meeting the [illegible] problem. In his address Mayor Cermak said that, in addition to the $18,600,000 being raised by private subscription in Cook county, the public funds needed this winter total $15,600,000. He proposed that the legislature approve an additional 2 cent gasoline tax, calculated to raise $12,000,000 for Cook county and also recommended that the pending bill to authorize Cook county to issue bonds for unemployment relief be amended to provide a sum of $5,000,000 instead of the $3,000,000 originally sought.

Raps Fabels in Mayor's Speech.

Some of the references in Mayor Cermak's speech to the necessity for considering the problems of Cook county and its associate governments without prejudice were as follows:

"The gravity of the situation requires an approach to the subject free from party, personal and partisan considerations.

"I am willing to disregard every political consideration and make any sacrifice necessary to achieve the main objective. The responsibility of our credit without increasing the burdens of the taxpayers. The extravagance of politics must subordinate itself to the preservation of our institutions."

"No public official can afford to stand in the way of our getting the necessary relief. If some officials—no matter who they are or how worthy they are—are required as a sacrifice in order to restore our credit, then the sacrifice must be made."

Blow at Assessors.

The last statement was the cuttingest of the explanation of his stand in support of the governor's tax conference's recommendation for the abolition of the present board of assessors and board of review of Cook county. But he did not interpolate into his reading the compromise upon the conference proposal discussed in his meeting with Gov. Emmerson and Senator Richard J. Barr at the executive mansion last night.

That compromise proposes the appointment of one reviewer by the governor, the naming of a second reviewer by the president of the county and the selection of the one assessor by these two within ten days with the alternative that if the time limit is passed the state supreme court shall name the assessor.

It became known that the reason for his silence on this reported agreement was his desire not to depart from the program of the governor's tax conference which recommended that all three members of the proposed new tax board be appointed by the president of the county board.

Ignores Friends Quiz Mayor.

Representatives Howard M. Doyle of Decatur, Frank W. McClure of Abingdon and Frank Holten of East St. Louis, three Democrats supporting the governorship candidacy of Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, a candidacy which Mayor Cermak has declined to encourage, did the "cross questioning" when the mayor had concluded.

"I don't care who has the appointing power," he said, referring to the proposed new tax board. "I have always felt they should be elected."

The point in State's Attorney Swanson's speech which concerned this subject struck a new note. Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, proposed two weeks ago that the county judge should appoint all three members of the board.

"It is not good governmental policy," said the Cook county prosecutor, a former judge and a former state senator, "to place in the hands of a judicial officer the appointment of political officers."

Attorney General Gallstros today ruled that the call for the special session does not permit consideration of the several bills introduced for the reduction of the salaries of state officers and employes because the subject was not included by Gov. Emmerson.

WE DO NOT DARE TO FAIL: CERMAK TO ASSEMBLY

It's Legislation for Cook or Demoralization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Mayor Anton J. Cermak today addressed the general assembly on the legislation necessary for the relief of Chicago. His honor began by summarizing the present conditions in a gloomy foreword.

"The tasks [of remedy] are stupendous and require all the energy and thought that we can possibly give to them," he said. "General demoralization of government is sure to follow a failure to meet these conditions. None of us dares to stop short of finding the solution.

"The gravity of the situation requires an approach to the subject free from every personal and partisan consideration. Our job is to save the governments—state and local—from complete collapse."

Cook county's troubles did not grow from a single cause, the mayor said, but "are the results of an inadequate tax and fiscal system now wholly incapable of serving our needs. The depression contributed to the "present chaotic condition."

Mr. Cermak did not fail to say that "extravagances" of governments in prosperous times were one of the causes. Little attention was paid to them then, and Chicago "built without plan or order."

418 Kinds of Government.

"There is probably no community in this country that presents more confusing conditions of local government than those which, wholly or in part, in the county of Cook," he said. "There are approximately 418 distinct and independent local governments within our county. These have been multiplying and expanding without an attempt even to coordinate them. The duplication, overlapping, waste and extravagance have raised the cost of government within the county of Cook to a point where the citizens refuse and, in many cases are unable, to carry it."

Mayor Cermak leaned over the rostrum and spoke earnestly to the quiet assembly before him.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we can sell no more tax anticipation warrants, and I am afraid no more bonds, unless the muddled situation is cleared at once. Not only have we no immediate market for our securities, but if we permit ourselves to default on any maturing obligations we are in danger of having our securities excluded from the markets of a number of states for from five to 15 years to come. You know, of course, many states prohibit the sale of securities of municipalities that have defaulted.

"I am not as alarmist, gentlemen, but frankly, I am greatly concerned over what may come unless we act immediately. I recognize that no permanent solution of the problem can be evolved during this session. That must await constitutional changes. But until that comes, you must evolve a plan of temporary relief which will, for the time being, function. Vigorous and intelligent leadership in the assembly must help put such measures into immediate effect.

Four Fields of Relief.

"As I see it, the necessary relief measures fall into four major divisions:

"1. Reduction of cost of government to lowest possible level.

"2. Enactment of emergency legislative fiscal measures which, without increasing the tax burden, will permit the carrying on of essential public service and make possible meeting pay roll and other obligations.

"3. Reorganization of taxing system so as to give assurance that taxes will be equitably and honestly levied and collected, and thus restore public confidence in government; and

"4. Laying of plans for such home rule for Cook county as will ultimately enable it to consolidate the vast horde of its taxing bodies."

He has done much, and will do more, in the first division of his plan, the mayor said. The budget will be cut to "an irreducible minimum consistent with necessary public service." He promised that "in so far as my position enables me to exert pressure upon other governmental agencies, I shall use every ounce of it to help bring about the strictest economy in every department."

Mr. Cermak compared pay roll reductions, which aggregate $2,951,598 for the months of August, September and October, 1931, with the pay rolls of last year.

He will further insist, the mayor promised, that the following program be carried out:

Elimination of unnecessary positions and employes, consolidation of departments and bureaus, coordination of services, establishment of a central purchasing system, utilization of labor saving devices, improvement in examination methods, reclassification of civil service positions, and the centralization of fiscal and accounting services.

He hopes that all this will effect a total reduction of more than $25,000,000.

On point two in his plan, Mayor Cermak said he could not offer "a remedy that would permanently cure our fiscal ills," but referred the assembly to the program of the governor's tax conference, the members of which he described as "men who have it within their power to aid materially in reestablishing the credit of the county and its municipalities."

Expressing the wish that this program "were free from controversial proposals," the mayor said he was "willing to disregard every political consideration and make any sacrifice necessary to achieve the main objective" of reestablishing the credit without increasing the tax burden.

He did advocate the short term bond issues the program recommends as absolute essentials. The 1930 tax funding plan, proposed by the Chicago Real Estate board, was called "unsound."

Income Tax Best.

Sympathizing with realty owners, Mayor Cermak said that it must be realized how much easier it is to tax "immovable real estate than it is to reach personal property."

"The personal property tax in Cook county has become a farce," he added. "I do not believe that it is possible, without constitutional amendment, to entirely remedy the situation.

"In principle, I am in favor of a comprehensive income tax. The income tax proposed by the governor's tax conference, however, if legal, will not give us immediate relief. But should you find it necessary to adopt it let me urge upon you that, at this time particularly, it be modified so as to insure to Cook county that it will receive from the revenue derived the full amount its citizens contribute to it."

The mayor stated his belief that the present reviewing and assessing boards should be abolished and a joint board of three substituted.

"Whatever faults the present machinery has," the mayor added, "have developed in the course of a quarter of a century. The present incumbents of the offices fell heir to a system which, acquiesced in during prosperous times, could not escape attack in time of financial stress. Public sentiment seems to demand a change, and, unless we yield to it, I am afraid we shall fail in our main objective—namely: The reestablishment of confidence and the credit of the governments involved."

Cook County Laws.

The mayor reminded the assembly that at the regular session earlier in the year it adopted an amendment to the amending clause of the constitution which, if approved by the voters in 1932, will enable three amendments during a session of the legislature. He asked that before they adjourned the members pass a resolution for an amendment which would enable them to legislate specially for Cook county on all matters.

"Such an amendment could specifically provide for a special taxing system in Cook county," he explained, "and in that way obviate the constitutional provision which prohibits an amendment to the revenue article for four years because one was proposed at the last session."

Under such an amendment the legislature could work out a plan for the consolidation of the various taxing bodies in Cook county, could provide for a board of estimates with power to allocate to each public activity its share of revenue.

Concluding, Mayor Cermak made a plea for the passage of the Barr senate bill providing for a temporary two cent increase in the gas tax to provide obtainable relief in counties.

WOMEN'S GROUPS TO HOLD MASSMEETING ON FINANCE CRISIS

A. OF C. WILL HEAR APPEAL TO BUY TAX WARRANTS TODAY

The Association of Commerce today will be asked to join in the campaign to raise funds for the payment of city and school board salaries by the sale to industries and individuals of 1930 tax anticipation warrants.

Mayor Cermak and D. F. Kelly, chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of the campaign, will address the association. It is expected they will discuss the situation as regards large taxpayers who are contesting payment of 1931 and 1930 taxes.

"Regardless of the outcome of the litigation," Mr. Kelly said yesterday, "it is certain the taxpayers are going to have to pay a large portion of the taxes. They should certainly, to be fair with the city, spend at least a large portion of their tax money in the purchase of warrants."

There was a temporary lull yesterday in the tax warrant campaign because many city officials were in Springfield in connection with legislative relief. Mr. Kelly announced the campaign would speed up with the mayor's return.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, who was reported recently to have consulted specialists in Vienna and Munich regarding her health, is entirely well again, she said here today.

"It was nothing more than lumbago, complicated by a heavy cold and grief at the parting with Princess Ileana, who was an inseparable companion for twenty years," she said. Princess Ileana was married recently to Archduke Anton of Hapsburg.

RITCHIE WANTS A GOVERNMENT OF HORSE SENSE

Business Leaders Cheer Governor's Creed.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Albert Cabell Ritchie, twelve years governor of Maryland and possible Democratic nominee for the presidency next July, talked business to 1,500 members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and their wives last evening at the Stevens hotel.

The reception of the avowed candidate for the nomination was spontaneous and cordial, and what he said on the federal government's increasing intrusion into the affairs of industries and individuals was frequently and sometimes tumultuously cheered.

When George T. Buckingham, toastmaster of the association's thirty-fourth annual dinner, presented the governor as "that rarest of animals in America today, a great leader who thinks and talks and acts like a statesman," representatives of education and industry rose to greet him with applause that lasted until the toastmaster gave the signal that it was time for the speaker to go on the air.

Leaders Applaud Governor.

Among the many participating in the ovation were:

President Walter D. Scott of Northwestern university, the Rev. John Timothy Stone of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, Edward N. Hurley, who sat on Gov. Ritchie's right; Vice President Charles F. Kettering of General Motors, President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, Brig. Gen. Thomas Hammond, Stuyvesant Peabody, George W. Dixon, Dr. Hugh Young of Johns Hopkins university, Thomas E. Wilson, David A. Noyes, President Edward J. Kelly of the south park system, and Charles J. Vopicka, former minister to Rumania.

Col. Buckingham did not ignore such political auguries as the occasion may have held, for he said:

"Our guest's sincere devotion to American fundamentals has given him a fame that widens, and steadily widens, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and in this connection I beg to remind you of the fact that the distance between the capitol at Annapolis and the capitol at Washington is the shortest mileage on the map between capitols."

Gov. Ritchie's Philosophy.

Coming out of his stately office enthronement of portraits of Charles the First, Queen Henrietta Maria, Queen Anne, a long line of Lords Baltimore, old colonial statesmen, all of whose names are entwined with the founding of the governing of Maryland, Mr. Ritchie bombarded the industrialists with these sentences—and almost every one of them drew a volley of applause:

"I am strong for holding fast to our ancient faith in the old fashioned virtues and the old fashioned horse-sense of old fashioned Americanism. This may not sound like a very profound political philosoph but it is one that makes for safety and stability, and that is what this nation wants.

"I do not for a moment contend that we should be a stand-pat people. But let us be wise in what we reject and wise in what we adopt.

"This extraordinary business depression which has come upon us has given rise to the extraordinary idea that what is needed is some form of super-planning, by which at one stroke our economic future can be controlled."

But the governor was wary of those "super-plans."

"First," said he, "find your superman to execute them." As for himself, he had brought no plan to the manufacturers and he declared that if he had it would not be what he called "any alluring or all-curing panacea."

"The idea," he continued, "of a supreme economic council, capable of seeing what is wrong, and empowered to say do this and do that, go here and go there, appeals to those who think government should be strong rather than free. It does not fit in with the philosophy of those who question the possibility of finding your super man, or his ability to do very much if you find him."

The governor was for action versus talk, and he thought there were national urgencies demanding action.

Where Action Is Needed.

"By all means" he said, "let us plan, and when our plans are worth it, let us lift them from talk to action. If the government is anxious to try its hand, it can do this with immense profit to the nation in its own household. It can plan there to eliminate a lot of its lost motion, its excessive costs, its red-tape, its pomposities and futilities, its invasion of rights, state and individual, and its excessive aggrandizement of economic and political power."

Among those "pomposities, futilities and invasions," he named these:

"Think of our army of federal employés now rapidly approaching the million mark, with a cost of government that has grown fifteen times as fast as our population and is now running into astronomical figures, imposing a burden of taxation that is intolerable. Private business which foots the bill does well to ask itself why, wherefore, whence and whither.

"One hundred and fifty bureaus and endless commissions prey upon you and feed off you. Twenty-five different grades of federal officers scattered through the various departments can hector you, arrest you and ruin you. Not a phase of your life from the cradle to the grave, from the cellar of your home to the wallet in your pocket, into which they cannot pry."

"Experts Cluttering Capital."

Warning the manufacturers that a superstitious belief in the efficacy of commissions of "experts"—he gave that word a withering touch—is cluttering the machinery in Washington, Mr. Ritchie said:

"There is too much faith in government as such, and too little in self-operating social forces and ideals which among a free people can produce more progressive results than can any government.

"A government might be omnipotent, but it cannot be omniscient. What is done in government is always done by mortals, by somebody in the flesh, who has all the weakness of the flesh.

"The common good can best be attained by the steady flow of natural forces and the free play of our common liberties, with the least possible interference by congresses or kings.

"When experts disagree, as they almost always do, politicians flourish. If you think enforced economic planning and a coördinated, controlled and rationalized economy would fit the American spirit, cast your eye on Russia. If you think you can find supermen to do it, look at the farm board.

"Look to the experts for counsel and advice and guidance, but do not put the crown of too much governmental power on them."

Declaration on Prohibition.

To this extent the governor declared himself on prohibition last evening:

"In the fight to control the liquor evil, our greatest progress toward temperance, which ought to be the real goal of us all, was made before we mixed morals, politics and legislation all up together, and before we tried to do by force and legislative fiat what can only be done by education and popular sanction and consent."

When he announced the title of his address as "Public Business—Private Business"—the speaker added, "and I am beginning to believe that presently it will be difficult to distinguish between the two. If by public business is meant business more or less under the control and direction of government, or business into which from time to time or all the time government sticks its finger, then I really cannot think of very much business that is still private. The government even demands a share of the unlawful income of the bootlegger and the racketeer." [Laughter.]

Key to the Depression.

Bad finance he thought the key to what he called "our present panic."

"The modern business system," he said, "centers in the bank. Look at it as you will, the key to our present panic is financial. Something here is wrong or has gone wrong. America is richer than it ever was before; there is a plethora of money; there is the same consuming public, with the same unlimited desires, needs and wants as before, with the same legions of labor ready and anxious to work and produce—and yet the wheels stop going around. Evidently both money and labor are out of employment."

The cause of present disaster was, in his opinion, the fact, as he put it, that "we have made credit the heart of our industrial system, and this enormous credit machinery has developed more rapidly than our understanding of how to control it. The fault may be in our bankers, in our banking laws, or in the mistakes of government, or in all of these, but here is the first line of attack on the established order, and here surely a high measure of planning is needed."

Furthermore:

"The world of industry and finance can not afford to overlook the fact that the problems of agriculture are basic to the entire business system, and that radical and experimental changes in government may wreck both.

"Exactly how best to solve these problems may be for trained minds to say, but they will never be solved by making them the football of politics. What a pity it is that it has taken a panic to show us that you cannot lift the farmer up by his own bootstraps, that you cannot make water run up hill, and that the law of supply and demand still works."

Closes on Note of Optimism.

Mr. Ritchie closed on a note of hope and with this picture of what he had seen from the train that brought him from Annapolis to Chicago:

"All you need do is look out of your car window as you travel across these wonderful states and see the thousands on thousands of comfortable homes and well kept farms to realize that here is America, and that here the promise of American life and the dream of democracy is finding fulfillment. You begin to see that wealth is not expressed in bankers' portfolios or in heaped up gold, but in land, in homes, and in all those vast, articulated forms of human enterprise in which men engage to supply their primal wants and their urge to work and to create. The primal energies that made this nation are still functioning, and the primal virtues are still operative." [Prolonged applause.]

Congratulatory telegrams on the thirty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the association were received from President Hoover, who said he hoped "the conference" would "contribute to augmented confidence and to business recovery"; from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who said he was so busy on his annual report to congress that he could not leave Washington, and from Secretary of Commerce Lamont, who hoped for the best.

The association's retiring president, T. R. Gerlach, who is now succeeded by S. M. Hastings, was especially retiring when he read to the banqueters the cablegram of greeting which Ambassador Dawes sent from Paris. This was it as sent:

"Please extend my greetings to the annual gathering of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. In my judgment the method of bettering conditions by optimistic statements has been somewhat overworked. My advice would be to get out and hustle."

Mr. Gerlach censored all but the first sentence of the message when he read it to the party.

Vice President Kettering of General Motors was the Ed Wynn of the evening and said amid much laughter that the trouble with this country is "complated currency."

Maryland Governor Assails Talk of Debt Cancellation

Eight hundred Democratic leaders and workers of Cook county acclaimed Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland when, at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday, he declared himself unalterably opposed to foreign debt cancellations.

"If we forgive the debts of other nations, then they will be transferred from the countries which owe them to the shoulders of the American taxpayers," the governor declared.

"The receipts from these debts are part of our national budget, and if our debtors do not pay them our own people must. Many well-intentioned and high minded persons favor cancelling all international obligations. They cannot be canceled."

Clayton F. Smith, Edward J. Kelly, Judge Henry Horner and other Democratic notables arose to lead the cheering at this declaration.

A Burden for Americans.

"Cancellation of debts," the governor went on, "would put the cost of the war, so far as represented by our foreign war debts, on the backs of the American people, and relieve entirely the people of other nations.

"There is another way of looking at it. The amount due this year on the foreign debts is $300,000,000, and this increases annually. If we forgive this, then we relieve our foreign competitors for the trade of the world of an obligation of $300,000,000 a year, and take over this obligation ourselves.

"Certainly the American people should not be asked to assume such burdens, unless it is clearly shown that it will be to their ultimate national interest to do so. The burden of showing that must be fully met by those who assert it."

Assails G. O. P. "Deceptions."

Mr. Ritchie opened his address with a castigation of the Republican administration for "deceiving" the American people in the face of an impending crisis."

"There is one redeeming feature about this depression," he asserted. "It has enabled the American people to see the hollowness and falsity of a good many stock political beliefs.

"Nobody believes any longer that American prosperity depends upon a Republican President and a Republican congress. No woman believes any longer that her man's job is assured if the Republican party is in power.

"Mr. Hoover in 1928 at Palo Alto said that was so, but what can he say now to the woman who asks where her man's job is?

"No wheat farmer can believe any longer that the Republican party can do much for his wheat. The farm board tried to stabilize the price of wheat by purchasing millions of bushels. Now they dare not sell for fear the market will break up altogether.

"All they can do is exchange it for some Brazilian coffee, and thus put the government in competition with industry."

PIGEONS USED IN AN EXTORTION PLOT LEAD POLICE TO GUILTY ONE

Provo, Utah, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Homing pigeons traced by police officers equipped with field glasses led to the arrest of Russell Barnett, 19, on charges of attempted extortion.

The youth confessed he had left the pigeons in a crate on the doorstep of the home of Mrs. Jesse Knight, wealthy widow, with instructions to attach $700 to the birds and release them. The demand carried a threat to blow up the home. The flyers were released by police and scattered to various lofts in the city.

Barnett was arrested while making the rounds of the lofts.

Ralph Capone, brother of Scarface Al, passed through Omaha yesterday en route from Leavenworth penitentiary to the federal prison at McNeil island, in Puget sound. Department of justice officials ordered his removal to the remote prison with a view of keeping him away from other members of the Capone gang serving penitentiary terms for income tax evasion. Capone is serving a three year term.

All asked probation. The three were arrested in two different department stores.

TAKES PRISONER TO MINNESOTA IN AN AIRPLANE

Joseph Jutland, 33 years old, was taken to the Minnesota state prison from Aurora yesterday by airplane. He was arrested there two weeks ago and identified as a prisoner who escaped from the county jail at Redwood Falls, Minn., while awaiting transportation to the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Jutland was sentenced to three and a half years' imprisonment for larceny after he had confessed stealing the bronze figurehead of the old battleship Minnesota from a Minneapolis park. He melted the bronze and sold it as junk. The figurehead had been placed in the park as a war memorial.

Sheriff L. J. Mise of Redwood county, Minnesota, was informed that Jutland was a prisoner in the Kane county jail at Geneva. He flew to Aurora in a plane piloted by Jack Robinson of Redwood Falls, with his son, Douglas Mise, as an extra guard, took the prisoner at Aurora, and flew back to the Stillwater prison.

WILD SPENDING TOLD BY CANAL PAY ROLL CREW

Twenty more pay rollers, making a total of fifty in two days, took the witness stand in Chief Justice Harry Fisher's Criminal court yesterday to testify that they did practically no public service for the sanitary district salaries they drew during the whoopee era of 1921-'22. Instead of working, they did everything, according to the testimony, from singing at political meetings to merely collecting pay checks. There was one exception. One witness did some work.

HARRY WALLACE.

The witnesses appeared for the prosecution against Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the board, and seven other trustees, former trustees, and officials of the district, who are charged with graft conspiracy. Judge John Prystalski became slightly ill and caused an early adjournment of the trial yesterday. Judge Prystalski and Judge James J. Kelly are sitting in an advisory capacity with Judge Fisher.

$51,483 to Pay Rollers.

The total money paid out to the engineering pay rollers of the district so far presented as witnesses by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup is $51,483. The total reported by the witnesses who appeared yesterday was $36,511 and that of those appearing on Monday was $45,-151.

Prior to the start of yesterday's court session Assistant State's Attorney Joe Calvin Webb announced that the prosecutor's office had possession of 110,000 pay roll checks given out by the district during the whoopee period. The approximate total of these checks is $11,000,000, he said, and he estimates that from one-fourth to one-half of the sum was wasted by payments to employes doing unnecessary work or not working at all.

The testimony yesterday showed the lax method by which the taxes allocated to the sanitary district treasury were spent during the Crowe regime. No apparent record was kept of what services, if any, the employes were performing for their pay. Two main points were stressed by nearly every prosecution witness called to the stand. They were:

1. All that was necessary to draw pay from the district treasury was a letter from a political leader, irrespective of party affiliation. Leaders of both parties from the bosses to the ward heelers were allowed to put political workers on the pay roll by the simple expedient of writing a letter.

2. Salary raises were given to employes without the asking, even though they did not work. Several of the witnesses told of these surprise pay roll advancements, which came without solicitation.

Clew to Defense Given.

An indication of the defense which probably will be made for the defendants in connection with the pay roll padding charges was given yesterday at the opening of the court session when Harry Wallace, chief deputy clerk of the district, was called as the first prosecution witness of the day. He was called by the state to examine and identify official records of the district.

Attorneys John McInerney and Albert Fink subjected Mr. Wallace to a long cross-examination. When they finished they had shown that the trustees took no more interest in the district pay roll affairs than to pass a resolution prior to each pay day, saying in effect that the money was to be paid out as long as the pay rolls were certified as correct by the department heads. The pay rolls were never directly submitted to the trustees, the witness said.

O. K.'d by Department Heads.

The district had eight departments divided into about 75 divisions, each of which had a separate pay roll, the defense attorneys brought out in their questioning of Wallace. It was the practice to have each department pay roll sanctioned by three or four minor officials in the division and then by the head of the department, acting on the information given by his subordinates, the witness said.

"It is going to be a game of passing the buck," said one of the assistant prosecutors." The trustees will pass the blame to the department head and he in turn will pass it on down the line to the subordinates, who approved the rolls."

Attorney Gets $3,150 Salary.

Attorney A. E. Patterson, colored, 4628 South Park way, who collected $3,150 in salary, was the first pay roll witness yesterday. He was questioned as follows:

Q.—Who sponsored you on the job? A.—The late George E. Brennan. [Brennan before his death was the Democratic party boss.]

Q.—Did you do any work for the district? A.—No, I reported very day, but was given no assignments.

Herman C. Vandenberg, 1743 South Paulina street, now a state oil inspector, admitted under cross-examination that Charles E. Deneen, former senator, and leader of a Republican faction, was his "real sponsor." He collected a total of $2,200 in salary. On direct examination he said that Frank J. Link, one of the defendants, was his sponsor, but after a few preliminary questions by Attorney Fink on cross-examination he was asked:

Q.—Then Senator Deneen was your real sponsor instead of Link? A.—Yes, but Senator Deneen was in Washington at that time.

How He Got the Job.

Q.—Well, just how did you get your job? A.—I had a letter from Link to Mr. Brodie in the district law department. I was sent to Link with a letter from Edward R. Litsinger's secretary.

Q.—You say you reported for work, but didn't get any assignments? You did expect to work when you got the job. A.—O, yes sir.

Emmet T. Flood, 6128 North Francisco avenue, a labor leader, who got $2,443 from the sanitary district treasury for doing nothing more than reporting for work, said that he was sent for by the late Mr. Brennan and offered a job.

Q.—How did you get your position? A.—Mr. Brennan sent for me and told me there was a vacancy in the real estate department. He offered me the position and I accepted. He gave me a letter to Trustee Crowe and I was told to report to Mr. Brodie in the law department.

Q.—Did you perform any services for the district? A.—I reported every day for the purpose of being assigned, but never was.

Q.—Did you expect to perform some services for the district? A.—Most certainly. Mr. Brennan gave me the outline of the job I was to get, but I was never given any assignments.

Gets Raise Without Asking.

Harry J. Orvis, 2514 Pioneer road, Evanston, who was sponsored for his job by Judge William V. Brothers of the Circuit court, was one of those who testified to getting an unsolicited raise. He collected $1,500 in salary for reporting occasionally, he testified. His salary was raised from $300 a month to $350.

Q.—Were you surprised when your salary was raised? A.—I guess I was, because I didn't ask for it or expect it.

John O'Connor, Oak Lawn, brother of a Democratic ward committeeman, testified that he did nothing for three years, 1925-1928, but collected $9,552. He was first listed as a patrolman, he said, and later as a water surveyor.

This Pay Roller Works a Little.

Carl N. Eberhardt, 7512 Michigan boulevard, a Deneen precinct worker, said he did some work for his two months' salary of $366.

Q.—Did you do any work? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What was that you said? A.—I said, yes, I did a little. A Miss Moran took us out for 10 days or two weeks and told us to go into homes in a certain district and ask if they had water meters.

Q.—And that is all the work you did in the two months? A.—No, another day or two, during the election campaign, I addressed some envelopes.

Q.—That was for political matter to be mailed to the voters, I suppose. A.—We did not see what was put in the envelopes.

On Three Pay Rolls at Once.

Dr. George Kruk, 2021 West 22d street, was on three pay rolls at the same time. He worked for the district for six weeks for $200 and at the same time was a city school physician and also on the public welfare pay roll. He did no work except to report.

Charles Young, 1538 East 53d street, a musician, did some singing at political meetings for his $200. He testified that he applied for a singing job at the Democratic headquarters in the Hotel Sherman.

Q.—Did you ever do any work for the sanitary district? A.—No, but I went over there when it was time to get paid.

Q.—Who told you to go over to the sanitary district for your pay for singing? A.—The man who hired me in the Sherman. I do not know his name.

"You are a tenor, I suppose," remarked Attorney Fink for cross-examination.

Other Witnesses Listed.

Among the other pay roll witnesses and their sponsors were:

Rudolph A. Kadera, 2700 South Trumbull avenue, a soft drink parlor owner; Trustee W. Miller, one of the defendants.

Peter Mandeos, 1302 West Taylor street; State Senator Leonardo Mandeos was one of those entered as unsolicited raise.

Ike Goldstein, 5457 Woodlawn avenue, an auto salesman; Charles Erickson, former member of the board of review.

Richard Wolff, 14606 Avenue J, a carpenter; Oscar Wolff, former coroner.

Lawrence Bonchkit, 924 North Austin avenue; sponsored by a Democratic ward committeeman.

Herbert S. Hoe, Lemont, Ill., no sponsor given.

Bernard Miller, 3027 South Kedvale avenue; William Lee, Deneen ward committeeman.

Sam Gottow, 924 North Cahlwell avenue; no sponsor given.

George E. Berge, 4362 North Rockwell street; George E. Brennan as James M. Whalen, one of the defendants.

William A. Uhlir, 634 South Central Park avenue, a teamster; by Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney.

The prosecution said fifty or more former pay rollers would take the witness stand today.

Loan Office Raided on Claim of 360% Interest

A squad from the racket bureau raided the office of Neal & Co., alleged loan sharks of 400 South State street, yesterday and arrested Alber Way, manager, and James Miller, assistant manager. The concern has been charging borrowers 30 per cent monthly, according to Assistant State's Attorney Donald L. Thompson. The prisoners will be arraigned in Felony court today.

Tax Board Veteran Reveals 1905 Agreement with Banks

William H. Weber, who for thirty-one years was a member of the board of assessors or board of review, took the witness stand yesterday before County Judge Jarecki and described, amiably, an agreement made by the assessors and loop banks in 1905 under which trust estates were assessed at 4 per cent of their actual values. That was one-sixth of the rate provided by law at that time.

Weber's testimony was given in the suit to invalidate the 1928 and 1929 assessments in Cook county because of alleged failure to assess vast amounts of personal property.

Evidence in the case, a test action for 2,000 other suits, will be concluded tomorrow. Judge Jarecki said he would give his decision on Dec. 18 at the latest. His ruling will have an important effect on plans for financial relief of Cook county now being discussed by the legislature.

Veteran of Taxiez Machine.

Weber became a member of the board of assessors in 1899, when the present system of assessment and review was started. He left that job in 1924 when he was elected to the board of review. He was defeated for reelection in 1930. He described the system for assessing trust estates, now worth more than $2,000,000,000, in answer to questions by Attorney Morris Schaefer.

"Until 1905 trust funds held by banks were not assessed," Weber said. "In that year we called in the bankers and told them we would have to have some assessment on the funds. They replied that they could not compete with banks in other cities, so we made a deal.

"They agreed to schedule trust funds at one-sixth of the value of the property. We applied the equalization factor, which was then 13 per cent, to that, so the funds were really assessed at one twenty-fourth of their real value.

Reviewers Make Further Cut.

"But when those figures went to the board of review, they wouldn't let them stand. They made the scheduled figures one-tenth instead of one-sixth, which cut the assessments to 1¾ per cent of full value."

"What did you think of the reviewers' action?" asked Attorney Schaefer.

"When I was an assessor I thought their deductions extreme, but when I got into the board of review," the witness smiled, "they didn't seem so extreme."

Figures previously introduced as evidence in the suit showed that at present trust funds administered by banks are assessed at less than 1 per cent of their full value, as compared to the 37 per cent equalization factor used for real estate.

FINDS HOMICIDES DROP AS RESULT OF VICE DRIVE

The campaign against gambling and vice in the Wabash avenue police district has also resulted in a 75 per cent decrease in homicides in that district during the last two months, Capt. John Stege, its commander, reported yesterday in a letter to Mayor Cermak.

The district, which is preponderantly colored, had an average of 13.6 homicides during October and November, from 1928 to 1930. During October and November, 1931, the period in which Capt. Stege started to act as commander at Wabash avenue, there were only four killings.

"About 90 per cent of the homicides are over gambling or in disreputable resorts," he stated. "It is quite evident that the successful drive which has been instituted to rid the community of policy shops and vice resorts has relieved this appalling loss of life."

Since the drive on policy games and vice was started, robbery complaints in the district have fallen off 12 per cent and burglaries have dropped 45 per cent, Capt. Stege reported.

NO STATE TAX RATE INCREASE, BOARD DECIDES

Action Indicates Slash in Pay Rolls.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The present state tax rate of 39 cents will be continued for 1931 taxes, the tax levy board decided tonight. Apparently authoritative reports stated last week that it would be increased to 44 cents, but the board—Gov. Emmerson, State Treasurer Barrett, and State Auditor Nelson—emerged from their two hour conference to say that it would remain the same.

The governor and Mr. Barrett held to that contention all through the discussion, but Mr. Nelson, it was reported, favored a higher rate. The auditor made the board's formal announcement to reporters when the meeting was over, saying grimly, "This must mean economy."

Calls Economy Conference.

To meet the situation created by a fall in the state's assessed valuation of 170 million dollars—from $3,174,000,000 to $3,004,000,000—and the resulting cut in revenue, the governor called a conference of officials and his department heads for Tuesday when a stringent program of curtailment in appropriations will be instituted.

While the rate remains the same, two changes were made in the makeup of the total. The general revenue fund rate was decreased from 18 cents to 14 cents, and the state school distributive fund was increased from 12½ to 13½ cents.

Pay Rolls May Be Slashed.

The other divisions are as follows: Soldiers' compensation, 5¼ cents; Illinois waterway, 1 2-3 cents; University of Illinois, 3 1-3 cents, and blind relief, 1 cent.

"If some new revenue isn't found," said Mr. Barrett, after the meeting, "the pay rolls will have to be cut for the general revenue fund is hard hit. We must also remember that waterway bonds and interest totaling $1,160,000 will be due Jan. 1, 1932, and soldiers' compensation bonds and interest of $4,228,913 come due in August.

"If the state could collect all that Cook county owes it the school fund would about break even. As it is, and looking optimistically at the figures on my desk, it appears that all the funds will be down to rock bottom."

PERU ACCLAIMS SANCHEZ CERRO AT INAUGURAL

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro was inaugurated as president of Peru today in a ceremony before the house of congress. He took the oath of office from the speaker and had the presidential sash, a wide silk ribbon with the Peruvian flag in colors, placed on his chest. The galleries set up a din of applause and cheers.

It was a triumphant return for the man who was chiefly responsible for the overthrow of President Augusto B. Leguia in August, 1930.

FREE CRITICISMS IN PRESS UPHELD BY HIGH COURT

Libel Suit Against Editor Fails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Where possible, libel suits should be decided in favor of free criticism and discussion, the Wisconsin Supreme court declared today in ruling against Henry J. Grell's libel suit against H. D. Hoard and Laus, publishers of the Jefferson County Union.

Grell is county highway commissioner, and the paper has been carrying on a systematic campaign against roadside ditches as built in the county and elsewhere.

The paper contended the roadside ditches were death traps and referred to the highway commissioner as a "killer." The Supreme court held that the paper did not intend to ridicule Grell, but was attempting to arouse the public against the dangerous ditches. The court then held that in case of doubt the question of libel should be resolved in favor of free criticism and discussion.

University of Wisconsin professors cannot recover taxes paid on income from copyright books, although the United States Supreme court held that income from royalties on United States patents cannot be taxed by the states.

The state Supreme court held today that in view of the fact that the taxes had been paid without protest the claims for refunds did not comply with the Wisconsin statutes for the recovery of tax money.

The test case was brought by four university professors, although others have similar claims that would have been pressed had the court held the claims valid. The action was brought by E. A. Ross, R. H. Whitbeck, F. H. Elwell and W. W. Hart.

Honor Sanborn

More than 1,000 veterans and members of the 131st infantry of the Illinois National Guard, once known as the "Dandy First," attended the fourth annual reunion and homecoming last night at the armory at Michigan avenue and 16th street. The event marked the fifty-seventh anniversary of the organization of the regiment and was also a birthday party for Lieut. Gen. Joseph B. Sanborn, war time colonel of the regiment, who celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday yesterday.

Cafe Owner Slain; Rival Liquor Dealer Suspected

The jealousy of a rival liquor dealer was suggested by police last night as a possible motive for the murder of Ferdinand Baldini, 53 years old, proprietor of the Tyrol restaurant, 2443 West Madison street, whose body was found early yesterday in front of his home, 2940 West Madison street. His skull had been crushed. An employe of the restaurant admitted yesterday that Baldini had been selling liquor.

SCHOOL BUDGET MUST BE REDUCED BY 12 MILLIONS

Proposed Expenditures Exceed Revenue.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A cut next year of $12,440,695 in school expenditures will be suggested by Auditor H. H. Brackett and Business Manager Ernest Whithall to the board of education today. This cut will be necessary, if the board lives within its income, judging by present prospects. That the reduction is necessary is shown in the budget estimates, which show an increase, and an estimate of probable income, which shows a decrease.

The city contemplates a reduction of $9,544,000 in its 1932 corporate expenditures, or about 14 per cent. The county board plans a decrease of $2,100,000 in its expenses, or approximately 12½ per cent. The school board has not yet indicated its intentions, but expressions from some of its trustees are expected at its session today.

Predict Decreased Revenue.

After casting up a revenue estimate on the hypothesis that the 1930 valuations will be equal to those of 1930, the auditor and business manager say:

"But it is generally conceded that the 1931 quadrennial assessed valuation for real estate will be approximately 20 per cent less than for 1929. The city controller estimates the assessed valuation for 1931 at 20 per cent less for real estate, making a total valuation of real and personal property for 1931 of $3,278,397,868, as compared with $3,694,498,706 for 1929, or a reduction of $416,100,838."

On that basis of estimating the board's 1932 income the proposed appropriations would exceed the resources by $12,440,695. In providing for a reduction of this amount $8,156,784 is to come out of the educational fund and $4,276,192 out of the board's building fund.

Compare Appropriations.

The auditor and business manager submit comparisons of proposed appropriations for this year with those proposed for 1932. Such a comparison exclusive of liabilities of former years, follows:

Fund.	Appropriations for 1931.	1932.
Educational	$53,734,563	$ 54,871,221
Free text books	1,211,253	1,256,563
Building	25,900,659	20,137,391
Playgrounds	1,241,629	1,259,007
Teachers' pensions	826,629	1,350,019
Debt service	13,871,263	13,626,226
Totals	$96,612,923	$101,553,600

This shows a boost of $4,940,767 in proposed appropriations for next year, with a probable decrease of 14 per cent in taxes.

In direct salaries the regular teachers received an appropriation this year of $38,378,228, as compared with an estimated $39,895,513 for 1932. Special teachers received appropriations this year for $1,107,350 and are scheduled for $1,055,000 next year. Salaries of civil service employes are to be reduced from $3,507,089 to $3,468,267.

A comparison between the 1931 teachers' salaries and the 1932 estimates follows:

Group—	1931.	1932.
Educ. administration	$ 443,622	$ 422,805
Dental instruction	14,400	14,400
Parental school	127,842	81,580
Normal college	265,905	286,920
Crane college	532,730	545,100
Continuation school	605,385	471,763
Senior high schools	10,482,878	11,905,894
Junior high schools	3,186,304	2,861,949
Element. day school	22,719,114	22,360,390

On the comparison of the auditor, it appears that the school authorities expect a large increase in the senior and junior high schools and in the Crane Junior college.

DAIRYMEN PROTEST AGAINST LOWERING OF MILK INCOME

Dairy farmers supplying milk for Chicago and nearby cities protested yesterday against lowering of the prices paid to them for their milk. The protests came as a conference of milk dealers and Pure Milk association officials, representing the farmers, ended a second day of price discussion without coming to a decision.

An announcement was made that a city council subcommittee would begin a hearing today on the price of milk. The inquiry is pursuant to a resolution of Ald. John F. Healy last June. The views of the dairy farmers at the conference were represented by the following statement by Bruce McClellan, secretary of the Delavan, Wis., dairymen's group: "Farmers accepted more than their share of the cut in milk prices last January; and dealers should certainly accept the greater share of any cut made now. In Milwaukee, where milk is 9 cents, dealers must have a more efficient system of distribution than in Chicago with its 13 cents, for farmers supplying both markets are paid about the same.

Dr. Arthur E. Holt, University of Chicago professor, who recently made a survey of the Chicago rural area, said: "It would be an outrage for the public to countenance any further reduction of income to dairymen. I know at first hand that farmers have added heavy investments to improve Chicago's milk supply and they require a certain income to assure a continued high quality."

REVEAL "MERCY" VICTIM WAS NOT CRITICALLY ILL

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Else Wille Bang collapsed in her prison cell today when police informed her that an examination of the exhumed body of her mother, the Baroness von Dueben, revealed she had not been critically ill before she died of an overdose of medicine administered by the daughter.

Mrs. Bang made a voluntary confession last week that she had given her mother a fatal overdose of medicine to put an end to her mother's suffering from an incurable disease.

An attorney for Mrs. Bang said she was physically and mentally unfit to face a cross-examination which is scheduled for Saturday.

CLARA BOW AT LAST ADMITS SHE'S MRS. BELL

Beverly Hills, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Clara Bow admitted here today the marriage which her new husband, Rex Bell, cowboy film actor, has been denying in Nevada.

The movie actress came here from Bell's ranch near the California-Nevada line, where she has been for several months convalescing from a breakdown.

"We were married in Las Vegas last week, but we tried to keep it a secret for a while so that we could have a bit of privacy," she said. "We are very, very happy, but I sure wish they would give us a break and let a couple of honeymooners alone.

"We thought we had fooled everybody, but discovered our mistake."

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

HOOVER ASKS "EMERGENCY TAX INCREASE," TO LAST 2 YEARS

URGES FEDERAL CREDIT POOL TO HELP BUSINESS

Warns Against Tinkering with Tariff.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(A)—The text of President Hoover's message to the congress follows:

"To the senate and house of representatives:

"It is my duty under the constitution to transmit to the congress information on the state of the Union and to recommend for its consideration necessary and expedient measures.

"The chief influence affecting the state of the Union during the past year has been the continued world-wide economic disturbance. Our national concern has been to meet the emergencies it has created for us and to lay the foundations for recovery.

"If we lift our vision beyond these immediate emergencies we find fundamental national gains even amid depression. In meeting the problems of this difficult period, we have witnessed a remarkable development of the sense of coöperation in the community. For the first time in the history of our major economic depressions there has been a notable absence of public disorders and industrial conflict.

"Above all there is an enlargement of social and spiritual responsibility among the people. The strains and stresses upon business have resulted in closer application, in saner policies, and in better methods. Public improvements have been carried out on a larger scale than even in normal times.

Richer than Ever.

"The country is richer in physical property, in newly discovered resources, and in productive capacity than ever before. There has been consistent gain in knowledge and education; there has been continuous advance in science and invention; there has been distinct gain in public health.

"Business depressions have been recurrent in the life of our country and are but transitory. The nation has emerged from each of them with increased strength and virility because of the enlightenment they have brought, the readjustments and the larger understanding of the realities and obligations of life and work which come from them."

ARMY AND NAVY

Want Further Reductions in Armaments by Great Powers.

NATIONAL DEFENSE—"Both our army and navy have been maintained in a high state of efficiency. The ability and devotion of both officers and men sustain the highest traditions of the service. Reductions and postponements in expenditure of these departments to meet the present emergency are being made without reducing existing personnel or impairing the morale of either establishment.

"The agreement of the leading naval powers for limitation of naval armaments and establishment of their relative strength and thus elimination of competitive building also implies for ourselves the gradual expansion of the deficient categories in our navy to the parities provided in those treaties. However, none of the other nations, parties to these agreements, is today maintaining the full rate of construction which the treaty size of fleets would imply.

"Although these agreements secured the maximum reduction of fleets which it was at that time possible to attain, I am hopeful that the naval powers, party to these agreements, will realise that establishment of relative strength in itself offers opportunity for further reduction without injury to any of them.

"This would be the more possible if pending negotiations are successful between France and Italy. If the world is to regain its standards of life, it must further decrease both naval and other arms. The subject will come before the general disarmament conference which meets in Geneva on Feb. 2 next.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

Europe's Difficulties Blamed in Large Part for U. S. Depression.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS—"We are at peace with the world. We have cooperated with other nations to preserve peace. The rights of our citizens abroad have been protected.

"The economic depression has continued and deepened in every part of the world during the last year. In many countries political instability, excessive armaments, debts, governmental expenditures, and taxes have resulted in revolutions, in unbalanced budgets, and monetary collapse and financial panics, in dumping of goods upon world markets, and in diminished consumption of commodities.

"Within two years there have been revolutions or acute social disorders in 19 countries, embracing more than half the population of the world. Ten countries have been unable to meet their external obligations. In 14 countries, embracing a quarter of the world's population, former monetary standards have been temporarily abandoned.

"In a number of countries there have been acute financial panics or compulsory restraints upon banking.

Outgrowths of World War.

"These disturbances have many roots in the dislocations from the world war. Every one of them has reacted upon us. They have sharply affected the markets and prices of our agricultural and industrial products. They have increased unemployment and greatly embarrassed our financial and credit system.

"As our difficulties during the last year have plainly originated in large degree from these sources, any effort to bring about our own recuperation has dictated the necessity of coöperation by us with other nations in reasonable effort to restore world confidence and economic stability.

"Coöperation of our federal reserve system and our banks with the central banks in foreign countries has contributed to localize and ameliorate a number of serious financial crises or moderate the pressures upon us, and thus avert disasters which would have affected us.

"The economic crisis in Germany and central Europe last June rose to the dimensions of a general panic, from which it was apparent that, without assistance, these nations must collapse. Apprehensions of such collapse had demoralized our agricultural and security markets and so threatened other nations as to impose further dangers upon us.

U. S. Coöperation Imperative.

"But of highest importance was the necessity of coöperation on our part to relieve the people of Germany from imminent disasters and to maintain their important relations to progress and stability in the world. Upon the initiative of this government a year's postponement of reparations and other intergovernmental debts was brought about. Upon our further initiative an agreement was made by Germany's private creditors providing for an extension of such credits until the German people can develop more permanent and definite forms of relief.

"We have continued our policy of withdrawing our marines from Haiti and Nicaragua.

"The difficulties between China and Japan have given us great concern, not alone for the maintenance of the spirit of the Kellogg-Briand pact, but for the maintenance of the treaties, to which we are a party, assuring the territorial integrity of China. It is our purpose to assist in finding solutions sustaining the full spirit of those treaties.

"I shall deal at greater length with our foreign relations in a later message.

THE DOMESTIC SCENE

Unified Action Meeting Problems of Slump.

THE DOMESTIC SITUATION—"Many undertakings have been organized and forwarded during the past year to meet the new and changing emergencies which have constantly confronted us.

"Broadly the community has cooperated to meet the needs of honest distress, and to take such emergency measures as would sustain confidence in our financial system and would cushion the violence of liquidation in industry and commerce, thus giving time for orderly readjustment of costs, inventories, and credits without panic and widespread bankruptcy. These measures have served those purposes and will promote recovery.

"In these measures we have striven to mobilize and stimulate private initiative and local and community responsibility. There has been the least possible government entry into the economic field, and that only in temporary and emergency form. Our citizens and our local governments have given a magnificent display of unity and action, initiative and patriotism in solving a multitude of difficulties and in coöperating with the federal government.

Reviews Relief Activities.

"For a proper understanding of my recommendations to the congress it is desirable very briefly to review such activities during the past year.

"The emergencies of unemployment have been met by action in many directions. The appropriations for the continued speeding up of the great federal construction program have provided direct and indirect aid to employment upon a large scale. By organized unity of action, the states and municipalities have also maintained large programs of public improvement. Many industries have been prevailed upon to anticipate and intensify construction. Industrial concerns and other employers have been organized to spread available work amongst all their employees, instead of discharging a portion of them.

"A large majority have maintained wages at as high levels as the safe conduct of their business would permit. This course has saved us from industrial conflict and disorder which have characterized all previous depressions.

"Immigration has been curtailed by administrative action. Upon the basis of normal immigration the decrease amounts to about 300,000 individuals who otherwise would have been added to our unemployment.

Nation Feeding Jobless.

"The expansion of federal employment agencies under appropriations by the congress has proved most effective. Through the President's organization for unemployment relief, public and private agencies were successfully mobilized last winter to provide employment and other measures against distress. Similar organization gives assurance against suffering during the coming winter. Committees of leading citizens are now active at practically every point of unemployment. In the large majority they have been assured the funds necessary which, together with local government aids, will meet the situation. A few exceptional localities will be further organized.

"The evidence of the public health service shows an actual decrease of sickness and infant and general mortality below normal years. No greater proof could be adduced that our people have been protected from hunger and cold and that the sense of social responsibility in the nation has responded to the need of the unfortunate.

"To meet the emergencies in agriculture the loans authorized by congress for rehabilitation in the drought areas have enabled farmers to produce abundant crops in those districts. The Red Cross undertook and magnificently administered relief for over 2,500,000 drought sufferers last winter. It has undertaken this year to administer relief to 100,000 sufferers in the new drought area of certain northwest states.

PRAISES FARM BOARD

Says Overproduction Partly Defeated Its Efforts.

"The action of the federal farm board in granting credits to farm cooperatives saved many of them from bankruptcy and increased their purpose and strength. By enabling farm coöperatives to cushion the fall in prices of farm products in 1930 and 1931 the board secured higher prices to the farmer than would have been obtained otherwise, although the benefits of this action were partially defeated by continued world overproduction. Incident to this action the failure of a large number of farmers and of country banks was averted, which could quite possibly have spread into a major disaster.

"The banks in the south have cooperated with the farm board in creation of a pool for the better marketing of accumulated cotton. Growers have been materially assisted by this action. Constant effort has been made to reduce overproduction in relief of agriculture and to promote the foreign buying of agricultural products by sustaining economic stability abroad.

Big Credit Pool Formed.

"To meet our domestic emergencies in credit and banking arising from the reaction to acute crises abroad, the National Credit association was set up by the banks with resources of $500,000,000 to support sound banks against the frightened withdrawals and hoarding. It is giving aid to reopen solvent banks which have been closed. Federal officials have brought about many beneficial unions of banks and have employed other means which have prevented many bank closings. As a result of these measures the hoarding withdrawals, which had risen to over $250,000,000 per week after the British crisis, have substantially ceased.

"Major economic forces and weaknesses at home and abroad have now been exposed and can be appraised, and the time is ripe for forward action to expedite our recovery.

"Although some of the causes of our depression are due to speculation, inflation of securities and real estate, unsound foreign investments, and mismanagement of financial institutions, yet our self-contained national economy, with its matchless strength and resources, would have enabled us to recover long since but for the continued dislocations, shocks, and setbacks from abroad.

Credit Is Paralyzed.

"Whatever the causes may be, the vast liquidation and readjustments which have taken place have left us with a large degree of credit paralysis, which, together with the situation in our railways and the conditions abroad, are now the outstanding obstacles to recuperation. If we can put our financial resources to work and can ameliorate the financial situation in the railways, I am confident we can make a large measure of recovery, independent of the rest of the world. A strong America is the highest contribution to world stability.

"One phase of the credit situation is indicated in the banks. During the last year banks representing 2 per cent of our total deposits have been closed. A large part of these failures have been caused by withdrawals for hoarding, as distinguished from the failures early in the depression, where weakness due to mismanagement was the larger cause of failure. Despite their closing, many of them will pay in full.

"Although such withdrawals have practically ceased, yet $1,100,000,000 of currency was previously withdrawn which has still to return to circulation. This represents a large reduction of the ability of our banks to extend credit which would otherwise fertilize industry and agriculture.

PLEADS FOR CONFIDENCE

Says Apprehension Has Brought about Partial Credit Paralysis.

Furthermore, many of our bankers, in order to prepare themselves to meet possible withdrawals, have felt compelled to call in loans, to refuse new credits, and to realize upon securities, which in turn has demoralized the markets.

"The paralysis has been further augmented by the steady increase in recent years of the proportion of bank assets invested in long-term securities, such as mortgages and bonds. These securities tend to lose their liquidity in depression, or temporarily to fall in value, so that the ability of the banks to meet the shock of sudden withdrawals is greatly lessened and the restriction of all kinds of credit is thereby increased. The continuing credit paralysis has operated to accentuate the deflation and liquidation of commodities, real estate, and securities below any reasonable basis of values.

"All of this tends to stifle business, especially the smaller units, and finally expresses itself in further depression of prices and values, in restriction on new enterprise and in increased unemployment.

Have Confidence, He Urges.

"The situation largely arises from an unjustified lack of confidence. We have enormous volumes of idle money in the banks and in hoarding. We do not require more money or working capital—we need to put what we have to work.

"The fundamental difficulties which have brought about financial strains in foreign countries do not exist in the United States. No external drain on our resources can threaten our position, because the balance of international payments is in our favor; we owe less to foreign countries than they owe to us; our industries are efficiently organized; our currency and bank deposits are protected by the greatest gold reserve in history.

"Our first step toward recovery is to reëstablish confidence and thus restore the flow of credit which is the very basis of our economic life. We must put some steel beams in the foundations of our credit structure. It is our duty to apply the full strength of our government not only to the immediate phases, but to provide security against shocks and the repetition of the weaknesses which have been proven.

Proposes Remedial Measures.

"The recommendations which I here lay before the congress are designed to meet these needs by strengthening financial, industrial, and agricultural life through the medium of our existing institutions, and thus to avoid the entry of the government into competition with private business.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT FINANCE—"The first requirement of confidence and of economic recovery is financial stability of the United States government. I shall deal with fiscal questions at greater length in the budget message. But I must at this time call attention to the magnitude of the deficits which have developed and the resulting necessity for determined and courageous policies.

"These deficits arise in the main from the heavy decrease in tax receipts due to the depression and to the increase in expenditure on construction in aid to unemployment, aids to agriculture, and upon services to veterans.

"During the fiscal year ending June 30 last we incurred a deficit of about $903,000,000, which included the statutory reduction of the debt and represented an increase of the national debt by $616,000,000. Of this, however, $153,000,000 is offset by increased cash balances.

THAT 2 BILLION DEFICIT

Temporary Tax Increase to End in Two Years Suggested.

"In comparison with the fiscal year 1928 there is indicated a fall in federal receipts for the present fiscal year amounting to $1,683,000,000, of which $1,034,000,000 is in individual and corporate income taxes alone. During this fiscal year there will be an increased expenditure, as compared to 1928, on veterans of $255,000,000, and an increased expenditure on construction work which may reach $520,000,000.

"Despite large economies in other directions, we have an indicated deficit, including the statutory retirement of the debt, of $2,123,000,000, and an indicated net debt increase of about $1,711,000,000.

"The budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, after allowing for some increase of taxes under the present laws and after allowing for drastic reduction in expenditures, still indicates a deficit of $1,417,000,000. After offsetting the statutory debt retirements this would indicate an increase in the national debt for the fiscal year 1933 of about $921,000,000.

"Several conclusions are inevitable. We must have insistent and determined reduction in government expenses. We must face a temporary increase in taxes. Such increase should not cover the whole of these deficits or it will retard recovery. We must partially finance the deficit by borrowing. It is my view that the amount of taxation should be fixed so as to balance the budget for 1933 except for the statutory debt retirement. Such government receipts would assure the balance of the following year's budget including debt retirement.

For Two Years Only.

"It is my further view that the additional taxation should be imposed solely as an emergency measure terminating definitely two years from July 1 next. Such a basis will give confidence in the determination of the government to stabilize its finances and will assure taxpayers of its temporary character. Even with increased taxation, the government will reach the utmost safe limit of its borrowing capacity by the expenditures for which we are already obligated and the recommendations here proposed. To go further than these limits in either expenditures, taxes, or borrowing will destroy confidence, denude commerce and industry of its resources, jeopardize the financial system, and actually extend unemployment and demoralize agriculture rather than relieve it.

FEDERAL LAND BANKS—"I recommend that the congress authorize the subscription by the treasury of further capital to the Federal Land banks, to be retired as provided in the original act, or when funds are available, and that repayments of such capital be treated as a fund available for further subscriptions in the same manner.

"It is urgent that the banks be supported so as to stabilize the market values of their bonds and thus secure capital for the farmers at low rates, that they may continue their services to agriculture and that they may meet the present situation with consideration to the farmers.

Problem of Closed Banks.

DEPOSITS IN CLOSED BANKS—"A method should be devised to make available quickly to depositors some portion of their deposits in closed banks as the assets of such banks may warrant. Such provision would go far to relieve distress in a multitude of families, would stabilize values in many communities, and would liberate working capital to thousands of concerns. I recommend that measures be enacted promptly to accomplish these results and I suggest that the congress should consider the development of such a plan through the Federal Reserve banks.

HOME LOAN DISCOUNT BANKS—"I recommend the establishment of a system of home loan discount banks as the necessary companion in our financial structure of the Federal Reserve banks and our Federal Land banks. Such action will relieve present distressing pressures against home and farm property owners. It will relieve pressure upon and give added strength to building and loan associations, savings banks, and deposit banks engaged in extending such credits. Such action would further decentralize our credit structure. It would revive residential construction and employment. It would enable such loaning institutions more effectually to promote home ownership.

"I discussed this plan at some length in a statement made public Nov. 14 last. This plan has been warmly indorsed by the recent national conference upon home ownership and housing, whose members were designated by the governor of the states and the groups interested.

FEDERAL FINANCE CORP.

Wants Emergency Banking Unit Modeled on War Finance Body.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION—"In order that the public may be absolutely assured and that the government may be in position to meet any public necessity, I recommend that an emergency reconstruction corporation of the nature of the former war finance corporation should be established. It may not be necessary to use such an instrumentality very extensively. The very existence of such a bulwark will strengthen confidence.

"The treasury should be authorized to subscribe a reasonable capital to it, and it should be given authority to issue its own debentures. It should be placed in liquidation at the end of two years.

"Its purpose is that by strengthening the weak spots, to thus liberate the full strength of the nation's resources. It should be in position to facilitate exports by American agencies; make advances to agricultural credit agencies where necessary to protect and aid the agricultural industry; to make temporary advances upon proper securities to established industries, railways, and financial institutions which cannot otherwise secure credit, and where such advances will protect the credit structure and stimulate employment. Its functions would not overlap those of the National Credit corporation.

Federal Reserve Changes.

FEDERAL RESERVE ELIGIBILITY—"On Oct. 6 I issued a statement that I should recommend to the congress an extension during emergencies of the eligibility provisions in the federal reserve act. This statement was approved by a representative gathering of the members of both houses of the congress, including members of the appropriate committees. It was approved by the officials of the treasury department, and I understand such an extension has been approved by a majority of the governors of the federal reserve banks. Nothing should be done which would lower the safeguards of the system.

The establishment of the mortgage discount banks herein referred to will also contribute to further reserve strength in the banks without inflation.

BANKING LAWS—"Our people have a right to a banking system in which their deposits shall be safeguarded and the flow of credit less subject to storms. The need of a sounder system is plainly shown by the extent of bank failures. I recommend the prompt improvement of the banking laws. Changed financial conditions and commercial practices must be met. The congress should investigate the need for separation between different kinds of banking; an enlargement of branch banking under proper restriction; and the methods by which enlarged membership in the federal reserve system may be brought about.

Postal Savings Increase.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS—"The postal savings deposits have increased from about $200,000,000 to about $550,000,000 during the last year. This experience has raised important practical questions in relation to deposits and investments which should receive the attention of congress.

RAILROAD PROBLEM

Carriers Must Be Given Opportunity to Pull Out of Slump.

RAILWAYS—"The railways present one of our immediate and pressing problems. They are and must remain the backbone of our transportation system. Their prosperity is interrelated with the prosperity of all industries. Their fundamental service in transportation, the volume of their employment, their buying power for supplies from other industries, the enormous investment in their securities, particularly their bonds, by insurance companies, savings banks, benevolent and other trusts, all reflect their partnership in the whole economic fabric. Through these institutions the railway bonds are in a large sense the investment of every family.

"The well maintained and successful operation and the stability of railway finances are of primary importance to economic recovery. They should have more effective opportunity to reduce operating costs by proper consolidation. As their rates must be regulated in public interest, so also approximate regulation should be applied to competing services by some authority. The methods of their regulation should be revised. The interstate commerce commission has made important and far reaching recommendations upon the whole subject, which I commend to the early consideration of the congress.

The Anti-Trust Laws.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS—"In my message of a year ago I commented on the necessity of congressional inquiry into the economic action of the anti-trust laws. There is wide conviction that some change should be made, especially in the procedure under these laws. I do not favor their repeal. Such action would open wide the door to price fixing, monopoly, and destruction of healthy competition.

"Particular attention should be given to the industries founded upon natural resources, especially where destructive competition produces great wastes of these resources and brings great hardships upon operators, employés, and the public. In recent years there has been continued demoralization in the bituminous coal, oil, and lumber industries. I again commend the matter to the consideration of the congress.

UNEMPLOYMENT—"As an aid to unemployment, the federal government is engaged in the greatest program of public building, harbor, flood control, highway, waterway, aviation, merchant and naval ship construction in all history. Our expenditures on these works during this calendar year will reach about $780,000,000, compared with $260,000,000 in 1928. Through this increased construction, through the maintenance of a full complement of federal employés, and through services to veterans it is estimated that the federal taxpayer is now directly contributing to the livelihood of 10,000,000 of our citizens.

Urges Voluntary Measures.

"We must avoid burdens upon the government which will create more unemployment in private industry than can be gained by further expansion of employment by the federal government. We can now stimulate employment and agriculture more effectually and speedily through the voluntary measures in progress, through the thawing out of credit, through the building up of stability abroad, through the home loan discount banks, through an emergency finance corporation, and the rehabilitation of the railways and other such directions.

"I am opposed to any direct or indirect government dole. The breakdown and increased unemployment in Europe is due in part to such practices. Our people are provided against distress from unemployment in true American fashion by a magnificent response to public appeal and by action of the local governments.

GENERAL LEGISLATION—"There are many other subjects requiring legislative action at this session of the congress. I may list the following among them:

MONEY FOR VETERANS

200 Millions More Needed to Carry Out Bonus Loans.

VETERANS' SERVICES—"The law enacted last March authorizing loans of 50 per cent upon adjusted service certificates has, together with the loans made under previous laws, resulted in payments of about $1,260,000,000. Appropriations have been exhausted. The administrators of veterans' affairs advise that a further appropriation of $300,000,000 is required at once to meet the obligations made necessary by existing legislation.

"There will be demands for further veterans' legislation; there are inequalities in our system of veterans' relief; it is our national duty to meet our obligations to those who have served the nation. But our present expenditure upon these services now exceeds $1,000,000,000 per annum. I am opposed to any extension of these expenditures until the country has recovered from the present situation.

ELECTRICAL POWER REGULATION—"I have recommended in previous messages the effective regulation of interstate electrical power as the essential function of the reorganized federal power commission. I renew the recommendation. It is urgently needed in public protection.

Muscle Shoals Once More.

MUSCLE SHOALS—"At my suggestion, the governors and legislatures of Alabama and Tennessee selected three members each for service on a committee to which I appointed a representative of the farm organizations and two representatives of the war department for the purpose of recommending a plan for disposal of these properties which would be in the interest of the people of those states and the agricultural industry throughout the country. I shall transmit the recommendations to the congress.

REORGANIZATION OF FEDERAL DEPARTMENTS—"I have referred in previous messages to the profound need of further reorganization and consolidation of federal administrative functions to eliminate overlap and waste, and to enable coördination and definition of government policies now wholly impossible in scattered and conflicting agencies which deal with parts of the same major function. I shall lay before the congress further recommendations upon this subject, particularly in relation to the department of the interior. There are two directions of such reorganization, however, which have an important bearing upon the emergency problems with which we are confronted.

Shipping Board an Example.

SHIPPING BOARD—"At present the shipping board exercises large administrative functions independent of the executive. These administrative functions should be transferred to the department of commerce, in keeping with that single responsibility which has been the basis of our governmental structure since its foundation. There should be created in that department a position of assistant secretary for merchant marine, under whom this work and the several bureaus having to do with merchant marine may be grouped.

The shipping board should be made a regulatory body acting also in advisory capacity on loans and policies, in keeping with its original conception. Its regulatory powers should be amended to include regulation of coastwise shipping so as to assure stability and better service. It is also worthy of consideration that the regulation of rates and services upon the inland waterways should be assigned to such reorganized board.

PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION

Urges Single Bureau Under Direction of the White House.

REORGANIZATION OF PUBLIC WORKS ADMINISTRATION—"I recommend that all building and construction activities of the government now carried on by many departments be consolidated into an independent establishment under the President, to be known as the "public works administration," directed by a public works administrator. This agency should undertake all construction work in service to the different departments of the government, except naval and military work. The services of the corps of the army engineers should be delegated in rotation for military duty to this administration in continuation of their supervision of river and harbor work. Great economies, sounder policies, more effective coördination to employment, and expedition in all construction work would result from this consolidation.

LAW ENFORCEMENT—"I shall present some recommendations in a special message looking to the strengthening of criminal law enforcement and improvement in judicial procedure connected therewith.

INLAND WATERWAY AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENT—"These improvements are now proceeding upon an unprecedented scale. Some indication of the volume of work in progress is conveyed by the fact that during the current year over 350,000,000 cubic yards of material have been moved—an amount equal to the entire removal in the construction of the Panama canal. The Mississippi waterway system, connecting Chicago, Kansas City, Pittsburgh, and New Orleans, will be in full operation during 1933. Substantial progress is being made upon the projects of the upper Missouri, upper Mississippi, etc.

"Negotiations are now in progress with Canada for the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway.

THE TARIFF—"Wages and standards of living abroad have been materially lowered during the last year. The temporary abandonment of the gold standard by certain countries has also reduced their production costs compared to ours.

"Fortunately any increases in the tariff which may be necessary to protect agriculture and industry from these lowered foreign costs or decreases in items which may prove to be excessive, may be undertaken in any time by the tariff commission under authority which it possesses by virtue of the tariff act of 1930. The commission during the last year has reviewed the rates upon over 254 items subject to tariff. As a result of vigorous and industrious action, it is up to date in the consideration of pending references and is prepared to give prompt attention to any further applications.

"This procedure presents an orderly method for correcting inequalities. I am opposed to any general congressional revision of the tariff. Such action would disturb industry, business, and agriculture. It would prolong the depression.

Policy Toward Aliens.

IMMIGRATION AND DEPORTATION—"I recommend that immigration restriction now in force under administrative action be placed upon a more definite basis by law. The deportation laws should be strengthened. Aliens lawfully in the country should be protected by the issuance of a certificate of residence.

PUBLIC HEALTH—"I again call attention to my previous recommendations upon this subject, particularly in its relation to children. The moral results are of the utmost importance.

PRESIDENT SUMS UP

Warns Against Tendency to Abandon Local Government.

CONCLUSION—"It is inevitable that in these times much of the legislation proposed to the congress and many of the recommendations of the executive must be designed to meet emergencies. In reaching solutions we must not jeopardize those principles which we have found to be the basis of the growth of the nation.

"The federal government must not encroach upon nor permit local communities to abandon that precious possession of local initiative and responsibility. Again, just as the largest measure of responsibility in the government of the nation rests upon local self-government, so does the largest measure of social responsibility in our country rest upon the individual. If the individual surrenders his own initiative and responsibilities, he is surrendering his own freedom and his own liberty.

"It is the duty of the national government to insist that both the local governments and the individual shall assume and bear these responsibilities as a fundamental of preserving the very basis of our freedom.

Praises American Idea.

"Many vital changes and movements of vast proportions are taking place in the economic world. The effect of these changes upon the future cannot be seen clearly as yet.

"Of this, however, we are sure: Our system, based upon the ideals of individual initiative and of equality of opportunity, is not an artificial thing. Rather it is the outgrowth of the experience of America, and expresses the faith and spirit of our people. It has carried us in a century and a half to leadership of the economic world. If our economic system does not match our highest expectations at all times, it does not require revolutionary action to bring it into accord with any necessity that experience may prove. It has successfully adjusted itself to changing conditions in the past. It will do so again.

"The mobility of our institutions, the richness of our resources, and the abilities of our people enable us to meet them unafraid. It is a distressful time for many of our people, but they have shown qualities as high in fortitude, courage, and resourcefulness as ever in our history. With that spirit, I have faith that out of it will come a sounder life, a truer standard of values, a greater recognition of the results of honest effort, and a healthier atmosphere in which to rear our children. Ours must be a country of such stability and security as cannot fail to carry forward and enlarge among all the people that abundant life of material and spiritual opportunity which it has represented among all nations since its beginning."

MESSAGE HELD KEY TO HOOVER 1932 CAMPAIGN

interest attached to the latest scheme to be brought forward by the President to aid the revival of industry. He proposed creation of an emergency reconstruction corporation modeled on the lines of the war finance corporation, to which the treasury would subscribe a "reasonable capital."

This institution, limited to a life of two years, would facilitate exports and loan money to agricultural credit agencies, industries, railways, and financial institutions "which cannot otherwise secure credit and where such advances will protect the credit structure and stimulate employment."

Other recommendations in the message may be summarized as follows:

Home loans—A system of home loan discount banks should be created to provide a reservoir of credit on easier terms than is now available to home builders and buyers.

Farm loans—Additional cheap credit for farmers should be provided by treasury subscription of additional capital for the federal land banks.

Federal reserve—Restrictions on the eligibility of paper for rediscount by the federal reserve banks should be modified "during emergencies" without lowering "the standards of the system." Methods of enlarging membership in the system should be considered.

Wants Frozen Deposits Freed.

Bank failures—The federal reserve banks should be authorized to "make available quickly to depositors some portion of their deposits in closed banks, as the assets of such banks may warrant." The banking laws should be improved and a sounder banking system provided.

Navy—The navy should be gradually built up to the strength provided by treaty, but our naval strength should be reduced by treaty commensurately with reduction by other naval powers.

Tariff—General revision of the tariff should not be undertaken, because it would disturb business and prolong the depression. Increases in rates made necessary by lowered foreign production costs resulting from abandonment of the gold standard abroad and decreases for other reasons can be made by the tariff commission.

Transportation—Consolidation of railroads should be furthered. Regulation of the railroads should be revised along the line of the modification of restrictions proposed by the interstate commerce commission. Bus and truck services should be regulated "by some authority."

Veterans—With annual expenditures on veterans' relief exceeding one billion dollars, there should be no "extension of these expenditures until the country has recovered from the present situation."

COMMENT IN CONGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The President's message met with a congressional reception which varied all the way from the warm adulation of some of the regular Republicans to the vehement criticism voiced by certain Democrats and insurgents.

Among the comments were the following:

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], senate majority leader—"I look upon the message as a remarkably strong document. It is comprehensive and complete. The President's suggestions for new methods of relieving the country from its present financial and industrial plight are constructive to a high degree."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], senate minority leader—"I cannot accept the declaration that 'the country is richer in physical property, in newly discovered resources, and in productive capacity than ever before.' The recommendation respecting increase of taxes is notably indefinite. The President's suggestion relating to the tariff is subject to emphatic criticism."

Senator Glenn's Comment.

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.]—"The message brings vividly to the attention of our people the grave problems, national and international, which confront the congress. And it further demonstrates the fundamental soundness and safety of our nation and our government."

Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. [Radical Republican, Wis.]. "I consider the message very disappointing in its fundamental attacks on the depression. The remedies suggested are those of treating the effects of the depression. The remedies suggested are to thaw out frozen assets. It is futile to attempt to absorb frozen assets if general business conditions are permitted to languish so that assets will continue to freeze faster than these agencies can absorb and thaw them out."

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.]. "The absence of any reference to the vital issue of prohibition in the President's communication speaks more eloquently than words could of the indefensibility of the 18th amendment."

Rainey "Not Impressed."

Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority house floor leader—"I am not impressed with the President's message. It appears that he has now completely abandoned all pledges made in his campaign."

Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], chairman, house banking committee—"I am absolutely opposed to the proposed reconstruction corporation on the ground that it deals with results rather than causes and will create an opportunity for serious inflation."

Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.]—"The President's reference to the navy was interesting. He failed to mention, however, that Great Britain has built or has under construction 83 per cent of her treaty strength and Japan 100 per cent, while the United States has only 62."

DEFEND FARM BOARD, PLEA OF HYDE TO BUREAU

Urges Delegates to Drop Plea for Fee.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde last night was scheduled to make a few informal remarks at the banquet of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Instead he made an earnest speech, pleading with the bureau delegates to abandon their announced plan to pass resolutions demanding an amendment to the farm marketing act to include the equalization fee principle. Some of his hearers interpreted the speech as an administration plea to stand by the federal farm policy. The banquet was held in the Hotel Sherman. The convention ends today.

"I was alarmed to read," said Secretary Hyde, "that this great body of farmers was making plans to stand for a change in the stabilization plans of the farm board. I come before you after hearing weak defenses for those efforts of the farm board that have been in the headlines, to urge upon you that if the federation believes in the board at all, stand up now of all times and say so."

"Can Work in Ordinary Time."

Mr. Hyde offered arguments for retention of the farm board, and called upon the delegates to believe him when he declared that the stabilization feature now in the marketing act would work during "ordinary periods of surplus production."

"Your federation is asking for the equalization fee plan of controlling crop surpluses," Mr. Hyde said. "The Grange is asking for the debenture plan and the farmers union for still another plan. At best these can only be hopes. I plead with you to speak the mind of agriculture as a single organization, or if not that, as a federated group with a single purpose. If American agriculture would get behind the farm board solidly, no other remedy for its ills would be needed."

Vote on Resolution Today.

Following a speech by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, long a champion of the fee principle of handling surplus crops, delegates today will vote on resolutions which will determine the policies the federation will support in congress this winter.

The resolutions demand an amendment to the federal farm marketing act which would include the equalization fee "or some other equally effective method whereby the cost of controlling crop surpluses would be borne by each unit of the commodity benefited."

The resolution is a compromise between the farm bureau, National Grange, and National Farmers' union of the types of surplus control schemes which each has been sponsoring for eight years.

The resolutions also demand "substantial improvement in the existing federal system of rural credits," and that additional governmental capital of at least 100 million dollars be supplied to federal land banks.

HATTIE CARAWAY TAKES HER OATH AS U. S. SENATOR

First of Sex to Enter as Regular Member.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Hattie W. Caraway of Arkansas, first woman to sit in the United States senate [save for Mrs. Rebecca Felton of Georgia who had a transient twenty hour appointment], today took her oath of office and then began to experience a few "firsts" of her own.

The first thing she heard was a house resolution of sympathy regarding the death of her husband, the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, whose place she takes.

The first feminine thing she did was to wear her hat into the senate chamber, a thing the women over in the house never do. It's against precedent, or rules, or something. Presently she removed her hat and went bareheaded the rest of the day.

Misses First Roll Call.

The first official thing she did was to miss her first roll call. But she was summoned, along with a lot of other absent colleagues, from the senate luncheroom in time to cast her vote for Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] for president pro tem of the senate.

Three times she cast a vote for Pittman, as three times the senators fought a futile battle over the office. All around her the history making battle was being waged, but she sat serene and silent.

At first she sat next to Senator Robinson of Arkansas and he whispered instructions to her. When it was time for her to take her oath of office he escorted her to the rostrum.

Escorted to Her Place.

She took up her eyeglasses on the heavy black cord, slowly adjusted them, picked up the pen, and in an angular, precise hand wrote Hattie W. Caraway in the book that is unused to feminine handwriting.

Then Senator Robinson shook her hand, escorted her to her permanent seat in the back row on the Democratic side, and her associates came over to congratulate her.

But they didn't offer congratulations in a gay manner. For this woman, dressed in deep mourning, was almost crying.

She was making history, but she didn't seem very happy about it.

DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE ENACT LIBERAL RULES

Senate Revolt Rages Around Moses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Those who hold the strength in congress exercised it today in both houses.

In the house of representatives the Democrats made the first trial of their new majority and won the passage of their own set of liberalized rules with the help of nine insurgent Republicans and the single Farmer-Labor member.

In the senate the insurgents seized upon their strategic position to carry through their threat to vote against the reelection of Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], as president pro tempore. Their attack succeeded in that it prevented the regular Republicans from seating Senator Moses. And since the Democrats lacked the strength to elect their candidate, Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, the result was a tieup of the senate, with the voting scheduled to continue indefinitely and no legislative matters attended to until the senate tires of it and by unanimous consent or a majority vote decides to call off the election and let Senator Moses continue in office by virtue of his election at the last session.

The new house rules, with their particular importance to the fate of pending anti-prohibition legislation, were in the end adopted by a house vote of 402 to 7. But not until the two parties had struggled for the passage of the particular set approved by the two party caucuses. It was in this test that the Democrats asserted their majority, winning by 217 to 194, the insurgents helping.

In their essential features the two sets of amended rules were much the same. Both provided that when the chairman of a committee failed to call it together it might be convened by a majority of the committee members, and both provided that a committee failing to act upon a bill might be discharged on application of 145 house members and the bill brought to the floor for a vote.

It is these provisions which the house anti-prohibitionists desire in order to forestall any such practices as have been indulged in in the past, when wet bills were stowed away in committee and kept there.

LEGION ASKS TONNAGE LIMIT NAVY PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.] — The American Legion today called upon President Hoover to approve authorization of the warship construction necessary to bring the American fleet up to the maximum tonnage limits of the London naval treaty, a billion dollar program. The organization also asked congress and the administration to rescind the economies for the military establishment and to renew for the army, National Guard, R. O. T. C., and other military activities the same sums appropriated for the current year.

The defense demands of the Legion were conveyed to the chief executive in a letter signed by Henry L. Stevens Jr., national commander, and delivered in person. This document advised the President regarding the Legion's legislative program.

It closed with a statement that the service organization would present to the proper committees of congress for their consideration "a copy of the resolution adopted at the Detroit convention favoring the submission of the question of the repeal or modification of the 18th amendment to a referendum of the voters of the several states."

CONGRESS TURNS ITS ATTENTION TO A FLOOD OF BILLS

Committees Start to Get Measures Today.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Adoption by the house of representatives of the new rules today opened the way for a flood of 5,000 bills to pour through tomorrow to the respective committees for action. Many of the bills are designed to afford relief to war veterans. Prohibition repeal or modification is the object of many others. A third large group deals with agricultural relief. The great bulk, perhaps 4,500 of the total, are designed for the private relief of persons within the districts of the congressmen who sponsored the bills.

Representative Crisp of Georgia offered a bill to abolish the federal farm board. Representative Mapes of Michigan was the author of a bill to build a deep waterway channel from the great lakes to the Atlantic ocean via the St. Lawrence river. Representative Celler of New York introduced another bill to establish an army reserve in which 250,000 men could be enlisted for a period of one year, a measure that would care for that many unemployed men.

Most Expensive Proposal.

The most expensive proposal introduced today was that of Representative Crail of California, who would have congress declare its intention to spend not less than five billions dollars for necessary public improvements in order to afford relief against unemployment.

A department of national defense would be created under the bill introduced by Representative Forrest Curry of California under which, it was said, that air forces of the army and navy would be combined in a unified air unit.

Under a bill offered by Representative Louis Ludlow [Dem., Ind.] the federal farm board would be authorized to donate not to exceed ten million bushels of wheat to relieve "actual and acute hunger and distress." Among bills sponsored by Representative La Guardia of New York was one to curb short selling on the commodity and securities market, and another is for jury trial in contempt of court cases.

Many for Veterans' Relief.

Bills offered for the benefit of war veterans ranged from pensions for widows and dependents of all former service men and allowing them to purchase at wholesale price from army, navy, and marine stores, to full cash payment of bonus certificates at face value.

Among the measures introduced for the relief of the farmers was one by Representative Lankford [Dem., Ga.], which would create a farmers' finance corporation to provide for loans on all farm products.

Both Representatives La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] and McClintick [Dem., N. Y.] offered bills for unemployment insurance, and Mr. McClintick added a bill authorizing private hospital treatment for war veterans.

BILLS OFFERED TO CARRY OUT HOOVER'S PLAN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Bills to carry out President Hoover's proposal for a 500 million dollar emergency reconstruction corporation designed to aid industry, agriculture, railways, financial institutions and business in general were introduced in the senate and house immediately after the President's message was read.

The administration bills were presented in the senate by Senator Walcott [Rep., Conn.] and in the house by Representative Strong [Rep., Kas.], members of the respective banking and currency committees.

Under the bills, the "reconstruction finance corporation" would be set up with a capital stock of 500 million dollars, all subscribed by the government and with authority to issue debentures of other obligations up to a maximum of one billion 500 million dollars. The secretary of the treasury, governor of the federal reserve board and farm loan commissioner, together with two persons appointed by the President, with senate consent, would manage the corporation.

Loans would be made upon good security for a maximum of two years, with renewals of a maximum of two years, making five in all. The loans must be made within one year after passage of the act, with extension of one more year by presidential consent.

GLENN RENEWS PLEA TO CUT RED TAPE AND SPEED UP WATERWAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—A demand that congress and the administration brush aside red tape and finish the Illinois waterway at once was sounded by Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] in an address at the opening session today of the National Rivers and Harbors congress. He told the 400 delegates that everything was available to push the waterway to completion if the government could for once cut through the usual routine red tape.

The call for federal expedition of the last link of the Lockport to the Mississippi-Illinois waterway was followed immediately by the launching of a drive for early federal construction of the Calumet river and canal improvement which would connect the waterway with the great lakes "in a practical manner." The Grand Calumet River Improvement association, 100 strong, led the fight for the Calumet river link. Tomorrow this organization will take its pleas for an immediate congressional authorization of the $40,000,000 project to President Hoover and to leaders of congress.

SENATE TO RULE WHEN A SENATOR IS A SENATOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The judiciary committee of the senate today had laid before it the task of determining whether Dwight W. Morrow was an elected senator from New Jersey from March 4 of this year until his death on Oct. 5 or whether he was not a senator at all after March 4, due to the fact that he did not live on Monday when he would have taken the oath of office. No question was raised as to his occupancy of the office of senator for six months prior to March 4 as an elected member for the unexpired term of Senator Edge, who resigned to become ambassador to France.

The question was implied in a resolution introduced by Senator Pittman, who pointed out that the decision on the resolution might affect two new members of the senate, Warren Barbour, appointed to fill Mr. Morrow's vacated seat, and Huey P. Long [Dem., La.], who has announced that he would not come to Washington earlier than January, meanwhile remaining governor of Louisiana.

CRANE COLLEGE FACULTY OPPOSES MOVE TO CLOSE

Claims Suspension Would Be Costly Economy.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The proposed suspension of Crane Junior college for one year, as one means of reducing the public school expense of Chicago, will be vigorously opposed by its faculty. President J. Leonard Hancock and Miss Lillian Herstein gave reasons yesterday why the school should be kept open. From the college's annual $652,000 appropriation they estimated that only $280,000 to $300,000 could be saved by closing the school.

DR. HANCOCK. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

They contended this junior college is now doing work as good as that of the University of Illinois and that it supplies two years of college work to students who otherwise could not afford it.

"Hasty curtailment of educational privileges under stress of economy campaigns is a grave danger," said Dr. Hancock. "Social and economic changes justify the junior college as they justified the extension of the 'common school' to the high school in the seventies.

Says Community Gains.

"Public junior high colleges are everywhere accepted. There were 178 in 1930, located in 50 states. The thousands of graduates from Crane's two year course are giving in economic value to the community far more than they ever cost."

Dr. Hancock estimated the cost between $190 and $200 a year per student, while he gave the average cost of students at the University of Illinois at $600. Crane now has about 7,000 students and after the next semester is expected to have 2,500.

Miss Herstein and Dr. Hancock assert that if the school is closed these students will be thrown out to add to the number of unemployed. The placing of the 140 Crane teachers in high schools would disrupt the staff and it would be difficult to reestablish the morale and close coöperation when the school is again reopened, they claimed.

Normal Students Protest.

The 1,500 students of the Chicago Normal college—another unit of the public school system—put on a parade and mass meeting yesterday morning as a protest against the closing for a year of that school as another measure of economy. The paraders carried signs, "Don't Close Normal" and like slogans.

The Normal's 1930 budget was $425,000. It offers a three-year course to prepare teachers, of which the system has a large waiting list.

The program in the assembly hall was arranged by the student council of which Miss Afleen Stack is president. She introduced President Butler Laughlin. Among other things he said:

"We will oppose any move to close the school. Seventy-five per cent of the students are from parents of the laboring class. The first daughter of a family may attend school, and when she finishes she helps support the other members of the family."

HUNGER PARADE GIVES UP; PLANS RETURN IN FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Foot sore and resentful over Washington's reception, the army of 1,500 unemployed communists and demonstrators retreated today to the far flung regions whence it came, threatening to return again in the spring with a force superior in strength to any the police department can muster.

The trucks in which the marchers converged on Washington Sunday began pulling away from John Marshall place about 10 o'clock this morning. By noon all of them had sputtered a farewell backfire at the district line and the tension of an overworked police force was relaxed.

Contrary to expectations, none of the demonstrators remained in Washington to augment its ranks of unemployed.

Acts on Eve of Unions' Wage Reduction Parley.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The Illinois Central railroad yesterday announced a 10 per cent reduction in the pay of all its officers and nonunion employés. It was also stated that negotiations would be instituted to effect reductions in the wages of the union employés.

D. B. ROBERTSON [Acme Photo]

The statement was so timed as to be published on the eve of the momentous meeting to be held at the Palmer House, opening today, when 1,500 representatives of more than a million and a half union railway employés will take up consideration of the request of all the railroads that the employés accept voluntarily a 10 per cent wage cut.

The Illinois Central statement came also on the heels of the action Monday by the interstate commerce commission in granting rate increases which will boost the railroads' annual revenues an estimated $100,000,000.

View of Union Leaders.

The attitude of the union leaders, as expressed by some of them yesterday during their preliminary sessions, is that the railroads should apply the rate increase toward the "human" element of their organizations, rather than toward paying dividends to stockholders.

Among those who commented on this angle was D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association and president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who will preside at today's important meeting.

Mr. Robertson made it plain that he was voicing a personal opinion and that he did not profess to express the attitude of the organizations which will join in arriving at a final decision on the matter.

"A Humanitarian Principle."

"It is stating nothing more than a humanitarian principle to ask that the interests of human beings be placed ahead of the interests of idle capital," Mr. Robertson said. "I believe the rate increases granted to the railroads should serve to mitigate the requests made upon us by the roads that we accept wage reductions.

"The interstate commerce commission has granted additional revenues to the roads and, in accepting such increases, the railroads should apply them to their employés rather than to railway investors.

"Sight should not be lost of another fact. During the boom years the railroads spent millions of dollars for improvements and new equipment. This equipment represents the investment of the railroads. Today much of that equipment is idle. The great new locomotives are standing in the yards. Thousands of cars are not moving.

"Since this equipment is idle, doesn't it follow logically that it is not earning a return? But the workers are not idle. They are entitled to a return for the investment of their energies and their lives. On this sound basis the argument favors the employés, but in considering the element of protecting human beings from want, there is no argument to answer this."

The Railroads' Side.

On the other side of the picture, the railroad representatives have pointed out that their other expenses, including the wages of nonunion employés, have been reduced to the most stringent degrees, and that still the financial condition of the railroads demands a further cut. A 10 per cent wage reduction among union employés will effect a saving of 250 million dollars a year, it is estimated.

The railroad spokesmen assert it is not a question of paying return on investment, but a necessity for maintaining the financial security of the entire country. Many millions of railroad securities are held by insurance companies, which are bound by law to hold only securities issued by corporations with certain fixed returns upon investments.

If the railway securities are ruled below the class which insurance companies may hold and should be dumped on the open market, a desperate economic situation might result, in the expressed opinions of the railroad managements.

The meetings of the union men in Chicago are not expected, in the opinion of the leaders, to develop any formal action until the end of the week, probably Friday or Saturday. The task of obtaining a program agreeable to 1,500 men, it was pointed out, is a cumbersome one, and will require long deliberations.

The Illinois Central's Cut.

The statement issued yesterday by the Illinois Central system follows:

"The rates of pay of all officers and employés of the Illinois Central system, excepting for the time being employés covered by specific contracts or group wage agreements, will be reduced 10 per cent effective Jan. 1, 1932.

"Negotiations for reductions in the rates of pay of employés excepted from the present order will be instituted under the existing agreements and in accordance with the procedure provided in the railway labor act.

"These actions are made necessary by the pressure of economic conditions affecting our traffic and earnings of which every member of the Illinois Central system organization is aware."

WAGES CUT, 4,000 C. & N. W. EMPLOYES BALLOT ON STRIKE

The Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employés yesterday began taking a strike vote among 4,000 to 5,000 maintenance men employed by the Chicago and North Western railway. The road has placed in effect a pay cut of 5 cents an hour among these employés, whose average wage had been 40 cents an hour.

The North Western had sought a voluntary reduction, but the union resisted and an effort was made through federal mediation to reach a settlement. This failed and arbitration was suggested, but, although the union agreed to arbitrate, the road refused and ordered the reduction, effective Monday.

"The action of the North Western is deplorable at this time when delicate negotiations are opening before all the railway unions," said F. H. Fljozdal, president of the maintenance brotherhood. "If the road believed it had a case it would have arbitrated. Its refusal will not be well received by the rail union men assembled here."

It is believed that the maintenance workers will vote to strike, and in this event President Hoover is authorized, under the railroad labor act, to intervene and appoint a fact finding commission.

MINE MURDER CASE WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Sterling, Ky., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Kentucky's coal field labor conflict, centered here in the trial of W. B. Jones, Harlan county secretary of the United Mine Workers, charged with murder and conspiracy, will be in the hands of the jury of blue grass farmers by noon tomorrow.

The court's instructions left but two courses open to the jury, which has heard 173 witnesses describe the circumstances surrounding the alleged conspiracy of union miners led by Jones, which resulted in the killing of Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels, two aids, and one miner, on May 5 at Evarts, Ky. They must either find Jones guilty of first degree murder and sentence him to the electric chair or to prison for life or turn him loose. A manslaughter verdict is not permitted.

FEINBERG FORCES BANK'S DEBTORS TO REPAY LOANS

Hearing Reveals Bonuses to Directors.

Debtors of the First Humboldt State bank, which closed last May 14 with deposits of $3,000,000 due to 22,000 depositors, paraded before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday and reluctantly agreed to pay what they owe the bank. The promises were wrung from the witnesses after much protest and in one instance a debtor burst into tears when informed that he must pay up.

Ludwig Vognild, 744 North Long avenue, a real estate mortgage broker, was persuaded to turn over title to two pieces of property to the receiver. The rent from this property approximates $750 a month. Vognild owed $6,000 to the bank.

Forces Bank to Withdraw.

Judge Feinberg uncovered information that the Chicago Clearing House association forced the bank to withdraw as a member of the association one month before it closed. The judge ordered the chief examiner of the clearing house to be called as a witness and said he would question him to determine how the clearing house knew of the bank's insolvent condition so long before the closing.

Albert H. Severinghaus, former member of the school board, was threatened with foreclosure on his G. A. R. laundry, 3118 Armitage avenue, valued at $100,000, unless he arranged to pay his $2,500 debt to the bank by today. He has already paid $500 on the debt and offered to make another $500 payment next week.

"It is too close to Christmas to talk of 'next week,'" said the judge. "If you have any sympathy at all for the depositors you will make every effort to pay up. Unless we get some money we will be forced to foreclose on your property. I am getting bushels of letters from depositors saying they have no food or coal while you debtors are riding around in expensive automobiles."

Debtor Weeps on Stand.

Bernard Shapiro, 75 years old, 14 West Elm street, a jewelry store owner, burst into tears on the stand. He owed $1,500 to the bank. All his property, banking accounts and safety deposit boxes were held jointly with his daughter, Eva, and he was unable to pay anything on the debt, he said. He finally admitted owning some stock and uncut diamonds worth $3,000. Judge Feinberg ordered the daughter to appear in court.

Directors and officers of the bank got large bonuses for "helping the bank over a period of years" and the stockholders were voted a 6 per cent dividend in the five months preceding the failure of the bank, according to the testimony of S. T. Corydon, bank director, and C. C. Collins, president.

Corydon revealed that the five directors of the bank, including Collins and his son, C. H. Collins, subscribed $2,000 each for stock of the Humboldt Bond and Mortgage company, which was later sold to the bank for $38,900, leaving a net profit of $38,900 to be split five ways. In the years 1924, 1925, 1926, and 1927 the directors voted themselves a $1,000 bonus each.

The habeas corpus hearing concerning John H. and Robert A. Bain and W. Merle Fisher, sons and son-in-law of John Bain, president of the 12 closed Bain banks, was continued until today at Springfield before the state supreme court. Former Senator Charles S. Deneen presented the petitions and Attorney General Carlstrom presented objections to the release of the three, who have been in the county jail eight days on the order of Judge Feinberg.

BANKER'S JUGGLING OF BANK'S BOOKS IS REVEALED AT TRIAL

Evidence that Charles Wolf, former president of the defunct Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park, juggled accounts to obtain money for stock market speculation was introduced yesterday in Wolf's trial before Judge Walter Stanton in the Criminal court on a charge of embezzling $58,000 from the bank. Selection of a jury was completed earlier in the day.

The men who testified against Wolf were Dr. W. F. Scott of Maywood and Dr. P. B. Klonka of Melrose Park, directors of the closed bank. Their testimony was identical, and dwelt mainly on a directors' meeting on June 21, 1929, at which Wolf was present.

There were protests voiced at this meeting, the witnesses asserted, that Wolf had withdrawn some of the bank's funds without authorization. Wolf was reported to have admitted taking the money for speculation.

John Carson, one of the directors, according to the testimony, arose from his seat and said, "Don't you know, Mr. Wolf, that this kind of thing will head you for the penitentiary?" Wolf then promised to make good at once, it was testified.

STATE WILL ASK INDICTMENT OF FRANK M'ERLANE

Frank McErlane, gunman and public enemy, was taken to the detective bureau last night after the state's attorney's office had been unable to break down his silence about the facts surrounding the slaying of his wife, Elfrieda, who was found shot to death in an automobile in front of 8129 Phillips avenue on Oct. 7.

The questioning at the state's attorney's office was conducted by Prosecutors Harry Ditchburne and Tom Johnson. The circumstantial evidence gained by investigators against McErlane will be used in asking for an indictment against him, the prosecutors said.

McErlane was surrendered to the detective bureau to be paraded before witnesses. The warrant for his arrest on the murder charge was obtained by the police department. McErlane gave himself up on Monday night in Madison, Wis.

MacVEAGH & CO., PIONEER HOUSE, TO CLOSE DOORS

In Wholesale Grocery Business 66 Years.

Franklin MacVeagh & Co., one of the oldest wholesale grocery houses in the city, will discontinue operation as soon as its stock and equipment are disposed of, about the first of the year. This was announced yesterday by Franklin MacVeagh, one of the founders of the sixty-six year old business and secretary of the treasury under President Taft. Present business conditions were given as the reason for going out of business. Mr. MacVeagh is 91 years old.

"My son, Eames, wanted to close the business some time ago," he said, "but I did not resolve to do so until a week ago. We could go on, but it does not seem advisable. We have gone through several panics and one great disaster, the Chicago fire. The present depression will end, but it is the most incorrectible situation I have ever experienced. Never before has one been so difficult to control or so mixed up with foreign finances."

Mr. MacVeagh indulged in reminiscences of his early experience in the grocery business and declared he would miss his business associates and the 400 employes of his company.

He declared that he and the founders of Chicago's other pioneer wholesale groceries, Albert Sprague & Co. [now Sprague, Warner & Co.] and Reid, Murdoch & Co., had always been friendly competitors. Mr. MacVeagh met the late Albert Sprague at Yale university and later when they both entered the grocery business in Chicago.

Franklin MacVeagh & Co. originally had four partners, James A. Whitaker, Isaac N. Harmon, Col. John Messer, and Mr. MacVeagh, and was known as Whitaker, Harmon & Co. until Mr. MacVeagh bought the others out. Its present location is 333 West Lake street.

Mr. MacVeagh said that he might devote his time to writing after he disposes of his business. His interests have always been varied and he has headed many civic and charitable associations in Chicago.

Rule Slayer Can't Collect Life Insurance on Victim

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Supreme court ruled today that a murderer cannot collect life insurance for the death of his victim. The Prudential Insurance company of Newark opposed payment of $5,000 to Howard M. Swavely, who was convicted of killing his wife. "Nothing could be clearer," read today's Supreme court decision, "than that to permit a murderer to collect insurance upon the life of the person he had murdered would be contrary to public policy."

DEPUTY SHERIFF FIRED ON CHARGE BY JAIL INMATE

Deputy Sheriff Grant Mayfield was dismissed yesterday by Sheriff Meyering after a prisoner had testified before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in the Criminal court that Mayfield had refrained from serving a capias on him after soliciting and receiving $100 from him to "hire a lawyer."

GRANT MAYFIELD.

The prisoner was Stanley Gonka, charged with larceny. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Maria Gonka, also testified that Mayfield had asked her for $100 as a retainer for a lawyer whom he promised to have represent Gonka.

Gonka testified that in November Mayfield telephoned him to come to his office. When they met Mayfield showed him a capias for his arrest on the larceny charge, but put it back in his pocket when Gonka gave him the $100, the prisoner charged.

Sheriff Meyering dismissed Mayfield after Judge Fisher had threatened to hold the deputy in contempt of court for acting as a "runner" for an attorney. The lawyer, whose name was withheld, denied that he knew Mayfield.

Ends Life with Poison After Her Husband Leaves

Mrs. Rose Schwab, 30 years old, formerly of 3449 Elaine place, committed suicide sometime Monday night by swallowing poison in her room at the Fort Dearborn hotel, 125 West Van Buren street. Her body was found last evening. In a note, Mrs. Schwab indicated she was despondent because her husband, Howard, had left her to go to Detroit. She said in the note she had no blood relatives.

FEDERAL JUSTICE UNDER VOLSTEAD.

A federal dry agent in the Buffalo district, in which there have been several complete illustrations of the manner in which the United States judiciary disposes of criminal charges against enforcers, has been found guilty of slugging a hotel proprietor's son in a raid. It was the first conviction in the district of a federal agent accused of offense against state law. In this case a jury got away from United States District Attorney Templeton, the defense counsel who in the same capacity successfully defended the slayers of Jacob Hansen. The verdict was guilty, but the federal judge tempered the blow. The maximum sentence under the state law is a year's imprisonment and a fine of $500. The court gave the slugging agent the choice of paying $50 or serving fifty days.

The offense was an act of brutality in the enforcement of law and committed in a district which has been outraged by other lawless acts of federal agents, all removed into the federal courts for protection and defense. For full illustration of the mood, the practices and the purposes of the administration of justice under Volstead there may be set up in contrast to this disposition of the Buffalo slugging case that of the Chicago janitor who was discovered making some home brew, not for profit, for his own use and for a friendly tenant who was about to serve some of it at a small American Legion party.

This janitor, for an act familiar daily in the lives of thousands of Chicago citizens, was sentenced to sixty days in jail after he had said in the federal court that he had made the beer.

How could it be expected of a system of administration of justice that it could survive in the respect of citizens when it is so tortured and distorted by the operation of a law alien to all purposes of law, when the realities of social conduct are so twisted and legal consequences of behavior are so unreasoned?

In further contrast to the plight of this janitor a case in California may be presented. Federal agents working with city police arrested Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, the brother-in-law of Mr. Hoover. Leavitt was endeavoring to secrete a sack containing, it was discovered, nineteen pints of liquor. The proprietor of the place in which Leavitt had been having a drink asked him to hide it when the officers came in. When federal agents and city police arrested the Chicago janitor he was held to the federal court and severely punished. When federal officers and city police took Leavitt, with a rumseller's stock in his possession, he was held to the city court and released by a city judge who accepted the statement in his defense that he did not know what the sack contained. An obscure citizen would have been regarded as very simple minded if he had told that story in a federal court, but Mr. Leavitt was not in the federal court. The department of justice avoided that.

Federal administration of justice has suffered so under the influence of the Volstead act and its addicts that citizens cannot give it their confidence. Who can trust judicial impartiality when the exhibits challenge it?

GIVING THE WISCONSIN SENATE THE RUSH ACT.

The same pressure for haste is being put on the special session of the Wisconsin legislature that was used effectively when the 4 cent gasoline tax was rushed through the opening days of the regular session.

At that time we were told no time must be lost in deliberation. The tax must be enacted instanter, so that the unemployed could be put to work at once eliminating grade crossings. Senator Funs sounds the same note now on Gov. La Follette's tax program to raise $17,000,000 for relief, the immediate need for which the governor puts in the cattle message at $8,000,000.

"And the agony of the unemployed," Senator Funs says, "this is no time to dillydally." The boy was successful in having the bill taken out of the hands of the committee on corporations and taxation, to which it was referred, and scheduled for hearings by the committee of the whole to begin at once.

It was perhaps an unhappy coincidence that pressure for immediate action was put upon the senate almost simultaneously with a report from the governor's unemployment relief commission, showing the relief actually obtained from the crossing program pushed through the legislature under the governor's insistence that delay would be inhuman.

The gasoline tax was doubled, increasing the state revenue from this source by an estimated $8,000,000. Need for desperate haste apparently followed with the enactment of the bill, the appointment of the relief commission and the collection of the tax.

Of the 93 authorized grade separations, 34 have not been begun, the report says, and 68 are still unfinished. When the program is finished 11,700 men "will have been" provided with three months' work each.

This edifying total, further study of the report reveals, is only partly effectual in its relief of unemployment in Wisconsin. Of the total labor, 45 per cent consists of employment in the manufacture, production, and transportation of the materials used and to be used. Only 55 per cent, or 6,435 men, will finally have achieved three months' direct employment each on the grade crossing program, which, like the present tax bill, was presented as an act of such emergency that deliberation on it was only to be had at the expense of the starving.

Of the 45 per cent indirect labor, the report shows 20.7 per cent was for production costs outside of Wisconsin.

Money for the governor's relief bill is to be raised chiefly from surtax on incomes. The greater part of it will come from incomes ranging between $2,500 and $5,000 a year. The effect on the market for Wisconsin labor by diverting these huge sums from the channels of trade into the hands of the state for politically directed spending is a question that warrants full study and deliberation at Madison.

Those who ultimately will pay the taxes will not begrudge any senator the time he takes for earnest consideration of the results of his vote. Thoughtfulness will not mean dillydallying to them.

There is a process which is inelegantly known as the rush act resorted to when orderly procedure threatens to block a desired end. The radicals in Wisconsin have acquainted themselves with the rush act and are using it on the senate.

PAYING FOR A TEACHER'S EDUCATION.

The proposal to discontinue the Chicago Normal college for a year has met with opposition from students, faculty and graduates of the institution. The proposal was put forward in part because there is said to be an ample supply of teachers on the lists waiting for assignment and especially because of the desire to reduce the costs of the school system.

Those who wish to retain the college reply that the supply of adequately trained teachers is not too large and the savings, if the college were to be closed, would not be significant. There appears to be no agreement upon the amount involved, but probably it is not less than $200,000 and may be more. It can hardly be contended, then, that the sum is so small as to be negligible.

No doubt it would be preferable, if possible, to keep the school open. Certainly if it is closed now some injustice might be done, particularly to the students who are now in their senior years, with but a semester between them and their graduation.

Perhaps the solution of the problem lies in instituting a tuition charge. Even if there were no financial stringency, such a charge could be readily justified. The professional training received at the Normal college equips the student for a position which is considerably better paid than the average employment. Training for most of the other learned professions is paid for by the student. It is difficult to see why the prospective teacher who is going to benefit financially from her specialized education should not pay at least a part of the cost. Likewise it is difficult to see why the taxpayer should be called upon to pay for any one's professional education.

These arguments would have force at any time, but they are strengthened now by expediency. The alternative to a tuition charge may be the closing of the college.

D'ANDREA'S CARD.

President James has been thinking that the matter of the issuance to the gangster, D'Andrea, of a "courtesy card" from the west park police, authorising him to carry a gun, is "dead." It is not dead, but living. It has not been satisfactorily explained by the chief of the west park police, Capt. Schramm, who issued it, and as a matter of public importance it is not going to die until it is.

Capt. Schramm says he did not know D'Andrea when he gave him the card. This admission is by itself stultifying. What justification has a guardian of the peace for distributing permissions to carry a deadly weapon to unknown individuals? If Capt. Schramm acted upon information, who gave it? If he accepted an indorsement of D'Andrea's character, who gave it? Capt. Schramm says he does not know. It is his business to know and to make it known.

Capt. Schramm's conduct in this matter is unsatisfactory and suspicious. President James' is hardly less so. He says the giving out of these cards is entirely a matter to be taken up with Capt. Schramm. It is not. It is a responsibility of the executive head of the west parks. Capt. Schramm's superior. President James cannot shirk it.

D'Andrea carried his gun into Judge Wilkerson's court, with the west park police chief's permission for carrying it, which he supposed was authority. He found that it was not, but the public wants to know and has a right to know how and why he was given the card by a public official, and what other individuals, some perhaps as unfit, possess them. The distribution of cards and stars is a system of law evasion which has no justification even when the evasions are minor. The D'Andrea case reveals how serious it is in some cases. All citizens are equal before the law and none is entitled to exception not authorized by law and which will not bear publicity. The system, as the D'Andrea case illustrates, is a device of the alliance between crime and corrupt politics, and it must be abolished.

GIVE THEM TO CHICAGO.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The usual rivalry among cities for the nominating conventions of the major parties is disturbingly absent this year. Though the awards will be made next month, no contenders have appeared to press their claims with the customary eloquence and monetary inducements. Several cities have been mentioned as under favorable consideration, but Chicago seems to be the only genuine bidder. The situation is accounted for by the economic difficulties of our cities.

Chicago, however, wants both conventions and, presumably, will offer a dignified premium. It is explained that Chicago thinks the conventions will be a good advertisement for the fair she is to put on in 1933, and for which she is preparing magnificently and with as much gusto as can be mustered in the circumstances. The project was conceived and launched while yet the sun was blazing and, depression or no depression, Chicago is going through it with the traditional vigor of her ritualistic "I Will."

It is a fine spirit. It challenges admiration and is entitled, we think, to cooperation. It would be a sporting thing for all the cities that may be debating the proposition to withdraw from the contest, giving Chicago a clear field.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. H. L.

WITH HEAD BLOODY but unbowed we still advance sturdily against the enemy's trenches in our great battle to uphold the purity of the king's English. This time we lead our attack against a novelist who has turned for the moment to history and biography—none other than Joseph Hergesheimer, who has just turned out his new book, "Sheridan." As for the literary merits of "Sheridan," that must be left to Fannie Butcher. But we will say we were surprised that Mr. Hergesheimer has President Davis and many of the high officers of the Confederacy attending Gen. John Morgan's wedding at Nashville just before the battle of Murfreesboro. Gosh! Nashville was the Union base at that time and was jammed full of Yanks. Gen. Morgan's wedding must have been very quiet, and Jeff Davis and the other Confederate big wigs must have gone in disguise and then hurried back to Murfreesboro to attend the very large and tumultuous battle which took place there soon after. But we are not concerned now with what happens when a novelist turns historian. It is a weird performance, but, as Doctor Johnson said of a dog walking on his hind legs, "It is not done well, but you are surprised to find it done at all." However, we are compelled to slap Mr. Hergesheimer severely on the wrist for his continued use of the word "piquet" instead of picket.

Suppose they had spelled it that way during the war and Gen. Sheridan had sent word out to his advance posts, "Look well to your piquets tonight," what would the advanced posts have thought about it? And worse yet, suppose that very famous poem had used that spelling of the word:

"All quiet along the Potomac," they say,
"Except now and then a stray piquet,
Is shot as he walks on his beat to and fro,
By a rifleman hid in the thicket."

In behalf of the king's English, Mr. Hergesheimer, we kique at your piquet.

Dear Sir: We read with interest in your column that you have information leading to the whereabouts of one Caleb Summons. We have been endeavoring to locate a man by this name for some years in connection with an estate to which he is sole heir. From what we have been able to learn about his appearance, it seems entirely possible that the gentleman shown in the sixth row of the crowd on your Linebook cover is he, although as it is not a full length portrait, we are unable to tell whether this man has a wooden leg, as described in our files. Trusting we may have, etc.

BIOGRAPHY IV.

When death and he had gone away together, that was the first time that her life turned numb
She grew too harsh for misery to plumb; grief touched her lightly—granite brushed by feather—until the time she saw her mirrored face, and, frightened by the mask that she had made,
sought selfless labors, hoping these might fade
the grim distortion, bring back former grace.

And so it was. And all her works were good.
And everywhere her touch was known they blessed and lauded all she did, but praise was vain, since praise at last denied her livelihood.
"You are too old," they said, "and you must rest."
And, listening, her life grew numb again.

AND IF SENATOR JIM HAM LEWIS wonders why we didn't send him a new Linebook this is to inform him that his book, all beautifully autographed and everything, has just been returned to us. In our zeal to help a good cause we stuck a Christmas seal stamp up in the corner of the envelope and didn't put on any of the government's regular two cent stamps. Beg pardon, Senator, your book is on the way and this time with both Christmas seals and postage stamps on it.

TO AVOID "NERVOUS BREAKDOWN."

DR. CHARLES F. READ recently gave some sound advice to people who are afraid of a nervous breakdown as a result of the financial worries incident to these hard times.

"First of all, physical health must be attended to. We must exercise moderately, rest a good bit, eat wisely, drink moderately, if at all, and take care not to think too much about physical symptoms. It is so very easy to go too far in this direction. Young dementia praecoxes, the neurotics, the elderly melancholics, the arteriosclerotics, are particularly apt to show undue anxiety concerning their physical health.

"Strive to think decent, kindly thoughts. Don't grind yourself and others between the millstones of regret and anger. I am often appalled at the number of people we see in our hospitals brooding over real and fancied wrongs until they are unable to do anything else. We must beware of this obsession.

"Then let us respect the facts of life. It is easy and pernicious business to distort them to suit our own fancy, to obscure them with a fog of foolish thinking in an attempt to blame or to justify one's self reasonably.

"Try to find things to do outside of everyday work in the home, the factory, the office, or the store. Handwork, or a hobby of any kind, is usually a wonderful balance wheel. Do something that requires another sort of initiative than what is used in your workaday life. It is unwise to be content all of the time, to soak up the result of other people's activities.

"If we have been trained religiously and have drifted away from our old time beliefs, why not go into a church now and then to meditate, if not to pray, and to find there, perhaps, a brief interval of peace and possible inspiration?

"Above all, do not play with thoughts of suicide. This is dangerous practice and may easily develop into an obsession.

"Do not worry too long over your own mental state, or that of some one else you are interested in, before you seek competent advice. If you can pay a reasonable fee, go to a mental specialist. If you cannot afford this, there are good men connected with dispensaries of all medical schools and upon the staffs of all state hospitals who will be glad to give you advice. No one who really needs medical advice along these lines need go without assistance.

"And, finally, after doing what we can, let us carry on bravely, in the hope, nay, in the belief, that after all our own personal makeup is probably tough fibered and resistive enough to see us through without mental disaster. This is a cheering thought and the statistical odds are at least two hundred to one that it is justified."

GALL BLADDER AND LIVER.

Mrs. B. writes: I have gall bladder trouble, but X-rays do not show stones. I also have trouble with my stomach and an ache in the back below the right shoulder at times. I cannot have fats of any kind, and try to eat without seasoning of any kind, but often I have a spell with gas and distress.

1. Can gall bladder trouble be cured by diet and medicine, or is an operation necessary?

2. Can the liver do the work without the gall bladder?

REPLY.

1. Some cases are cured without operation. What was known as dyspepsia, acid stomach, and indigestion in the old days is now loosely called gall bladder trouble, and many such cases get well without operation. Careful living, especially careful eating, causes many people to get along reasonably comfortable.

2. Yes. The gall bladder concentrates bile, stores bile, and probably secretes cholesterin, and beyond that it does not have much to do.

V. I. writes: Would marrying a third cousin have any ill effects on the children?

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Monmouth, Ill., Dec. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is the act of loaning money on judgment note secured by chattel mortgage in which the borrower is required to sign an additional contract agreeing to pay a certain monthly payment on the principal, plus 3½ per cent interest on each month's remaining unpaid balance, a legal transaction in the state of Iowa? Can such a rate of interest be required, demanded, or collected without involving the question of usury? M. B. H.

The Iowa Law Digest with respect to interest states: "Legal rate 6%, permitted by written contract, up to 8%. Open accounts draw 6% commencing 6 months from date of last item. Judgments draw same rate as claim on which founded (Ch.416). Persons, co-partnerships or corporations engaged in making loans to the value of three hundred [$300.00] dollars, or less, when licensed, may receive or agree to take interest thereon at a rate not to exceed 3½ per centum per month."

ELEVATED SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—Will some one arrange and submit a schedule for the Garfield Park branch of the elevated so as to enable one to know just how long they shall have to wait for a train? K. O.

The schedules for the Garfield Park branch of the elevated provide for a train at the California avenue station every six minutes. An inspector from this department was assigned to check this service, and the data obtained show a slight irregularity in the spacing of trains. However, the operation was such as to meet the average scheduled requirements. This matter was referred to the management of the elevated railways and they state that while delays during rush hour congestion are at times unavoidable, every effort is made to maintain service on an even headway.

JEFFREY A. O'CONNOR,

MORE FACTS NEEDED.

Aurora, Ill., Dec. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A intends to bring suit for damages for death of his wife because of negligence of a railroad company. B advises that he will get more damages if successful under the federal statute than the state statute. Please advise. H. B. S.

You do not give us enough facts to place us in a position to tell what your friend was talking about. Injuries to railroad employes may be governed by different statutes, depending upon whether the traffic is interstate or intrastate. But this would not apply to an ordinary right of action for damages. Perhaps what your friend had in mind was a preference for the federal courts.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1915.

LONDON.—The situation in the Balkans is developing rapidly. The German and Bulgarian division which reached Kenali, on the Greek border, ten miles south of Monastir, threatens to outflank the Anglo-French forces, while Bulgars, who are also supposed to be supported by Germans, have attacked the allies' extreme right wing near Strumnitza. The allies, thus imperiled, have abandoned the Krivolak salient and fallen back to Demir Kapu, 20 miles from the Greek border. The Germans apparently are determined on crushing the force that was sent to the assistance of the Serbians.

WASHINGTON.—The United States has made formal demand on Austria for a disavowal of the submarine attack on the Italian liner Ancona on Nov. 9, when more than a score of American passengers were sent to their death. Coupled with the disavowal demand is another that the Austrian government shall make full reparation to Americans who lost their lives, give ample assurance against repetition of such an attack and that the commander of the submarine shall be punished.

PARIS.—That England, against the wishes of her allies, favors the withdrawal of the expeditionary forces from the Balkans was hinted following today's session of the allies' war council. A high French official said: "If England persists alone in favoring leaving Salonika, then the remainder of the allies will continue to aid Serbia." It has been known in France for some time that England was far from satisfied with affairs in the Balkans.

OTHER WAR NEWS—Paris reports that French troops have recovered some ground on hill 193, north of Souain, in Champagne, where German attacks resulted in the capture of 500 yards of trenches. To the north of Arras French artillery stopped an offensive movement of the Germans.

CHICAGO. — Before nearly 4,000 people, W. Bourke Cockran at the Auditorium declared that independence for the Boers surely was coming, but that peace might be restored quickly and the suffering in the concentration camps ended. All the eloquence of the orator was directed to a plea for intervention by the United States. He asserted that the peace of America, the future of the Monroe Doctrine, and the constitution of England were endangered by the prolongation of the struggle. "Let the President of the United States but utter the word," declared the speaker, "and the war will end on the day his action is taken."

SAN FRANCISCO. — The new Tonopah district of Nevada is one of the most remarkable mining camps of the west. The entire Pacific slope is awakening to its extraordinary richness. Although not yet "proved" as to extent and depth, mining men familiar with the district assert that it far exceeds in mineral wealth all of Alaska combined, and that it bids fair to surpass the famous Cripple Creek district in the amount of gold and silver which it will soon produce.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Henry Irving Rasmus of the South Park Avenue Methodist church denounced John Alexander Dowie in a sermon on "Dowieism, the Colossal Fraud of the Century." He handled "Elijah II." without gloves, he attempted to tear down the theories of the "reincarnated prophet," and finally prophesied that when Dowie dies his Zion would either crumble away or take its place with many other minor isms.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE publishes this morning a complete list of the lake vessels that will winter in this port. The number, allowing for craft of insufficient importance to classify, will aggregate nearly 1,000.

WASHINGTON. — The first bill passed by the senate at this session was one conferring on Mrs. Garfield the franking privilege. Similar privileges have been conferred on the widows of Presidents Tyler, Polk and Lincoln.

VIENNA.—Yesterday was a fête day in Vienna in celebration of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, but it ended with a public calamity unparalleled in the history of the city, when the Ring theater, formerly known as the Opera Comique, took fire just before the beginning of the opera "Les Contes de Hoffmann," to witness which 2,000 persons had assembled. The fire was caused by the dropping of a lamp. Panic seized the audience and many persons were trampled to death in the rush for the exits. At 2 o'clock this morning 240 bodies had been taken out and it was then estimated that 400 persons had perished. Ninety victims were found piled up in one heap in the gallery. The theater was one of the largest and handsomest in Europe and some of the greatest of artists and singers have appeared there.

ROME.—Rome has just witnessed the splendid spectacle of canonisation which took place in the Vatican. Many American ecclesiastics and civilians saw the ceremonies. The pope blessed the spectators, while around him were seated members of the monastic orders, 133 bishops, and 56 patriarchs and cardinals. The entry of the pope was made in great pomp as he was borne in upon the sedia gestatoria.

CLOSING THE NORMAL COLLEGE.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—If the board of education would consider carefully the expense involved in the operation of the Normal college and the saving which would be effected by closing the school, it would discover that these are so small as to make the project fruitless.

President Myers suggested that the closing of the Normal college would save for the school system one-half million dollars, but he didn't announce publicly that, under the tenure of teaching law, the instructors at Normal would either be paid their salaries or be placed in the school system as high school teachers, where their salaries would not be much lower; nor did he say that on Normal's expense account is entered the cost of heating three other buildings [Parker Practice, Parker Junior, and Parker Senior High] as well as Normal's.

And perhaps the board has overlooked the fact that a stipulation was made in the donation of the land which is the site of the four schools that the Normal must always be open to county students. Closing the school to these students [as well as the others] would mean that the school system would lose the land. Thus all the schools on the campus would have to be reorganized.

HELENE V. O'CONNOR.

A HALF YEAR TO GO.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Think of those students who have already spent two and a half years at Normal, and who expect to graduate in June. What of them? If they go elsewhere to finish their training they will never be able to teach in Chicago, and with progressive education coming to greater and greater importance every year Chicago needs these progressively trained teachers. What about it, Chicago? A JUNE GRADUATE.

WADSWORTH AND DAWES.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Ex-Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. of New York and Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Illinois, outstanding statesmen for President and Vice President, would be popular candidates in the national Republican convention to unite the Republicans in all sections of the country and win a great Republican victory at the polls in the 1932 campaign. Wenona, Ill., Nov. 30.—I have been reading your editorials recently with much pleasure in regard to the activities of the federal farm board. Of course we thinking farmers know where they originate. R. H. BARR.

FLORIDA.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Why all these malicious attacks on Florida? Surely that state has had enough hard luck without being kicked back when it is struggling so hard to get on its feet.

We feel terribly abused with our own two years' depression. Well, Florida has had five years of it—a five year battle with disasters such as few states experienced—financial collapse, storms, flood and blight.

Why shouldn't they warn hobos and jobless away? Why shouldn't they tax motorists who come there for the winter and who pay no other taxes for the upkeep of the community? Remember, they have no rich industrial centers to call upon for unemployment funds, and the majority of wealthy people who winter in Florida make their contributions for that purpose to their permanent home district, and Florida gets little if any as her share. She is doing well now if she can care for her own resident unemployed.

True, she had her boom. A boom initiated and backed mainly by outside capital—a boom that plucked the native as well as the tourist and, bursting, left them bewildered and helpless with only the grit and determination of the true American to buoy them on and enable them to combat the chaos that followed. L. G. W.

AN INDIGNANT TEACHER.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—I am a school teacher with four dependents, one of them needing expensive medical care. I am now facing absolute destitution. I don't know how I am ever going to pay back all that I have borrowed plus the interest, for it has reached a staggering sum.

Chicago has no right to talk about a World's Fair in 1933 when its teachers are going hungry. Every penny of back pay should be paid the teachers before city employes get another pay check. There is no reason for the city's discriminating against the teachers. The school board should be condemned for asking for fifty millions for school buildings when its unpaid teachers are in desperate want. DISGUSTED TEACHER.

AN ACCIDENT.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Your Sunday paper said that a driver of a one man bus is being held for manslaughter after killing a woman. I believe the motor coach officials should be held for the accident, not the driver. For it is a physical impossibility for one man to watch traffic, close doors which are barred from his view by standing passengers, make change, and answer questions, without having an accident sooner or later. W. G. COOK.

RAILROAD WAGES.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—I suppose the public thinks the railroad man gets about $100 per week. A switchman gets $28.73 per week for being out in all kinds of weather and the danger that goes with it. When Mr. Santa Fe R. R. made about 87 million net in 1929 did he raise the wages in ratio to earnings? I don't think so. TAXPAYER.

250 TENANTS ON ILLINOIS FARMS GET RENT SLASH

Owner Cuts Rate $1.50 on 32,000 Acres.

Lincoln, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Reduction and abatement of rents affecting about 250 renters of Scully farms in Illinois, was announced here today by Thomas Scully, one of the largest land owners in the state, through the offices of the Scully estates.

In a letter to leaseholders in Logan, Sangamon, and Tazewell counties Mr. Scully states the fall in prices of farm products and the partial failure of some crops have convinced him that to insist upon the strict terms of the contract would work a hardship if not impose an impossible burden upon them.

The reduction in rents for next year amounts to $1.50 per acre on about 32,000 acres of land. The rent is to be $5 per acre net in addition to the usual clover requirement which requires one-fourth of the land to be returned to clover each year.

Renters will be required to pay $9 for the two years, which is the equivalent of an abatement of $4.58 per acre for the two year period. No abatement will be made or allowed for any years previous to these two years.

Scully estates also have large holdings in Grundy and Livingston counties and reductions and abatements are to be made on those farms also.

Lease holders average from 80 to 320 acres each, and taxes, which amount to $1.50 per acre, are paid by Mr. Scully.

UNITED CHARITIES STAFF HEARS STORY OF RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Present depressed conditions are not permanent. America will dig its way out and return to prosperity now as it has done in the previous periods of depression. The motto for all workers at present should be "Hang on and live day by day."

Such was the message given last night by Samuel Insull Jr., president of the United Charities, to the 360 staff members attending the annual dinner and meeting in the employes' dining room of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company building.

Mr. Insull detailed the fund raising activities of the Joint Emergency Relief fund. He told the workers that the private contribution plan used is not ideal, but that it is the only method applicable to the present needs.

"Of the money raised, 28 per cent is obtained from the wage earners, 47 per cent from corporation treasuries, 22 per cent in individual gifts of more than $200, and 3 per cent from miscellaneous benefits," he said.

"We have approached the subject of employe contributions with care and have warned employers to use care, but there are cases of undue hardships against workers."

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Joint Relief fund, told of the actual workings and distribution of the money raised.

"Last August," he said, "we started our plan committee to survey the field and make appropriations. Its estimates were given to the budget committee and appropriations made. Our first estimate was $8,800,000, then it was raised to $10,000,000, and now we see that we must have an additional $10,000,000."

Contributions to the Joint Emergency Relief fund yesterday totaled $112,700, bringing the total pledged to $8,935,873. The largest single subscription was for $50,000 from the Illinois Central railroad employes.

CHARGES SOME JUDGES ACCEPT FAULTY BONDS

Assistant State's Attorney A. C. DeWitt, in charge of the state's attorney's bond department, said yesterday that some of the Municipal court judges are not cooperating with him, and as a result some bail bonds coming from that court are practically worthless. It was proposed last year that a central bonding bureau be established through which all court bonds pass for inspection, but this was never established.

The prosecutor pointed to the release of three persons charged with operating a confidence game under a total bond of $20,500. For their bonds vacant property at 1247 West 14th street was posted. The bonds, accepted by Judges James W. Fardy and Edward S. Scheffler, have since been forfeited.

Another case cited is that of a $5,000 bond posted before Judge Freeman L. Fairbank for the release of Frank McGee. The property for the bond was scheduled by Miss A. J. Burnstein, 6016 Stony Island avenue. The property is worth only $2,400 and has a $1,350 mortgage, the prosecutor said.

MELLON TO ASK AID OF CHARITY VIA INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today submitted a draft of a proposed resolution to the house of representatives authorizing corporations to deduct amounts contributed for charity during the current fiscal year from income tax next year. The same legislation was proposed by Secretary Mellon last year but was not approved.

In his proposal today he said such legislation would give impetus to corporation donations for unemployment and other relief.

The resolution would authorize exemption for such donations by corporations up to fifteen per cent of their net incomes, and would put them on an equal basis with individuals who may deduct for gifts to charity and other causes not in excess of fifteen per cent of their net incomes.

300 Attend Banquet for Treasurer of De Paul

Three hundred faculty members, alumni and friends of De Paul university attended a banquet at the Belden-Stratford hotel last night in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of the Rev. Daniel J. McHugh. Father McHugh, a member of the Vincentian order, has been connected with De Paul since 1906, and has been treasurer of the university since 1910. Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel and former dean of the De Paul college of law, traced the growth of the institution from the days of its founding.

LIVES TO SMOKE A CIGARET AFTER 14 FLOOR PLUNGE

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Plunging from a scaffold on the fourteenth floor of a building here today, Charles Holbert, 28, lived to smoke a cigaret as he waited for an ambulance. It was the dangling ropes of the scaffold that intervened between him and death, although he fell in a series of clutching tumbles all the way to the ground.

Holbert, who is a building cleaner, was at work on the Union Trust building when he slipped from the scaffold fourteen stories up.

Holbert threshed his arms and legs frantically as he fell. He struck against the ropes trailing from the scaffold. He had dropped by three floors, he said, when he managed to seize one of the ropes. The rope whizzed through his hand, but he held his grip. He grasped with the other hand and tried to twist his leg about the rope as the skin was burned from his palms. The pain forced him to let go.

But he had gone a long way toward the ground before that occurred, and directly beneath him were the great coils of rope. On this pile he fell.

At the hospital it was found his burned hands were his most serious injuries. His elbow and back were bruised a little.

2 Children Locked in Home by Mother Burn to Death

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Locked in the kitchen of their home by their mother when she went to a grocery, two children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their home in Ecorse, a suburb.

BOXER IS SHOT BY HOLDUP MEN ON SOUTH SIDE

Jack Barry, 24 years old, a pugilist, staggered into Harry Barnhorst's restaurant at 2115 South Halsted street early this morning and said he had been shot in a holdup. He was taken to the county hospital, where it was found a bullet had penetrated his abdomen. The wound was described as possibly fatal. Barry had several engagements recently in small clubs, but it was said he had virtually retired as a fighter and was seeking a career as a fight manager. He came here from Detroit and had been living at 676 West 18th street.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Arthur Meusel, 68 years old, died at the Illinois Masonic hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in a fall at his home, 501 Belmont avenue, a few hours earlier.

"WATCH HUDSON!"

The Industry does it—

so should you!

ON the fingers of one hand you can count the few great independents left in the automobile industry.

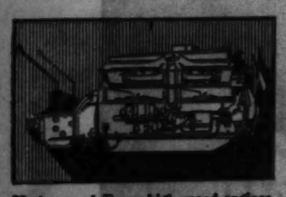
Yet from these few comes each and every year a wealth of invention and innovation such as to put their giant rivals almost to shame.

Hudson stands in the forefront of these independents, and by steady progressiveness every year for nearly a quarter-century unfailingly justifies its place.

Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it—instantly and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on"

In the long roll of contributions to the present art of motor car building Hudson has more than sixty important "first's" to its credit.

The industry as a whole is well aware of the fertility and resourcefulness of Hudson engineering and the efficiency of Hudson production.



Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 87 horsepower at 3600 r. p. m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r. p. m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyance from engine knock as the first Sedan and Coach body, the first compensated inherently balanced crankshaft, first high-compression non-detonating cylinder head, and a host of like improvements. Hudson and Essex cars being exhibited today by our distributors and dealers once more reveal new betterments not yet in general use.

From Hudson example it has drawn such significant advancements

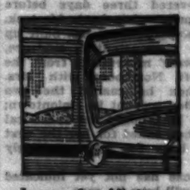
Hudson controls the patents on splayed springs, under which the rear springs of both Hudson and Essex cars are set at an angle with the frame, preventing sideway and greatly increasing comfort. The springs themselves, like the frame and the whole understructure of the car, are heavy-duty built, greatly oversize in comparison with other cars in comparable price range

Aluminum Pistons are tested and proved features in both Hudson and Essex cars. Many other popularly priced cars still utilize the earlier type cast iron pistons, although in notable cases their producers recognize the superiority of aluminum pistons by incorporating them in their more expensive cars

If past history is any index it will be a year or two before the desirable features now being pioneered by Hudson and Essex will be generally available in other cars.

Don't be herded into an unthinking purchase; if you are planning now to buy a motor car in the popular price range go see Hudson and Essex offerings for yourself as a basis of real comparison.



Improved welding practice makes every Hudson and Essex body a single unit of rattle-proof steel from one windshield pillar around the body to the opposite windshield pillar; and panels of silencing material, forming a body within a body, eliminate creaks, drumming and other body noises and operating sounds

Not to examine these advanced automobiles critically and carefully before you decide what car to buy is to spend your good money with your eyes shut.

Just keep in mind that the keenest and wisest minds in the automobile industry itself have learned year after year to say: "Watch Hudson!"

Selective Free Wheeling—Hudson and Essex drivers can "select" to free wheel or not, according to the road. On the straightaway and rolling highways you can enjoy the floating speed and gas-economy of free wheeling. Descending steep grades where you need the engine's extra braking power, a convenient control near the clutch lever throws the motor into conventional gear—instantly—without clashing. An optional feature

As an intelligent motor car buyer who wants his money's worth can you afford to do less? Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

STATE BUILDS UP ITS MURDER CASE AGAINST POWERS

Evidence Forges Chain of Circumstances.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The state will close its case against Harry F. Powers, accused as slayer of five, probably tomorrow noon, it was indicated today as witness after witness identified Powers and traced his movements on the ill-fated trip from Northboro, Mass., to Clarksburg with Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, for whose murder he is being tried in Moore's Opera house.

Mrs. Charles Flemming, sister of the slain woman, pointed Powers out in the courtroom as the man to whom her sister introduced her as her fiancé. On the night of July 26 Mrs. Lemke and Powers came to the Flemming home in Northboro, Mass. The next day Powers left Northboro with his fiancée for his big "ranch out in Iowa." She identified the dead woman's clothing found in the shallow grave at the murder farm and at Powers' home in Clarksburg.

Mr. Flemming also identified Powers and his sister-in-law's clothing.

R. S. Crawford, bank bookkeeper, and W. Lee Williams, cashier, told of Powers depositing $1,760, all in twenty dollar bills, on Aug. 31 and then $2,000 several days later. Two bank employés from Uniontown, Pa., identified Powers as the "Charles Weaver" who cashed two checks for similar amounts drawn on the account of Mrs. Lemke several days before.

Charles Wine, farmer, said that Powers approached him during the latter part of August and asked him to sow rye on the murder farm. He also wanted to build up the land with soil, which would have completely hidden the shallow graves. The bodies were discovered three days before Wine was prepared to begin his task.

Step by step the state has built up a case of circumstantial evidence, tracing Powers' movements from the time he left Northboro with Mrs. Lemke, when he cashed the two checks on her account in Uniontown; later, when he brought her to a local hotel and then called for her the next day. Her body has been positively identified.

The defense has not yet indicated on what it will base its case.

$80,000 IN JEWELS STOLEN FROM 15TH FLOOR FLAT IN N. Y.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Nine pieces of jewelry, worth about $80,000, were stolen some time last night by a thief or thieves who gained entrance to the duplix apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Brewster on the fifteenth and sixteenth floors of the building in Park avenue.

Just how the thief or thieves got into the Brewster home has not been discovered. No door or window had been forced.

The list of stolen articles, as given out by the police, follows: Two bracelets, three brooches, one diamond ring, two pins, and one other article, which was not described. A more complete check is to be made, after which a full description of the missing articles will be made public.

The loss of the Brewster jewels brings the total of the loot taken by burglars in that residential district since Oct. 30 to about $385,000.

COLLEGE YOUTH FOUND SLAIN ON "DORM" STEPS

Washington Has a New Death Mystery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The body of Jermiah Callahan, 21 year old sophomore at the Catholic university, was discovered early this morning on the stone steps of Cardinal Gibbons memorial hall. The right side of the boy's skull was fractured; both his eyes were badly blackened; three ribs were broken, and one had punctured his right lung.

While university authorities were insisting that the boy must have slipped on the flight of thirteen stone steps, or have fallen from the fourth floor windows, other investigators suggested murder. They pointed to the fact that one of Callahan's shoes, fully laced, was found twenty yards away from the body, and that his unshod foot was caked with foot powder, proving, they maintained, that he had been carried to the top of the steps.

Entrance Never Used.

They further pointed out that the door in front of which his body was found was never used by students and that he could not have been going in there.

The body of Callahan, whose home was in Little Falls, N. Y., was found at a quarter to 7 this morning by two fellow students. One of these youths, a Thomas Callahan, no relation to the dead boy, said that the body was too close to the wall to have fallen from above and that a projecting balcony would have prevented a jump from above.

Father Francis P. Cassidy, dean of men at the university, going to the first floor of the dormitory late last night to investigate "a slight disturbance," noted the absence of Jermiah Callahan from his room on the first floor, on the opposite side of the building to where his body was found. The boy's whereabouts during the night have not been accounted for.

Alcohol in Stomach.

An autopsy performed this afternoon showed traces of a small amount of alcohol in the stomach.

A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow, following the arrival tonight of Callahan's father.

ROBBED OF CAR AND CASH.

Four bandits robbed Paul Lukowski, 4104 Todd avenue, East Chicago, of $210 and his sedan and took $20 from his companion, Edward Spaniver, 1105 Michigan avenue, Hammond, early yesterday in Calumet City.

AUTO COLLIDES WITH AMBULANCE AND 2 ARE HURT

Two men were critically injured yesterday when their automobile collided with a U. S. army ambulance and overturned at Addison street and Harlem avenue. They are Morris Greneberg, 22 years old, 5636 North Spaulding avenue, and Jack Landsman, 41 years old, 3625 Leland avenue. Both were taken to the Belmont hospital. Private Carlos Stillman, detailed to the sixth corps area headquarters at 1819 West Pershing road, was the ambulance driver. He was not hurt.

Russell Perkins, 43 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when he attempted to crank his truck while the machine was in gear in front of his home at 2223 169th street, Hammond. The truck started forward and ran over him. He died at St. Margaret's hospital.

There were no automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday, and the toll since Jan. 1 remained at 1,311.

FROM field to package, Chesterfields are protected by the strictest purity standards; the most modern sanitary manufacturing methods.

They're rolled in the finest, whitest paper . . . that burns without taste or odor. Wrapped in a clean, attractive package . . . neat, fresh-looking; moisture-tight . . . but easy to open.

And delivered as fast as they're made . . . from 3 big factories . . . to every cigarette counter in the land.

LOOK TO FARMER FOR PROSPERITY IN NEW ZEALAND

He's Expected to Pull It Out of Mess.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Fifth Article.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 8.—Sensational as has been the decline in New Zealand's status among nations, that fall could not have come about unless the dominion had first contrived to raise itself from the level of pre-war production and set trade figures which were a guarantee to overseas lenders.

This policy of extravagant borrowing terminated only this summer with the refusal of investors abroad to buy more New Zealand bonds. Trade has fallen off. Sources of foreign credit have dried up. Now the dominion, having called the tune, must pay the piper.

In the intense drive for larger production totals nothing played a greater part than the coöperative movement in the dairy produce industry and the state intervention in all major export industries "for reasons of efficiency."

Trade Chiefly Agricultural.

New Zealand's trade is 92.3 per cent agricultural. Its farm problem has been that of stimulating production to the utmost in order to boost the volume of exports, which alone kept it in a position to continue foreign borrowing.

One by one New Zealand's industries producing for foreign sale have come under legislation vesting control in a board.

The meat board was set up by parliament in 1921-22 to "control meat shipments in the interests of the suppliers." Meat may be exported only by decision of the board, which thus has the vital function of controlling the volume of supplies on the London market where 98 per cent or the meat is sold.

Boards Control Export Trade.

Stimulated by initial success in this attempt, the government has been encouraged to set up boards for the control of every major exporting industry.

But with the early efforts of the dairy produce board the country had bitter experience. New Zealand controlled one quarter of total butter shipments to Great Britain. The board was directed by ambitious men who in 1926-27 attempted to bull the market. This was too much for London's butter kings. They retaliated by smashing the market for New Zealand. It took a year to recover.

For years the cry in this country was for higher production. More intense farming, coupled with the fifty year old coöperative movement among the farmers themselves and the control boards' policy of cutting costs, was effective.

Prosperity Chorus Rings.

This encouraged inordinate expansion. The prosperity chorus waxed louder than ever. Even after the crash of 1929 inner councils of the reform party argued strenuously that the crisis would pass in a year.

Somehow it never occurred to any one to question the earning power of borrowed money, or to suggest that expansion would ever be interrupted or to ask what would happen if it were.

Economic salvation of the country rests with the farmer, for his products constitute nearly 94 per cent of the country's exports. Yet there is no marked movement to raise dairy and pastoral yields to meet the crisis. He is discouraged as well as handicapped. An emergency budget, promising him subsidies, has to be brought into force at this moment.

Farmer Not to Blame.

The farmer has capitalized high prices on his land, mortgaging for improvements and for the purchase of additional land. But aside from this he is not especially to blame.

He has merely been playing his part in a community which has banked too heavily on the future and has failed to come through. The farmer is now expected to get down to work, though most of his earnings are going to his creditors, and pull the country out of the mess.

Chief hope for New Zealand now lies in the new policy of absorbing the unemployed by using them to break in new country for farms. Fifty thousand jobless register each month.

The dominion is poorly endowed with minerals but has magnificent soil and an excellent climate in which droughts are unknown. For years the desirability of a land settlement drive has been admitted.

Will Put Jobless on Farms.

The government's first step will be to see that farms already occupied take all the labor they can use and produce at top speed. Plans have been made to supply farmers with subsidized labor. Then the government intends to bring into cultivation new land, the opening up of some 2,000,000 acres of crown lands being under consideration at present.

"New Zealand has reached a stage at which the people must depend more on their own efforts and less upon work carried on through loan money," Joseph Gordon Coates, minister of public works, has warned the dominion. "It may be possible to arrange things without making any further increase in taxation. But it is impossible to change the present position of the unemployed unless more money is available.

"At present the unemployment board receives $12,500,000 annually and spends $200,000 a week. Given the necessary funds the government will proceed vigorously with the task of moving men into productive work."

responsible and who urge senseless civil war and foreign political folly.

"If it is asserted that on seizing power by legal means one intends then to break down legal barriers, then that isn't legality, especially not if at the same time, within the intimate circle, plans of revenge are formulated and discussed. It is against this that I, as a responsible statesman, turn most sharply. I shall in the future oppose by all constitutional means partisan attempts to divide the German people into two opposing camps."

He warned his hearers that it was dangerous in the time of the Fatherland's supreme need to "awaken an impression abroad as though in Germany there were a divided front, yes, even a government of tomorrow which could arrogate to itself the right to speak for the German people."

Chancellor Bruening defended himself for maintaining a long silence in the face of opposition attacks.

"I have been reproached for remaining silent too long," he said. "After all, the duty to work conscientiously seems to me greater than that of talking, and I am confident the German people support objective earnestness. I shall not attempt with promises and illusions to deceive you about our real condition."

The chancellor said he sympathetically understood that in time of distress the masses are inclined to chase after phantoms.

"But wishes do not constitute a political program," he warned. "If Germany's political leadership were to yield to the temptation to cure the ills of the present by emphasizing unattainable goals it would be the end of Germany."

Riot in Hessian Diet.

DARMSTADT, Germany, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The newly elected Hessian diet opened today under the leadership of Adolf Hitler's followers amid tumultuous scenes.

The communists broke into a storm of catcalls and hisses, almost disrupting the session, when the National Socialists supported the Centrists in referring a communist relief bill back to committee.

Prof. Werner, a National Socialist, was elected president with the support of the Centrists. The Nazis now hold the reins of three provincial diets, Oldenburg, Brunswick, and Hesse.

FRANCE INSISTS ON DEBT REDUCTION IF REPARATIONS ARE CUT

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The French government publicly took the position today that any reduction in German reparations payments must be accompanied by a simultaneous reduction in other intergovernmental obligations. This stand was set forth in instructions sent to the nation's ambassadors and ministers.

These diplomatic representatives were informed that France considers Germany's request for an inquiry into her ability to pay reparations to be the just initiative of a debtor desiring to meet his engagements.

The government's official explanation of the debt stand shared interest with an announcement by Albert H. Wiggin, American banker, that banking interests in Germany's creditor countries are in harmony in regard to the problem of short-term German credits. Mr. Wiggin, who headed the world bank committee that investigated Germany's economic structure last summer, will go to Berlin tomorrow at the invitation of a committee of German bankers.

FARM LOST, HE RUNS AMOK, THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 8.—Bitterly resisting a mortgage foreclosure sale of his farm and stock, Thomas Stokes, 50, formerly a wealthy farmer and lately Stamford township councillor, waited for the bailiff to mount his auction platform today, shot three times at him, set fire to his home, and then shot himself fatally through the head. One of Stokes' bullets went through the hat of James Milne, real estate agent, interested in the sale, but Stokes himself was the only casualty. The foreclosure sale was postponed.

Asks Police to Guard Ranieri Case Witness

Additional police protection was requested yesterday for Attilio Scalzitti, star state witness in the Billy Ranieri kidnaping case three years ago, for which Angelo Pettiti and Andrew Capalano were convicted. A supposed attempt on Scalzitti's life last week, when police found two revolvers in a parked automobile in front of his monument works at Madison and Throop streets, was the cause of the added protection. A. Frank Ranieri, 4901 Altgeld street, a contractor and father of Billy, made the request for protection for Scalzitti at the racket bureau yesterday.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

NEED MONEY?

QUESTION EASILY ANSWERED AS NATIONAL COMPANY MAKES SPECIAL LOW RATES FOR CHICAGO TEST

Now Chicago Benefits By Being Selected As The Test City for An Experiment In Economic Adjustment

HEADS BENEFICIAL MANAGEMENT

Mr. Charles H. Watts, President of the Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation, largest organization of its kind in the world, expresses his confidence in the integrity of the average American man or woman.

For here in Chicago the Personal Finance Company, subsidiary of the great national Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation with 347 offices in 297 cities has lowered its rates to 1½% per month on that part of a loan over $100 and to 3% per month on that part under $100. Furthermore, interest is charged for only the exact number of days the balance remains unpaid.

The honesty and integrity of the average American man and woman never fluctuates with business conditions. This is the security on which we lend. We consider it the finest in the world.

So, while the past year has seen drastic declines in the value of stocks, bonds, real estate and merchandise used as collateral or security for bank loans, the security we seek from borrowers has never varied.

Believing in this security and aware of the fact that our company owes a service to those same American men and women, who, through their duly elected law-makers, have granted us the franchises under which we do business, we have undertaken this experiment in Chicago.

We sincerely trust that the volume of business resulting from the lower rates we have announced will justify their maintenance.

Charles H. Watts

Charges much less than allowed by Illinois law

The Illinois legislature in the Uniform Small Loan Act, after a careful study of conditions under which small loans are made and after a searching examination of the figures compiled by the Russell Sage Foundation, set the lawful rate of interest on small loans at 3½% per month on the amount remaining unpaid. This rate was fixed as the maximum to be charged and was considered entirely fair to both borrower and lender.

Only National Company can afford to make lower rate

Money is like groceries. The greater the volume, the lower the cost of doing business. In other words, if you lend enough, your volume of business enables you to lend for less. As business increases, the proportionate cost of handling each loan decreases so that there comes a time when a lower rate per loan is justified because of the vast number of loans being made.

Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation, parent of Personal Finance Company, has lent this year over $75,000,000.00. This great volume and the Company's vast resources have prompted this experiment in Chicago.

Volume of business makes low rates possible

As Mr. Charles H. Watts, President of Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation says in his editorial in this advertisement, Personal Finance Company owes an obligation to the people of this state, whose will, expressed by their lawmakers, invites such companies to organize and do business.

Recognizing that debt to the people of Chicago, and being content with only a fair business profit from operations, we have lowered our rates to 1½% per month on unpaid balances of between $100 and $300 and to 3% per month on unpaid balances of under $100.

We hope to maintain these lower rates

On the support of our neighbors in Chicago will depend our ability to maintain these rates.

So, if you need money to pay bills, to make your home more comfortable, to buy new clothes or for any other legitimate reason, see us. Take advantage of these low rates and of the present day bargains which ready cash will enable you to buy. For now the stores are full of genuine opportunities for those who have the wherewithal to purchase.

Our friendly loan service is here to help. It is courteous, confidential, quick.

Loans arranged in 24 hours or less

When people need money, they usually want it quickly. That is why we are organized for speedy action. That is why arranging a loan with us is only a matter of hours.

You get the full amount you borrow; there are no deductions, no extras. And you are dealing with the courteous, carefully selected, thoroughly trained, sympathetic, human representatives of the largest organization of its kind in the world.

Remember, our new rates are only experimental; if we get the volume of business we hope to, they will be continued. So, if you need money, now is the time to act.

GERMANY PLACES SHORT TERM DEBT AT 2¾ BILLIONS

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 8.—The vast German financial census taken during the last few months determined Germany's short term credits owed to American, British, French and other creditors at a total of 11,000,000,000 marks [about $2,750,000,000]. This is half again as much as the world bank committee headed by Albert H. Wiggin, American banker, figured them to be last summer.

This was revealed today by Dr. Carl Melchior, Germany's representative, to his colleagues on the world bank advisory committee which is investigating Germany's capacity to pay reparations. In spite of this staggering total of obligations falling due this winter, Germany is firmly determined to stay on the gold standard, Herr Melchior assured the banking experts.

Repays $250,000,000 Credits.

Herr Melchior said Germany had repaid 1,000,000,000 marks [about $250,000,000] in short term credits during the last six months. That, added to the remaining debt, makes a total of 12,000,000,000 marks [about $3,000,000,000], as compared to 8,000,000,000 marks [about $2,000,000,000], estimated by the Wiggin committee.

The 50 per cent increase was attributed by Herr Melchior to the fact that industrial debts—the debts of German firms to foreign firms—were much larger than had been believed.

The bold plunge of the undersized German expert into the forbidden fields of private debts went unrefuted by Charles Rist, French delegate, who kept in the background contrary to expectations. The world bank committee is supposed to concern itself with reparations only, but already it is evident that short term credits are being recognized as the key to the situation.

Debt Contracted in Gold.

Herr Melchior, in backing up his statement that Germany would not go off the gold standard, pointed out that most of her external debt had been contracted in gold currencies and a good part of her internal debts as well, but he cited chiefly the almost superstitious dread which the mere mention of the word "inflation" produced on the average German who has lived through one inflation.

Herr Melchior also declared that the gold coverage of the mark had fallen to 13 per cent from the 30 per cent which prevailed when the Wiggin committee was deliberating. The 13 per cent coverage, he said, was exclusive of bank holdings of foreign exchange.

Herr Melchoir explained the shrinkage of gold coverage in face of a favorable trade balance, which reached 950,000,000 marks [about $87,500,000] last month, by saying that German exporters had been obliged to grant foreign importers credits maturing at distant dates, whereas import transactions, although diminished in volume, show an increasing tendency towards cash.

3 Sailors Killed When Auto Crashes Into Tree

Suisun, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Three sailors from the Mare Island navy yard, members of a tugboat crew, were killed today when their automobile crashed into a tree on the highway between here and Napa. Officers said the car apparently had been traveling at a high rate of speed.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYED MOUNT AGAIN AFTER DROP FOR 2 MONTHS

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—For the first time since the end of September British unemployment showed an increase in the week ended Nov. 23. The total then was 2,422,027, which was 6,912 more than the previous week and 216,243 more than at the same time a year ago.

Germany Passes 5 Million Mark.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Germany's unemployed at the end of November totaled 5,057,000. On Oct. 30 the number of unemployed in Germany stood at 4,822,000, which represented an increase of 138,000 over the previous two weeks. The November increase, therefore, was 235,000.

MacDONALD FACES FIGHT TODAY ON VOTE OF CENSURE

Tories Demand High Tariffs.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—A dramatic situation is likely to develop in the debate beginning in the house of commons tomorrow and lasting two days, which will decide whether Prime Minister MacDonald will continue as leader of the National party. He is face to face with an organized group of 300 diehard Tories and high protectionists, who are determined to put him out and to put Gen. Pageczut or L. S. Amery in his place.

Vote on Labor Censure.

Nominally the debate will be held on a formal vote of censure by the Labor party. Putting it in this form was a tactical victory for Mr. MacDonald. The Tories wanted a resolution demanding instant tariffs on iron, steel and cotton, for which many of the Conservative members who do not want to embarrass Mr. MacDonald are compelled to vote.

Prime Minister MacDonald ruled that the censure motion must take precedence over anything else and that it be wide enough to allow anything to be debated. The Conservative members who wish immediate protection, therefore must vote with the Labor party to censure the whole National government.

Snowden May Resign.

If the protectionists succeed, their success is sure to be followed immediately by the resignation of Philip Snowden, lord privy seal, and Sir Herbert Samuel, secretary of state for home affairs, thus leaving Mr. MacDonald and J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for dominion affairs, almost the sole progressives in the government and giving them no choice but to resign or continue as orthodox Conservatives.

LEAGUE EFFORTS TO HALT THE WAR CALLED "FUTILE"

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Manchester Guardian, which has been critical of the league of nations during the current Manchurian debate, today carried an editorial describing the league council's efforts to solve that dispute as "futile and weak efforts which have only served to make the league contemptible in the eyes of the world."

"If the league can do no more than this when no European power is directly involved, when the United States is prepared to countenance, if not cooperate, in any action it may take, what hope is there of its being effective in more complicated disputes?" the editorial said.

LEAGUE CLOSES TODAY; FAILS TO SOLVE WAR PERIL

Asks Japan to Evacuate "as Soon as Possible."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Upset by reports of new fighting in Manchuria, the league of nations council took hasty steps today to insure its evacuation from Paris before the end of the week.

An eleventh hour effort was made to secure an agreement between Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative, and Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese representative, on the text of the resolution to be adopted by the council and the "interpretation" which will be delivered by Chairman Briand. Once more this proved impossible. But this time the members of the council have decided that they would rather risk a frank discussion and possibly even a row in a public meeting than be caught still sitting in Paris when the next big Manchurian battle takes place.

Hold Final Meeting Today.

Accordingly, it was agreed that a public session will be held at 5 p. m. tomorrow, agreement or no agreement. At that time a resolution will be presented merely asking Japan to evacuate Manchuria "as soon as possible."

The resolution was submitted to Ambassador Dawes, American observer, today. Mr. Dawes conferred with M. Briand at the Quai d'Orsay and it is understood that he approved the resolution.

As one semi-official commentator put it, this marks the third phase of the league's activities. The first phase consisted of an attempt to get the Japanese to evacuate Manchuria. This failed. The second was a strenuous effort to make the Chinese evacuate what was left of Manchuria. That failed. Third, is the determination by the council itself to evacuate its position with as much dignity as it can and to wash its hands of the whole business.

Japan Asks Delay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 9 [1 p. m. Wednesday].—The Japanese government sent instructions to Paris this afternoon requesting that the final meeting of the league of nations council be postponed a day in the hope of persuading the council to drop its point in article 5 providing for a commission of inquiry in Manchuria which reads, "with such recommendation as they see fit." A spokesman at the foreign office said: "Unless this needless clause is deleted, Japan absolutely will not accept the resolution. This clause, while outwardly harmless, contains a hidden motive, this being that the league wishes to show to the world that it demanded that Japan withdraw her troops."

American Victim in Train Holdup.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 8.—(AP)—An American was one of the victims of a train robbery four miles west of Hsinmin last midnight, it was disclosed today. He was L. L. Loucks, manager of the China-American Export company with headquarters at Tientsin.

Twelve Chinese bandits stopped the train and robbed every passenger in eight of its thirteen cars. After twenty minutes they permitted the train to go on.

W. H. Steele, traffic supervisor for the Peiping-Mukden railway and L. L. Lacey, a Tientsin fur buyer, both Englishmen, also were robbed. They and Loucks lost all their money, their baggage and their overcoats.

Japanese Approach Gen. Ma.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A Harbin dispatch to the Daily Mail said Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander, was approached at Hailun today by a Japanese delegation with a proposal for "cooperation" in Manchuria and expressions of a desire for peace. Gen. Ma, who was driven out of Tsitsihar by Japanese forces recently, replied that the suggestion "needed further elucidation," the dispatch said.

MEXICAN CATHOLIC CONGRESS VOTES TO 'WAR' AGAINST Y.M.C.A.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A motion urging all priests and lay Catholics to wage a campaign against the Young Men's Christian association, the Young Women's Christian association and other similar organizations brought to Mexico from the United States was passed by the National Guadalupe congress here.

The congress is in session in connection with the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the supposed appearance of the virgin of Guadalupe. The motion accused the societies named of injecting an anti-nationalist spirit into the country and encouraging athletic parades of both sexes where the participants "appear in public half nude."

Other motions passed condemned motion picture films that are "contrary to Christian morality," as well as "immoral fashions," alcohol and divorce.

Half of Schools to Close in Some Mexican States

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Lack of finances will force the closing of about half the schools in some Mexican states next year, according to information sent the ministry of education. The department was informed that some state governments already have discharged up to fifty per cent of their teachers in order to curtail expenses.

GRANDI REPORTS TO DUCE; PRAISES STABILITY OF U. S.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 8.—Premier Mussolini today placed his approval on the 30 day pilgrimage to the United States of his young foreign minister, Dino Grandi, who returned to Rome at noon today. Immediately on his return, Grandi went to the Palazzo Venezia, where he discussed the results of his trip for more than an hour with Il Duce.

Grandi left the liner Augustus at Naples this morning in high spirits over his American visit, which he considered his most successful accomplishment. He said it had increased his confidence in the success of the disarmament conference at Geneva next February.

Grandi was highly impressed, he declared, with the solidity and stability of American economic and business conditions. Descriptions of the crisis in the United States which had been prevalent in Europe before he left, he said, had not been borne out by his observations. He declared he could discover but few signs of distress and hardship comparable to European conditions.

Grandi said his Washington visit revealed to him the close ties existing between the United States and England, which resulted in close cooperation between the two Anglo-Saxon countries and their frequent identity of views in matters of world politics.

"Before I left I threw a coin in the Potomac river," he said. "I hope it will bring me the good luck of being able to repeat my American visit."

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday held Mrs. Katherine Lidikewicz, owner of a small candy store at 615 West 13th street, to the grand jury as a bootlegger.

The ruling was made over the protest of the woman's attorney, Barratt O'Hara, that she had been singled out for prosecution because there had been a display of indignation in Chicago when her husband, from whom she is estranged, was convicted of violating prohibition laws and sentenced to sixty days in jail.

Mr. O'Hara demanded of the two agents who arrested Mrs. Lidikewicz why they went into the candy store, worked on her sympathies by speaking to her in Lithuanian, and persuaded her to give them drinks from a bottle on the plea that they were suffering from cold. The attorney was told only that there were "special orders" to investigate the little candy store.

A Frameup, Attorney Charges.

"This arrest was motivated by ill feeling," declared O'Hara. "It is a frameup. Is it necessary for Uncle Sam to have his pound of flesh?"

Boleslaw Lidikewicz, the janitor husband of the defendant, admitted at his trial that he made some home brew. In his defense rose Charles L. Wiley, a world war veteran, who asserted that the janitor made the beer for him and wasn't selling it. At the demand of Assistant District Attorney Wiles, Mr. Wiley was summarily thrown in jail as an accomplice and held to the grand jury.

The American Legion has taken up the fight in behalf of Wiley and a committee of Poles, Lithuanians, and Czecho-Slovaks has forwarded to Washington a plea that President Hoover free Lidikewicz. This petition was under consideration when Mrs. Lidikewicz was arrested on Dec. 2. The janitor is still in jail.

Dry Agent Is Witness.

James Kominakis, one of the prohibition agents who testified yesterday against the woman, admitted that he also participated in the arrest of Lidikewicz at 3901 North Kimball avenue, and the seizure of his two half barrels of beer.

In describing the arrest of Mrs. Lidikewicz, Kominakis said that after he and Agent Hale Thomas went to her store they were served with two drinks apiece and that Thomas paid for them with $2, receiving $0 cents in change.

Kominakis testified that he felt sorry for Mrs. Lidikewicz and for Mrs. Lucy Washkis, who, with her three sons, lived with Mrs. Lidikewicz. They told him they were poor and had been victims of burglars and he gave one of the boys 50 cents as a gift, Kominakis asserted.

Agent Thomas said he, too, had been a donor to the household. He gave one of the boys $1 to go to a show, he said.

Mrs. Lidikewicz Testifies.

In her testimony Mrs. Lidikewicz, who is 39 years old, asserted that Agent Thomas represented himself as an attorney and that both he and Kominakis pleaded with her to let them get warm in her parlor. They then asked her for a drink of liquor, she added, and urged her to get some when she said she had none.

"I finally got out a bottle a druggist gave me a few weeks ago when I was sick," she said. "I gave them some of it. The one who talked my language put $2 on the table. I told him I wouldn't take it, but he left it there. Then he asked for change, and I sent a boy to the front of the store for change. They left the money on the table when they took me away."

Mrs. Washkis and her sons all testified that no liquor was ever sold in the candy store or the living quarters behind it.

POLICEMAN GIVES BATTLE TO GANG; TWO ARE CAUGHT

Eight directors and twelve customers of the Triplex Building and Loan association were being held up in the association headquarters at 1805 South Racine avenue late last night by four armed men when Policeman Emanuel Doran of the Maxwell street station walked in.

Two of the robbers fired on him and drove him to the street, where he drew his own pistol and fired back at them. The men ran out and Doran pursued them. They eluded him. The other robbers fled out a rear. Altogether about $1,000 was taken from the office of the association.

Sergt. Joseph Kalacek and a flivver squad captured the last two of the robbers, but found no money on them. Both were identified by Robert J. Simon, assistant secretary of the building and loan association, and others who had been held up. They are Frank Chioda, 21 years old, 2453 Arthington street, alias Frank Tomacelli, and Joseph Campesi, 17 years old, 1825 Taylor street.

Young Chioda had been sought on a warrant charging him with the murder of 18 year old Angelo Scaccione, 1422 Flournay street, who was shot in a quarrel on the street near his home on Sept. 16.

DRUGGAN, LAKE FACE COURT FOR SENTENCE TODAY

Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, former beer barons, are scheduled to be sentenced to the penitentiary today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for income tax evasion. Druggan faces a possible maximum sentence of 32 years and Lake one of 27 years. Druggan also is subject to a maximum fine of $50,000 and Lake to a fine of $50,000.

Their cases have been continued from time to time contingent upon the outcome of the income tax appeals of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, which recently proved unsuccessful.

Druggan is alleged to owe the government more than $300,000 in taxes, interest, and penalties on an income of approximately $1,000,000 from 1922 to 1925. Lake is alleged to owe more than $200,000 for 1923, 1924, and 1925.

SALANDRA, WAR LEADER OF ITALY, DIES AT AGE OF 78

ROME, Dec. 9 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—Former Premier Antonio Salandra died early this morning. He was 78 years old. The former cabinet minister, who was premier of Italy in the early days of the world war, had been suffering from a heart ailment.

Sig. Salandra, first of Italy's three wartime premiers, was a man of stubborn qualities whose insistence in the face of strong opposition in May, 1915, won King Victor Emanuel's approval that led to Italy's entrance into the conflict.

Sig. Salandra bore the brunt of the first year of the war, but when the Austrians drove a successful offensive into the Trentino district in 1916 he resigned.

Sig. Salandra was noted as a scholar. Before the war he was professor of administrative law at the University of Rome. He was born at Irola, in southern Italy.

HELENE COSTELLO'S CROSS BILL ACCUSES SHERMAN OF VIOLENCE

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—A bitter court fight was indicated when Helene Costello, film actress, filed a cross bill to the complaint of her husband, Lowell Sherman. She accuses the actor of breaking her finger and tearing the finger nail off in one family set-to preceding their separation last Nov. 1.

Miss Costello categorically denies all the charges included in Sherman's divorce action and asks $5,000 a month alimony, $10,000 for lawyers' fees, and division of property which, she says, amounts to $150,000.

Miss Costello's cross bill admits striking Sherman's mother, Mrs. Julia Sherman, but says this happened after Mrs. Sherman had "called me a terrible name."

released on her own recognizance by Commissioner Walker.

Mother of 18 Arrested.

Mrs. Domenica Rago is the defendant who is said to be the mother of 18 children. She is 55 years old. Prohibition Agent Lawrence Long testified that he went to her lunchroom at 1101 North 22d avenue, Melrose Park, on Nov. 17, asked for a drink, and was given a glass of wine and a bottle of home brew.

Mrs. Rago was given a continuance until Thursday and released on bonds of $1,000.

FEES TO POLICE FOR U. S. LIQUOR RAIDS REVEALED

Mother of 18 Is Held as Dry Law Violator.

The six city policemen assigned to aid prohibition agents in Chicago are adding to their pay with government witness fees paid them for appearing against prohibition violators. This was disclosed yesterday at the federal building.

The disclosures came after hearings before U. S. Commissioner E. K. Walker in which two women, one said to be the mother of eighteen children, were held as dry law violators because they sold drinks of home brew to dry agents.

One of the defendants was Mrs. Amelia Cook, 48 years old, 7640 Belmont avenue. Policeman George Melican, assigned to the dry ces, was a witness against her, having been one of the party which raided her home. His name appeared on the docket of the case with the notation " witness fee, $2."

$2 Fee to Policemen.

Alfred W. Bosworth, an assistant district attorney, said all of the policemen receive $2 for every day they spend in court. Since they appear against virtually every defendant in whose arrest they participate, the fees make a sizable addition to their monthly income.

In the case of Mrs. Cook, it was testified that Prohibition Agent Bernard H. Schaffer went to the back door of her home on Nov. 23 and she sold him two drinks of home brew for 25 cents apiece. A raid on a search warrant, in which Policeman Melican participated, disclosed that she had 11 quarts and 62 pints of home brew in the house. She was held to the grand jury in bonds of $500, but was

Burglar Quiets Boy, Loots North Side Home of $2,725

A colored burglar who climbed through a window into the home of Darius C. Franche, 5849 Winthrop avenue, late last night escaped with $75 which he found in a dresser drawer, two rings valued at a total of $2,050, and a $600 fur coat. The burglar compelled Darius Jr., young son of Franche, to remain quiet while he gathered the loot. Mrs. Franche, who had been out of the house, returned in time to see the thief crawling out the window with her property. Two guests in another part of the apartment, which is on the first floor, were unaware of the burglar's presence.

ASK GRAND JURY TO ACT IN GILDAY SHOOTING TODAY

Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Daniel A. Covelli will go before the grand jury today to ask that true bills be voted against Daniel L. Gilday, gun toting dry reformer, charging him with assault to murder, assault with a deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapons. A charge of possession and transportation of liquor against Gilday will be acted upon at a hearing Friday in the felony court.

Meanwhile Herman Knol, 17 years old, victim of the reformer's bullet, was reported as rapidly recovering in the Englewood hospital. He was shot in the abdomen by Gilday when he tried to guide the snooper's wavering steps on the night of Nov. 29. Young Knol has announced that he will answer personally each of the hundreds of letters that have flooded his sick room. Hospital officials have arranged for a court stenographer so that Knol can dictate his replies.

Gilday is in the county jail, unable to post bond of $23,500.

BOILS ARE SIGNS OF TROUBLE • TRY EATING YEAST!

CLOGGED intestines are their most frequent cause.
STOMACH

PAINFUL! . . . Why don't you correct the cause of boils?
FRESH YEAST clears away body poisons . . . purifies . . . has a very remarkable effect on boils

STOP those BOILS!

They're a sign of trouble you can easily correct, if you will, Doctors say. Here's the way!

BEEN neglecting your health? That's what it means, you know, when you come down with furunculosis (boils)!

For boils are a symptom of trouble . . . serious trouble inside you. Usually they indicate a badly deranged condition of your intestines!

Here's how doctors explain it. When intestines are sluggish, waste material accumulates . . . stagnates. Poisons form . . . filter through your system. Then, first thing you know—another boil! A headache. Or a nasty cold.

Now, doctors have found out how you can put a stop to boils with very little effort. Every day, they say, eat 3 cakes of fresh yeast!

A food, Fleischmann's Yeast softens the waste matter in your intestines . . . gently induces intestinal muscles to remove it regularly.

Thus healthy elimination is restored—and the principal cause of boils, blemishes, etc., is no more!

In addition, Fleischmann's Yeast increases the germ-fighting white corpuscles in the blood. And it actually raises the skin's newly-discovered, self-disinfecting power!

So don't put it off. Add Fleischmann's Yeast to your diet and know relief from boils at last!

Directions on the label. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains.

IMPORTANT—Fleischmann's Yeast for health is sold only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh effective form, the kind famous doctors ordered! Rich in vitamins A, G, D.

It's Up to the Women

From an Editorial in the January Ladies' Home Journal

The purchasing agents of twenty-nine million American families—the women in the homes—can have a lot to do with starting the wheels of prosperity turning early in the new year Nineteen Thirty-Two.

Each one with three meals a day to prepare—87,000,000 meals today, tomorrow, next day and all days.

Millions of pairs of shoes and stockings for children's scuffling feet; millions of dresses.

Millions of cakes of soap to wash dishes and clothes and dirty hands; millions of tubes of toothpaste; millions of cosmetic items for the sake of good looks that, depression or no depression, must be maintained.

Motor cars, refrigerators, washing machines, homes, all the major items of big family expense, which husband and wife buy together, with woman's wants and woman's voice always a factor in decisions.

Living standards must be maintained!

There is nothing to fear—except fear.

When the public again expresses confidence in its banks by leaving normal deposits on deposit instead of withdrawing the money and hiding it under a mattress——

Then bank failures will largely cease. Your banks are safer than a hole in the ground for your cash.

When the buying public starts buying again, instead of wearing old clothes, driving old cars, living with old furnishings, getting along with antiquated equipment, cutting down on food supplies, and in general waiting for still lower prices and for so-called "better times"——

Then retailers will start moving their stocks from their shelves; manufacturers will start making new goods; labor will find full employment and buying power; money will rapidly come into full circulation——

And normalcy will have returned.

The Journal reader who maintains at this time for herself and her family the highest standard of living that her income can afford, is the woman America needs to help end this depression. She has always courageously played her part. We are confident that she will play it today.

It's up to the women!

THE SEVEN-POINT PLATFORM of the American Economists Committee for Women's Activities—prompted by the editorial in the Ladies' Home Journal:

1. Maintain Normal Living Conditions

The food you eat, the clothes you wear, the house you live in constitute your standard of living. Don't lower it. Put your dollars to work. Your purchases will keep retail stocks moving, factories running, your neighbor at work, money in circulation, credit active.

2. Satisfy Your Wants at Today's Prices

Food, clothing and shelter can all be bought right now at prices that are exceedingly advantageous.

3. Buy a Home Now

The house and lot that you buy at today's prices will surely be a sound and profitable purchase. It is a splendid way to save.

4. Modernize and Repair Your Home

Present conditions are highly favorable. It will make your surroundings more pleasing and will make jobs for the unemployed.

5. Join the Parade to Prosperity

You can participate and profit in the inevitable recovery of general industry by investing in sound American securities.

6. Stop Being Afraid

Americans are not cowards or misers. Don't spread calamity gossip. Be sane. Spread good news. The courageous will reap the benefits.

7. Keep Your Money Safe—Don't Hoard It

Hoarded money may be misplaced or lost or stolen. Hoarded money pays no dividends. Hoarded money dries up credit—and it gives no one a job. The banking system is sound.

This platform for wise spending and saving has been urged upon the public by hundreds of national, state and community leaders.

Join now in this national movement to help restore normal living. For fuller details of the plan send your name today to the American Economists Committee for Women's Activities, Independence Square, Philadelphia, and be one of the leaders in the return to prosperity.

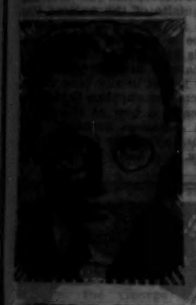
Future Better Than the Past, Author Argues

R. D. Bowden Defends Civilization.

BY AUDRIE ALSPAUGH CHASE.

"In Defense of Tomorrow," by Robert Douglas Bowden. [Macmillan.]

MOURNING may become Electra, but funeral trappings go against the grain of the national train of thought; so it's high time the weeds were put off and garments of gaiety put on.



ROBERT D. BOWDEN.

Here's a volume which serves as a handbook for acquiring a better state of mind—fundamental basis for folding away the veils of general gloom in which we've been enshrouded for some time. The book, called "In Defense of Tomorrow," by Robert Douglas Bowden, recently was awarded the John G. Agar prize of $3,000 for the best book on the ideal of America in a contest sponsored by the National Arts club.

Mr. Bowden, formerly superintendent of schools in Glen Ellyn, Ill., now is head of the department of social science at Youngstown college in Ohio. His book bears the marks of the pedagogue and after reading it one feels the pedagogical way is a pretty good way of writing a book. For he states the cases presented by his opponents, gives them full hearing, then refutes them fore and aft.

That's why it's such a right book for the times. For the opponents who are inspected and sentenced to futility are prophets of despair.

Mr. Bowden quotes from all of Oswald Spengler who thinks western civilization will hardly be able to get up in the morning; Lippman, Stoddard, Frederick, Keyserling, clear through the list, and then sets up his counter forces.

Following his arguments, one feels he reaches his valuations on the basis of general common sense. He takes up these particular pains of the pessimist, standardization, and the machine era, and says:

"Regimentation is always and essentially a social fact in every civilization."

"Standardization," according to Mr. Bowden, "is more truly a liberator than an agent of slavery. It relegates individual problems to the field of routine and leaves creative faculties to the larger problems of growth and culture."

Yet, he goes on, "American life is not standardized. We have a diverse population which is constantly in flux. Urban centers are growing and the variety of occupations is ever on the increase."

Mr. Bowden looks at culture, religion, politics, government, literature and education in stimulating fashion. The latter is the magic medium to bring about the great promise of tomorrow, he believes.

After a survey of the American scene from end to end, here is the single conclusion offered:

"Every great civilization in the past has rested upon a basis of material well being. Most of them have attained that condition at the expense of other peoples. America's course lies in the opposite direction—the state only for the individual."

He will be in Chicago, in the book section of Marshall Field & Co., during Christmas week to autograph his volume for those who wish them.

Lenz, Jacoby Lead by 2,075 in Card Battle

Seven Rubbers Played in Night Contest.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby added 360 points last night to the lead of 1,715 points they had built up Monday night against Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson in their contract bridge challenge match at the Hotel Chatham. Lenz and his partner were 2,075 points in the lead when play in the second session ended early this morning. Seven rubbers were played last night.

Mr. Lenz was the first of the four participants to bid and make a little slam, and the hand on which he reached the slam contract was the first instance in the match of the use of an original forcing bid. His hand tonight was this:

NORTH (Lenz).
♠—A,K,4
♥—K,Q,7,6,5,4,3
♦—K,Q,7
♣—None

EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)	WEST (Culbertson)
♠—Q,10,9,4,2	♠—8,6
♥—3	♥—10,9,8
♦—4,3	♦—A,J,6,5
♣—10,8,6,5,2	♣—Q,J,7,3

SOUTH (Jacoby)
♥—A,J
♦—10,9,8,5
♣—A,K,9,4

Mr. Lenz bid three hearts, which is a demand bid in his system. Mr. Jacoby bid four clubs, Mr. Lenz five hearts, and Mr. Jacoby six hearts, which all passed. The hand was, of course, a laydown for the small slam.

On the opening night the rivals had played three rubbers with a total of twenty-three hands. The following recapitulation shows the progress of the match tonight:

FOURTH RUBBER.

HAND 24—Mr. Culbertson bid 4 no trump and made 6.

SISTERS OF MERCY WILL CELEBRATE 100 YEARS ON SATURDAY

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Two years before Chicago, back in 1833, acquired the proud status of a village, a young Irish woman who wished to do welfare work in Dublin found herself literally, even if willingly, forced into a religious habit. Paradoxically so, for Catherine McAuley had not favored religious orders. Yet Saturday of this week the centennial of the Sisters of Mercy, which she founded, throws into vivid relief the vast growth of the worldwide community in which she is known, reverently, as "Mother McAuley."

From its humble beginning in the Irish capital this company of teachers and nurses and welfare workers has expanded and adventured into an organization of 28,000 members in 232 foundations and many countries.

Today it has schools and colleges and academies, hospitals clinics, dispensaries, orphan homes, infant asylums, day nurseries, retreats for delinquent girls and for the aged and helpless, homes for business women and social centers. And its work has extended through Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the British and the Channel isles, Newfoundland, the United States, Central and South America, and the West Indies.

Since 1846, when twenty-four of them arrived, the roots of their order have struck deep into the life of Chicago. They served through the cholera in the late '40s and were nurses during the civil war. They founded among the first of Chicago's hospitals.

They are the oldest group of religious women in Chicago. Ten years before the city opened its first high school, high school subjects were being taught in St. Xavier's academy, located at 49th and Cottage Grove. They opened the first Catholic high school for girls in 1889, and the first college exclusively for women in the city, in 1915.

Their institutions, locally, at present include St. Xavier's, St. Mary's Training school for boys at Des Plaines, and the Industrial school for girls; Mercy hospital, the John B. Murphy hospital, Misericordia, and the training schools for nurses; Mercy Siena and Central High schools, St. Patrick's academy at Desplaines, and eleven elementary schools in Chicago and suburbs.

Students at the academies and high schools throughout the order will participate in a "Pageant-Masque of Mercy" on Saturday, depicting the story of the order.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

A friend of mine who wanted to be very nice (he was trying to sell me something) told me that he had read every article that has appeared to date in THE TRIBUNE. Lest I become suspicious, he took back part of the compliment by asking why I never allowed my declarer to be set a trick—simply for the sake of variety. This, of course, belied his first statement that he "read 'em every day," since I have given several defensive hands where the declarer was set. Furthermore, I believe that most of you are interested in learning how to make 'em and not how to lose 'em. Most players do pretty well at the last mentioned job without instructions.

Now, I know that you all made game on yesterday's hand. It was the same old play that we discussed yesterday and I know that I can't fool you twice with the same trick. Yes, it was a squeeze and here was the hand:

NORTH
♥—Q,3
♦—J,10,4

WEST	EAST
♠—3,2,7	♠—K,5
♥—7,6,5	♥—J,10,8,4
♦—A,Q,8,7,6	♦—5,2
♣—2	♣—J,10,9,4,3

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—Q,10,9,8
♥—A,K,9
♦—K,9,3
♣—K,6,5

South opened the bidding with one no-trump. West passed and North, with a count of 13, went to three no-trumps, and all passed.

West opened with the ♦ 7, dummy played the 10, East the 3, and South the 2. Of course, South knew the ♦ 10 would take, since by applying the rule of eleven he knew that there were only four diamonds higher than the 7 outside of West's hand and South and his dummy held these four.

Dummy now led the ♣ Q, East played the 5, South the 8, and West the 2. Dummy next led the ♣ 7, East played the 4, South took with the K, and West discarded the ♥ 5. The clubs obviously could not be set up.

South returned the ♠ K to the fourth trick and West took it with the A. West was delighted with the turn of affairs and promptly led back the ♠ Q, dropping dummy's J, but look what is happening to poor East.

He must let go of either his clubs, his hearts, or his spades. He decides on the clubs and discards his 9. South discarded the ♠ 5, West then led the ♦ 8, dummy played the ♣ 4, East discarded the ♥ 4, and South the ♣ 2. West led the ♦ 6, North discarding the ♣ 6, East the ♥ 3, and South the ♣ 3. To the eighth trick West led the ♣ 7, dummy played the A, East the 5, and South the 10. Dummy then led the ♥ Q, East played the 10, South the 2, and West the 6. Dummy then led the ♥ 9, dropping East's J, South taking the trick with the K, and West playing the 7.

South now led the ♥ A. If East discards the ♠ K, South will then take in the ♠ Q and dummy's ♣ A. If instead East throws the ♣ 10 and not the ♠ K, South will lead to dummy's ♠ A, clearing the suit and then take in dummy's ♠ 8. Either way South makes three odd and a game.

Baptists Unite to Get Funds for Their Work

First North-South Pact Since Civil War.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Northern and Southern Baptist churches of the country have locked arms in an advance against the powers of depression. At least the presidents of the conventions of those two groups that have been separated since the civil war will tour the country together during January to address great massmeetings in the interest of Baptist enterprises.

This program was announced yesterday at the meeting of leaders of the Northern Baptist convention in session at the La Salle hotel. The presidents are President McClothlin of Furman university, head of the Southern Baptists, and Mattieson B. Jones, a Los Angeles lawyer, president of the Northern convention. The plan appeared to point toward ultimate reunion of the two churches, which are the largest Baptist groups in the world.

When the plan was announced it was stated that this is the first time since the civil war that there has been such intimate codperation between Baptists of the two sections. The action represents the direct results of the southern president's recent visit to northern churches and the return visit of Dr. Jones to the southern churches. The two conventions represented by Dr. McClothlin and Mr. Jones combine a church membership of 5,300,000 persons.

The two branches have been codperating in mission fields for several years. The announced visitation extends that codperation to problems arising from the financial crisis. The two presidents will visit Chicago on Jan. 4.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"GRAND HOTEL," fresh from its long triumphal march in New York, had its Chicago premiere at the Grand Opera house last night before an audience which was convinced that it was attending an event of the first theatrical magnitude. The flutter of excitement in the crowded lobby before the performance and during the intermissions was evidence that the legitimate stage, alleged to be in a mortal illness, is still one of the liveliest of our institutions. This was the most animated first night of the year; its atmosphere glowed with the fever of play-going.

The drama itself bears out the great expectations of those who have been yearning for a glimpse of it. It is like the novel upon which it is based and of which it is a faithful stage transcription, a stirring chronicle of thirty-six hectic hours in one of Berlin's smartest hotels. Its staging is ingenious—an affective approximation of the rapid-fire, quick-change technique of the cinema. Its acting is admirable in the roles that require a high degree of skill; and the minor characters, whose function is to make the story seem a persuasive picture of German hotel life, have been skillfully selected for type. Altogether, "Grand Hotel" is an impressive demonstration of the stage's power to enchant the imagination. It is a notable novelty in play-making.

Eugenie Leontovich, the heroine of Chicago prophecy, is the leading figure in the vivid, staccato story. She is queen of the "Grand Hotel" pageant as Grusinskaya, the star of the Russian ballet who has her day of middle aged brooding and her night of casual, rejuvenating love in Vicki Baum's fascinating tale. She proves herself to be, as we said when we saw her in "And So to Bed" and "Candle Light," a virtuoso among actresses.

She uses none of the conventional tricks for the expression of theatrical temperament in this character, but she is, in every touch, a jaded artist of the ballet, a fading star who recaptures her lost brightness in an impetuous amour with a heart breaking gentleman burglar. Our Miss Leontovich, whom we formerly knew as a comedienne, is in "Grand Hotel" a brilliant and subtle emotional actress.

The Kringelein of Sam Jaffe is a fine study in character, with a sympathetic quality in his provincial crudeness. Albert von Dekker's Baron von Gaigern, the Raffles of Berlin; Siegfried Rumann's Preysing, the browbeating Prussian industrialist; Romaina Callender's lonely, sinister doctor—these are other characters that leap out of the book perfectly realized.

The usual disillusionments of a dramatized novel are missing in "Grand Hotel." Hortense Alden's Flaemmchen is by no means the sunny little gooddess of purchasable love who gleams amiably through the novel; hers is another Flaemmchen, of Berlin affectation and sophistication. Miss Alden is effective, but I doubt if the play girl typists of Germany strive to talk like Ethel Barrymore.

Last night's performance lost some of its fine edge through inaudibility. That fault, however, will be swiftly corrected. It is merely a question of the players' getting the range, so to speak, of their new environment.

Hungry School Children Fund Is 100% Charity

Every Cent Given Goes for Needy Pupils.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1301 East 63d street, and 4440 West Madison street.

Five cents or five dollars—or fifty or five hundred—any donation to the Hungry School Children's fund sponsored by this newspaper goes 100 per cent to feed the children who need nourishment. This assurance is reiterated here in response to a query yesterday as to overhead expense and distribution of the money collected.

There is no overhead, no operating expense; there are no salaries or rents paid out from the donations. Not a cent is deducted from any gift received. It all goes directly into food or milk served to the children in the penny lunchrooms of the city schools.

This is made possible by the cooperation of the board of education, which provides the penny lunchrooms. All stoves, kitchen equipment, tables, chairs, and even the staffs of lunchroom attendants, are maintained by the board of education. All salaries to the staffs are paid by the board. No money is spent out of the Hungry School Children's fund that does not go into either groceries or milk.

All funds received come to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE and are acknowledged in these columns. To date $36,000 of the money received has been paid over to Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the department of home economics of the board of education, who supervises all the lunchrooms. Principals of the various schools report their needs to Miss Swain.

A committee of four comprises the advisory board for the work. Miss Swain works with Mrs. T. B. Stephenson and Mrs. James Graham of the Parent-Teacher associations, and Mrs. Samuel T. Lawton and Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz of the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education.

All buying is done at prices possible only through the courtesy of merchants who wish to do their part.

Thousands of children in 132 schools are desperately in need of this fund's assistance. Contributions yesterday were:

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a post in the Grand Africa hotel, Soysoret, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Then Bubbie was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love for years, but Bubbie was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess Heath is her fellow guest. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soysoret and a most attractive bachelor. He is attentive to Kit. Jess delights in telling Kit the scandal she hears about Lal Crowhurst and about "the woman who owns him." Kit hears that Thane Babbe has taken up the game hunting in Africa. Jess is married the day after their arrival to Noel Gray, who manages Crowhurst's rubber plantations. Soysoret proves to be a paradise with milky serpents and terrible powers of demoralization to weak natures. Kit takes up her duties in the hotel. She arranges a dinner party to be given by the widow, Ariel Grieve. Lal Crowhurst shows Kit through his place, "Moon Fields." He gives a picnic on his property on Kit's day off.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

WHITE MAGIC.

"Afterwards, they broke up into parties, and the smoke of tobacco mingled with the delicious scent of the burning cedar logs on which the natives had been cooking the hot courses of the meal. They were hilarious; the laughter was loud, the jokes were flung about with a touch of abandon.

Kit refused Jess' invitation to come and paddle. She was faintly disturbed. It reminded her in a way of that night of the dance in the fearful heat of the Red sea. It must be that these far-away places made people take the lid off their inner selves.

Kit wandered a little away from the river. Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar, the parson, and another woman were playing bridge. There was no sign of Mrs. Grieve or of their host.

It was delicious. She wandered on and on, following a rough track, the trees almost meeting overhead, the river banks composed of enormous boulders among which grew strange vegetation that she had never seen before. In her ears was no sound but the rush of the water. There must be some very big waters not far away.

She did not notice that she had turned several corners, that the river was getting lower and lower under her path, when suddenly she found herself standing on the top of a high bluff, and the water was spread out into a big sheet of foam far beneath, and all round one side of it was a high cirque of rock, from which poured several magnificent falls.

At the same moment she heard a voice behind her.

"Miss Lenoure! Miss Lenoure!"

She turned, and Crowhurst came hurrying into sight. Although he had obviously been running, he did not look beated. He seemed to have the faculty of perpetually keeping cool.

"They told me you had come this way," he explained. "It's not altogether safe, so I came after you. There's no path beyond here, so you might get lost. Besides, at times leopards are known to come down here."

"O, Mr. Crowhurst, how beautiful it is!" Her face was transfigured with wonder. "I wasn't afraid, because I didn't know. But I'm sorry to have given you trouble."

"No, it's not that." He came and stood beside her.

"Are these your rapids and your waterfalls?" she asked him. "O, look at these exquisite ferns growing down there in the rocks! How gloriously fresh they look after Soydoret!"

"Yes, this is the same stream that runs through Moon Fields. It is much smaller there. Here it is called The Waters of the Moon, and it is said to be full of magic—but good white magic."

"Why are so many things called after the moon?" she asked impulsively, and then flushed crimson at the implication in the words, which she had not meant in the least.

But he only smiled at her like a friend.

"I suppose it has something to do with the native religions," he said. "All over Africa it is the same—you know, the Ruwenzori chain in Uganda is called the Mountains of the Moon. I am glad you like it here," he added simply.

Once more she found herself thinking—"There is something big about this man."

"Couldn't we go down there a little way?" she asked, rather shyly. "I would so love to be nearer the water."

"There is a sort of track," he said. "If you're sure footed."

"I think I am."

"Come, then! I'll lead."

They went down a kind of rocky track, very steep and needing care. It grew slippery, and Crowhurst gave her a hand.

Soon they were on a flat projecting rock, so close that the spray from the icy waters reached their faces. They stood in silence. A queer, long, startling bird call rang out. It had an unpleasant sound.

"That is the mocking bird," the man said.

"O, that spoils the lovely peace of the place, Mr. Crowhurst! What is it supposed to say?"

"Anything," the man laughed lightly, "that you don't want to hear. The most idiotic things that you have ever said—that chap repeats them!"

The spell was broken. His voice had the bitterness that she had heard before, and that acted like a tonic, as against the loosening up of manners that was so foreign to her.

"I expect we had better get back." She turned hastily, and made a false step and would have fallen off the narrow rocky platform if he had not caught her and at the same moment taken a great stride backwards to preserve his balance.

His face was gray. He held her in his arms tightly.

"My God, how you terrified me!" he said in a shaking voice.

Kit was dizzy with that momentary feeling of hanging over space. The Waters of the Moon roared in her ears. She was incapable of movement.

"You would have fallen over. You might have been killed." He said it over and over and his voice seemed hardly to break through his throat—"You might have been killed—you might have been killed!"

She tried to speak, but couldn't.

"What should I have done?" he murmured brokenly. "What ever should I have done?"

"I am all right," she whispered. "I am really quite all right."

She was shaken, too, right to the very deeps of her being. She was clasped in his arms; she could feel his heart beating. At first she was unconscious of it; then it filled her with a sensation she had never known before, something awesome, almost terrible, a sense of being engulfed, of having no more will, no more self. And of finding something that she did not know existed, something altogether new—something too wonderful to contemplate, like fire, like light, like immortality.

Horrified, she awoke to reality and struggled.

For one blinding second he held her more tightly still, and bent his head, and his lips hovered over her bright hair. Before he touched it she cried out and he released her instantly.

"Of course, you are all right," he said very low. "You always will be. It is I who am all wrong. What business have I—what right have I . . . ?"

In a flash he was his usual self. He turned to her with his quizzical smile. "It was a fright, though, Miss Lenoure. Forgive me for making an ass of myself. It's a big drop just there, and the current is terrific."

"Thank you for saving me," was all she could find to say. "Let's go back now. It has been a wonderful experience." She looked back, sending a long, admiring gaze over the majestic spectacle of the boiling water and the glistening snow white avalanches of the falls.

"You must come and see it again," said Crowhurst. "By the way, do you ride, Miss Lenoure?"

"I used to as a little girl. And Mr. Craig in London told me to bring out a riding kit. He said I should need it, but I haven't yet."

Girl Wants to Work After Marriage Just for the Interest of It

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"There is a dispute on between my fiance and me. We want your opinion. Do you think it is all right for a girl to work a year or so after she is married My fiance says it is not what he wants. People will say he is not able to support a wife.

"My idea is that I should work not for the money, but because later on I might have to stay at home and now is the time for me to meet other people and keep abreast of what is going on. ANXIOUS.

That IS a funny alibi for continuing on the job. And one that should be heartily discouraged in the interest of job seekers who need employment and need it for the money in it.

What, may we ask, is to prevent a home woman from keeping abreast of the times, from making contacts of a social nature? If she hasn't the time to do it in the early years of marriage, who has?

It's bad psychology to start out marriage with the feeling that domestic life is narrowing, which I gather is the argument here. It's a mistake frequently made by young wives. They underrate their jobs, always a bad working policy. If they get people to agree with them that housekeeping and home making are uninteresting jobs it is because they make them so.

What in the life of the woman worker of average salary is so inspiring of discontent among the domestic breed? I fail to see the workers' many advantages. Their lives, studied closely, offer no great vista of social doings, of meeting interesting people. Their working hours limit their social activities as the domestic person's need not do.

They're struggling financially to keep up a front, and I'm speaking of the workers of an age of the discontented young wife. The front is to attract the very domestic background the young wife underrates. Or, if a man is not in their calculations, they're struggling for success in their chosen field, which means long hours of steady application to a job that has its full quota of monotonous duties.

The young wife with a seat for her job can keep herself as attractive both mentally and physically as she wants. She can become the power behind the throne in her man's life. She can be a strong social factor, a useful social factor in his life. She can pack just as many interests, just as much adventure into her calling as she has brains enough to apply to opportunities.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

This school dress is typically French and smart. The front panel extends into the circular skirt at the front, and the neckline with its turnover collar and bow tie, the belt going under the front panel and the inserted pockets are all smart details. Striped woolen tweed in brown, with the belt, cuffs and pocket welts in a vivid red woolen, made the original frock. The tie in crepe de chine matched the plain red woolen.

The pattern, 3,311, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch material light, and ⅝ yard of 35 inch dark contrasting.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Guy, age 3, was proud of the white rabbit his daddy gave to him, but, as we live in an apartment, had no place to keep it. So we decided to take it to his 11 year old uncle to keep for him.

The next morning Guy and his grandfather were talking about the rabbit. Jokingly, his grandfather said, "Well, Guy, we'll kill the rabbit and eat it for supper. How will that be?" Fearing his grandfather meant it, he quickly replied, "O, grandpa, that isn't an eating rabbit, it's just a playing one." L. G. A.

French Hair Dresser Says Those Straggly, Long Bobs Are Passe

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One rule applicable to the up-to-date head that you may put down in your datebook as here to stay for awhile is a clean cut neck with hair on the up-move.

That doesn't mean a shaved neck, understand, but a cleared neck. The hair should be lifted just high enough to preserve a clear expanse of back neck. Those sad sea waves that have been hanging shiftlessly down over the coat collar are out. They're not elegant, says Monsieur Antoine, the Parisian spokesman, for all that is elegant in hairdressing, though it didn't take any Parisian coiffeurist to inform us of that.

Antoine used an amusing but meaningful term in describing a head that was done like a salon window model. "Cheap elegance" was the phrase with which he dismissed it. And that's a look you cannot have about either head or dress if you'd be numbered among the chic.

And a point emphasized by this noted artist, sculptor and hairdresser, which the young girl might take to heart, is that too much wave in the hair adds age.

Something else said on the elegance theme by the Paris hair artist whose internationally patronized salon puts him in contact with a powerful lot of female elegance is: "Elegance compels simplicity." The rule applies not only to hair dress, but to clothes, to the home, to the manner of the woman, to every detail, small and large about her. And harmony! Harmony is the keynote to beauty, in the fastidious Frenchman's opinion.

"Some women," he says, "put their all in their clothes—neglecting hair, perhaps, or complexion or hands. Or they may put their all in a beautiful home and in their own person be not the beautifully groomed woman for that background. A simpler home and money left over for personal upkeep would create a more harmonious note. A simple wardrobe—but good, and complete to every small detail—turns out a more chic woman than a heavily propertied wardrobe bought without thought of harmony."

Budgeting for harmony, I gathered, is the recommendation advanced.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

LILY: YES, THE EXERCISES that will reduce the bust will also develop it. In fact, exercise that will reduce any part of the body can also cause development.

Even Informals Must Be Smartly Correct

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Now that the time has come to speak of Christmas with its accompanying thrills in planning Christmas gifts, there are lots of other things to look forward to as well. Tea parties for homecoming daughters, little intimate dinners for close friends, and all the little affairs that make this time of the year a get-together one.

For the hostess who wishes to offer one of these little informal parties, pajamas are the last word in chic and rightness. Irene Dana has created a pajama and jacket that is smart enough to preside over any tea or dinner table, or even for a "Sunday" night.

The sketch today shows this Irene Dana pajama, which is made of printed chiffon on a sky blue foundation with its large flower motifs in purple, violet, dull red, and white. As you will see, this pajama is floor length, gently flaring from the hips, and is coming full from the knee, on the outside of the trouser legs, giving the appearance of an evening skirt. And this skirtlike deception is the outstanding requisite of the pajama that wants to be known as a robe d'interieur. To be a pajama, but not obviously so, is the Paris mandate.

These pajamas are topped by a waist length jacket in sky blue velvet. This jacket crosses surplice fashion in front and ties in a bow at the center back in the Japanese manner. The sleeves are quite frankly flowing from the shoulders, and hang well down to the wrist.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Footing Up the Packages.

I had been to town shopping. My train was stopping at my station, so I arose and began to get the children started out, and my packages gathered up. One seemed to have slipped down in the back of the seat, so, in the half dusk, I began to hurriedly pull and tug at it.

Then the man in the seat behind said, "Excuse me, lady, that's my foot." E. S.

Parisian Note Key of Party for Miss Horton

EVERY one who receives an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker and Mrs. Rinaker's daughter, Miss Marjorie Horton, to Miss Horton's debut ball will be sure to accept, for the invitations are artistic enough to make one want to attend.

A picture of a debutante about to enter the "rat riant" in the doorway of which a typical Parisian apache lounges decorates the jacket of the double four-page invitation and inside are printed the words, "Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, Miss Marjorie Horton request the pleasure of your company on Tuesday the twenty-ninth of December at eleven o'clock at the Blackstone. Dancing. Please reply 329 Lake Shore drive."

The ballroom of the Blackstone is to be turned into a reproduction of a Montmartre café for the event, and although the guests have not been asked to appear in costume, the effect will be entirely Parisian and in keeping with the decorations, no doubt.

Charity Ball Committee Delays Meeting Until Saturday.

The general meeting of the committee in charge of the charity ball to be given on Dec. 18 for the Joint Emergency Relief fund which was to have been held yesterday afternoon at the Casino was postponed until Saturday at 5 o'clock on account of the death of Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who was in charge of the decorations. Her brother, Joseph Winterbotham of New York, who sailed recently for France, is starting back today, and her old and devoted friends, the George Higginsons of Lenox, Mass., are arriving today to bring in person their condolence to Mr. Carpenter and "Ginsy." Miss Carpenter's fiancé, Patrick C. Hill, blew up from Fort Worth yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Herman Gade are planning to leave on Dec. 23 to spend Christmas in Boston with Mr. Gade's relatives, after a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Gade's many relatives here. The Gades will return to their home at St. Denis, France, in the early spring.

Mrs. Carleton Holdrege and her daughter, Betty, are visiting Mrs. Frank Mulford of 222 East Delaware place, and are busy renewing old friendships after an absence of about eight years. They will leave next Tuesday for Bloomington, remaining here for Christmas, but will return on the 28th to spend two weeks with Mrs. Ford R. Carter of 1315 Ritchie court. From here they will go to Washington, Annapolis, Philadelphia and New York for visits before returning to France to join Mr. Holdrege. He is "batching it" in the two hundred and fifty year old house that the Holdreges occupy in Paris.

Mr. George Halleck Taylor of 69 East Division street, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Samuel N. Baker, in Englewood, N. J., since before Thanksgiving, will return on the 14th.

Prof. J. H. Breasted Will Preside at Dinner to Briten.

Sir Denison Ross of London arrives in Chicago today from Detroit. There he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford at a large reception following his lecture at the Detroit Museum of Arts. This evening he will speak on "Persian Art" at the dinner the New Orient society is to give for him in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house.

Swedish Art and Two Other Current Shows

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE are three interesting current exhibitions scattered about town. At the Edgewater Beach hotel you will find the fourth annual exhibition of paintings by Swedish artists. It is a most interesting show and one that proves our Scandinavian painters a force to be reckoned with. Mary C. Peterson shows a group of four canvases, "The Ginger Jar" being possibly the most delightful.

Carl Olsen has an intriguing portrait of the wood carver, Hallathammar, and the most magnificent still life in the room, a study of gorgeous pink and white blossoms. Signe Swinblad offers a wet, cold landscape, "February Mood," effectively painted. Axel Westerlind shows the seals at play in their feeding hour "In Lincoln Park."

Perhaps the most lovely group of pictures is that shown in memory of Alfred Jansson. Seven are by Mr. Jansson. The eighth is his portrait, a stunning canvas, by Arvid Nyholm. The Jansson paintings are beautiful. It is nearly impossible to differentiate between them, but if one had to choose then possibly "Snow Laden Bushes," "Des Plaines Motive," and "Lake Arkiva, Sweden," are the most fascinating.

We find a far different art at Fred Leighton's Indian Trading Post on East Ontario street. Here is Indian work. There is black pottery by three Indian women, Romona, Susana, and Marie, striking bowls and jars which would make stunning lamps. Oqwa Pi is the Indian brave whose paintings are featured. These are thoroughly delightful. The coloring and drawing are refreshingly exact. You may read all kinds of legends in the symbolic pictures and in the others, those of costume and customs, you may read the life of an Indian village. Even today the Indians have a civilization untouched by the white man.

The third exhibit is found at the Hartman store, where there is a fine loan collection of etchings lent by Martin Straus. Another interesting item is the painting of Frank Lloyd Wright's New York skyscraper in steel and glass. A few French paintings are of interest.

These three exhibitions are all well worth seeing.

TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY
Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that newfangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well; to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

Here Are Some Ways to Play Good Fellow

This story is for those who are not Good Fellows, and therefore do not know of "the little blue slip."

It is the "little blue slip" that records in the files of the Good Fellow headquarters in The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, the worthiness of every family that is to receive a Christmas basket.

Picked at random from some of these needy families yesterday were following remarks of social workers. The first is the M. family of 11 children. They receive $4 a week from charity and some supplies from the county.

"The parents are hard working, refined people, not anxious to receive charitable aid," the worker reported. "They tried to buy a small cottage, but will soon lose it, due to taxes and assessments which have not been paid for over a year.

"The father has been out of work for 11 months. Six children attend school. The 16 year old girl is looking for work and the 14 year old girl is working in a home caring for children, but later will be allowed to continue high school. The children all need underwear, but any wearing apparel which could be remodeled would be appreciated. A basket of staple food will be greatly appreciated."

The K. family have seven children under 16 years old. The nine persons live in three basement rooms. The father has been ill, spending several weeks in the County hospital. A Christmas basket and clothing are needed.

The A. family have two children. The father is employed irregularly and his pay checks for the last two months have ranged from seventeen cents to $4.60. They have applied to charity for aid. The mother feels they can manage with clothing if they can be supplied with food. A Christmas basket with a large supply of staple groceries and toys for the children would be appreciated.

Good Fellows may enroll by calling Superior 0100 and ask for the Tribune Good Fellow department. Or, if you are in the loop, call at the Public Service office.

Society at the Opera

A brilliant performance and a brilliant audience made last night a memorable occasion at the Chicago Civic Opera house. Tito Schipa returned to "La Traviata."

One of the largest parties in the box tier was that of Mrs. Nevina Johnson. She had as her guests in the Harold F. McCormick box Mrs. Syrie Maugham, who is making one of her infrequent visits to Chicago this week; Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, James Easley, Ira Nelson Morris, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown. Mrs. Maugham wore a black velvet gown with an ermine and black velvet wrap; Mrs. Johnston, a black satin dress with a flesh colored bodice and narrow flesh colored sash; Mrs. Brown was in white lace, and the hostess wore a black velvet gown with tiny shoulder cuffs and an ermine wrap.

In the Benjamin Leslie Behrs' box their debutante daughter, Miss Edith Behr, entertained a group including two of her fellow debutantes, Miss Florence Carr and Miss Eleanor McNally, Cyrus Adams, Carington Clarke, and Andrew McNally. Miss Behr's gown was a high waisted model of pale green satin with a skirt that flared slightly below the topline. Miss Carr wore black velvet and Miss McNally a white chiffon dress under an ermine and brocade wrap.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle H. Reynolds, the latter in a black velvet gown and wrap, and Miss Helen Gurley, also in black velvet, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds. The senior Mrs. Reynolds wore a brocade cloth gown and matching wrap with an ermine collar. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill had as their box guests Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden.

In the William E. Clow Jr. box Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Laflin had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Maher and the Louis E. Sudlers. Mrs. Laflin's gown was a honey colored satin model with a cowl neckline; Mrs. Maher wore a white lace dress with a peplum, and Mrs. Sudler a black velvet gown with a flowing skirt and short train.

Other box hosts included Mrs. George T. Leach, who had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Magnus; Mrs. Henry H. Tito Schipa Hailed Again in Opera Here

TITO SCHIPA is back with the Civic Opera company, a fact that ought to register as good news to a good section of the population. He made his first appearance of the season last night as Alfred Germont in "La Traviata," and his voice was just a little more velvety in texture and golden in color than it had ever been before.

This is saying quite a bit, for in matters of exquisite beauty of tone Mr. Schipa has just about led the tenor world ever since he has been a member of the Chicago opera. To one who has been a confirmed opera goer the rôle of young Germont may not, perhaps, offer many surprises, but this artist came close to uncovering a few last night. The drinking song of the first act and still more the solo of the second were events of extraordinarily lovely singing and were properly acclaimed as such.

Claudia Muzio continued in the part of Violetta Valery, a rôle in which she is especially expert in delineating emotion through song. She and Mr. Schipa were applauded until the house rang and when Augusto Beuf made his appearance as the elder Germont in the second act applause became threefold. It was an evening of great satisfaction for the good singing of effective melody and the triple reception was well deserved.

Adolf Busch, one of the famous violinists of Europe, made his first Chicago appearance as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon, and thereby became a brilliant item in a perfectly balanced and perfectly played program. He introduced himself with the Beethoven Concerto; Mr. Stock's share was Bach's Second Suite in B minor for strings and flute and the Chausson Symphony.

Mr. Busch, who will also play with the orchestra tomorrow night and Friday afternoon, is a tall, vigorous person who plays the violin as though it were the easiest task on earth. He makes so little ado about it that he creates a curious air of detachment from his music, but this does not in the least interfere with his being one of the notables of the instrument. His tone is full and free and beautiful, his mind is full of the interpretation of Beethoven rather than of Busch, and yet, impersonal as he may seem during the first moment or two, his interpretation is entirely vital. He has dignity in full measure, and Beethoven never yet suffered thereby, but it is a lively and persuasive dignity.

He is in this country for only three months on this tour.

Let Christmas Be a Doorway of Beauty for the Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Do you realize how the art of the world has been enriched by the story of the birth of Christ? Nothing more beautiful has been painted than some of the early Italian, French, and Flemish pictures of the baby Christ in his mother's arms or in her lap—or than the portrayals of the nativity, showing a lowly stable with animals or shepherds standing near, or the adoring magi or kings of the east.

Since Christmas is a doorway by which not only merriment, but beauty, may come flowing into our lives, it is too bad to let it pass without having at least one beautiful old pictorial representation of the first Christmas.

These are obtainable in picture stores and in some bookstores at Christmas time. But if you cannot reach such sources of supply and want to obtain a copy of one of the early masters, you will find beautiful reproductions among the displays of Christmas cards. In the good bookstores or department stores, or wherever fine cards are sold, you can find clear reproductions, often in full color, of famous early paintings. Different parts of the Christmas story are pictured—the baby in the manger, the journey of Joseph and Mary, the angel and the shepherds.

It is well not to get too small a card, as many of these "primitives" have detail that children love—of animals, flowers, and so forth.

Get your card or picture early enough so that you may have it where the children can see it, and come to know it, and ask questions about it. It will help to give the Christmas story and the Christmas carols more meaning for them.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk.

You are an ambitious lot of cooks, my solemn readers, aren't you? I have been fairly deluged with requests for hot rolls, breads, and biscuits—almost in this busy get-ready-for-Christmas-time. The recipes given will have no particular Christmas stamp, but it is ever so easy to build a satisfying meal about fresh warm rolls or bread.

CLOVERLEAF ROLLS.

[illegible]

Add the egg whites, unbeaten, into the flour. Scald together the milk, fat, sugar, and salt. When cool add the yeast, which has been dissolved in one-fourth cup of lukewarm water. Beat into the flour containing the egg whites. Let rise until light. Cut off small pieces of the dough about the size of a hickory nut; shape round, and place three of these in each cup of greased muffin tins. Let rise again until double in bulk. Bake in a quick oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] about fifteen minutes.

Before listing the ingredients for the following muffins I might tell you that this flour, too, is a request recipe, and that the flour cannot be obtained [illegible]

POTATO FLOUR MUFFINS.

[illegible]

Separate the eggs. Beat the yolks and add to them the salt and sugar. Whip the whites very stiff and fold into the yolk mixture. Sift flour and baking powder together and fold into the egg mixture. Add the cold water. Bake in greased muffin pans in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] about twenty minutes.

water. Add the shortening, sugar, salt, mashed potato and potato water to the milk. When cool, add the dissolved yeast. Mix thoroughly and add the egg. Stir in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on a slightly floured board and knead thoroughly. Put into a bowl large enough to allow slight rising. Rub over with melted shortening; cover tightly, and place in the refrigerator. About an hour before meal time, pinch off small pieces of dough, shape, and place on a greased baking sheet. Let rise until double in bulk [about one hour]. Bake in a quick oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] about fifteen minutes. Brush the rolls with melted butter as soon as they are removed from the oven.

BANANA BREAD.

1 cup of sugar
½ cup of butter
2 eggs, beaten light
1¼ tablespoons of sour milk
1 teaspoon of lemon juice
1 cup of coarsely chopped nut meats
½ teaspoon of soda
1½ teaspoons of baking powder
½ teaspoon of salt
2 large bananas
2 cups of flour.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs, then the bananas, which have been put through a sieve, and the liquid ingredients. Add the nuts and the sifted dry ingredients. Blend thoroughly and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for 45 minutes. This makes two medium-sized loaves.

CANADIENS HOLD BLACKHAWKS TO 1 TO 1 TIE

YE SPORT PAGE READER CAN GET VERY SENSITIVE

Depending on How a Story Hits Him.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—As the aftermath of some little frivolity of mine, set to words a few days after the Notre Dame-Navy football game, I hear that some of the Navy people have been injured in their feelings, deeming their football team to have been unjustly belittled, although the intent was merely to recognize the almost professional skill and poise of the Notre Dame club at that time and make moderately merry over the sympathetic ties existing between the Navy coach, who is a Notre Dame alumnus, and Mr. Hank Anderson, who coaches Notre Dame.

There was an interesting problem in sensitives. The help-one-another spirit is strong among the alumni, and here was Mr. Anderson, confronted with a choice of beating a young old grad of Notre Dame and, like himself, a new head coach, and beating him hard, or beating him only somewhat with credit to both.

If It Isn't One, It's Another.

But so it goes in football season. A reporter has a right to his impressions only if they be favorable, in which case he is a fair, unbiased and able critic in one batch of mail, but quite the reverse, multiplied by two or more, in another, compensating batch.

Still, a reporter in a press coop with continental leanings toward neither side is better qualified to record an impression than any student, alumnus or graph of either school, for this game arouses a kind of hysteria in interested persons and renders their opinions incompetent.

But distrusting my own impressions so interested to hear those of others, I inquired of Mr. Benny Friedman, who, I think must be acknowledged to be an expert, and who also saw the game from upstairs, whether he thought Notre Dame had been trying their utmost that afternoon.

All the Boys Agree.

Mr. Friedman thought not. Two other football reporters were similarly impressed and had so reported, and, finally, one who, in the present case, may be regarded as the spokesman for the administration, said that frankly, Notre Dame did not bear down on the Navy because it hadn't been necessary.

The offense occurred in the reflection on the Navy's skill that day and yet the Navy had had the temerity to challenge the team which was then the greatest in the country and [see papers of that period] one of the greatest in football history. They had come out to match skill with Notre Dame, for better or worse, in the presence of 50,000 persons and arrangements had been made to accommodate a lot of sport writers in the understanding, as I took it, that anything they observed or thought they observed should be theirs to put on paper.

If They Had Won!

If the Navy had beaten Notre Dame as the Army was to do two weeks hence, the fame of the great Navy football team of 1931 would have gone ringing down the corridors of time for at least two years and some group of their players might have been immortalized under some such picturesque name as the Lions of Annapolis forever, which, as time is measured in football, means 20 years.

It was just one afternoon's play and a beautiful flight of language which established the enduring fame of one Notre Dame back field as the four horsemen — neuralgia, dyspepsia, misery, and unrest, as I recall them—a name which has been a commercial

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Candidates for The Tribune's most valuable player award are limited to Western conference schools, so representatives of Notre Dame are not eligible to the competition. But there is a man winding up three years of brilliant football at Notre Dame whose services to his team will match the exploits of any player the board of officials choose for The Tribune trophy.

I mean Marchmont Schwartz. They turn out football heroes in profusion at South Bend, but men like Schwartz come along only once or twice in a decade. I haven't seen one as good at Notre Dame since George Gipp.

Schwartz is one of those fellows you can count on to play his best game against the strongest competition. The tougher the going the better he likes it. That always is the test of a thoroughbred. Race tracks are crowded with horses that look great in a field of platers and are something else when they leave the barrier with a group of bluebloods. It's that way in football too.

There have been few trickier steppers than Schwartz. He proved that against teams like Northwestern, Southern California, Pittsburgh and the Army. His punting unquestionably staved off defeat in this year's battle with the Wildcats at Soldiers' field. He can throw a forward pass as far as any man of his day and he has done his share of blocking and tackling.

When you find a boy who can do all these things well you have quite a ball player.

Knute Rockne gave Schwartz credit for rousing the team to a pitch it held long enough to deal Southern California a wallop that stunned the nation last December. After the final practice at Tucson, Ariz., preparatory to the game in Los Angeles, Schwartz was the only man who could give Rockne a real reason for going on with the team instead of turning back to Rochester, Minn., to look after his health as the doctors urged.

"I want you there to see us knock hell out of Southern California," he told Rock.

MARCHMONT SCHWARTZ.

Schwartz, the son of an Irish mother and a Jewish father, came to Notre Dame from Loyola of New Orleans. He is taking a six year course in law and will return to the university next year to continue his studies, although he will not be eligible for athletics. His scholastic record by semesters for his three years at Notre Dame follows:

FIRST YEAR.
Biology	86	English	76
Speech	86	Philosophy	72
History	71	Religion	88
Spanish	75

SECOND YEAR.
English	80	Philosophy	70

THIRD YEAR.
Philosophy		Commerce	Low
Sociology		Pittsburgh	70

There will be no figures on his class standings for this year until the start of the second semester.

H. R. Hayden, University of Michigan, '16, submitted the following:

"Replying to Mr. Owen F. Andrews of 134 South La Salle street, who states that inasmuch as Northwestern and Michigan tied for the Big Ten football title in 1925, Michigan should show enough sportsmanship to offer Northwestern the 1931 title which it legitimately earned.

"If Mr. Andrews will refer to the facts, he will find that in 1925 Michigan played 8 conference games, losing 1 to Northwestern on an unplayable field with a score of 3 to 2, giving it a percentage for the season of .833. Northwestern played 4 conference games, losing 1, giving it a percentage for the season of .750. Michigan therefore clearly won the title, and that title was won long before Northwestern conceded it to Michigan. A percentage of .833 does not equal .750, and there was never any question of a tie for the championship. In the 1931 season Purdue, Michigan, and Northwestern each had the same percentage, bringing about a tie.

"I do not believe sufficient attention has been given to the fact that all conference elevens at the beginning of the season agreed to play a charity game. None of them knew at that time what the outcome of the season would be. It might easily have been any other team, including Purdue and Michigan, which would have a clean slate at the end of the season and risk losing the championship in a charity game. Which each team was to play was not decided, as you know, until about the middle of November."

GREENLEAF TIES FOR LEAD; BEATS LAYTON, 125-17

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf of New York tied Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, defending champion, for first place in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament by defeating Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., 125 to 17, tonight. The match ran only six innings and was featured by Greenleaf's high run of 117, a record for the tournament.

Spencer Livsey of Los Angeles defeated Marcel Camp of Detroit, 125 to 105, in tonight's first game. Livsey won in 16 innings.

ARMY SATISFIED IT CAN SMOTHER MIDDIES' PASSES

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Army concluded its defensive drill today in preparation for the Navy game. During the remaining two days before the departure of the squad for New York, the cadets will have only light work, but offense will get a final polishing.

Carver, Kilday, Stecker, and Summerfelt, who have been ailing for a few days, were back today, getting into togs and going through the stiff workout which Coach Sasse gave his men in their final look at Navy's formations.

A puzzling running attack caused the varsity some uneasiness as the scrubs scored a touchdown on a spinner play inside tackle. Navy's aerial attack was ignored in today's rehearsal.

NAVY CALLS FORTH SPEED

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The four fastest backs in the Naval academy will see action Saturday when the Navy football team plays Army, with the second string combination booked to play a large part of the game.

In the second team back field are Becht, quarter back; Samuels or Fleck, left half; Chung-Hoon, right half, and Waybright, full back. Waybright is the speediest Midshipman of the entire regiment, being able to run 100 yards in less than ten seconds. Every other member of the quartet is accomplished in the art of racing and will be counted on greatly in this respect.

Cards Angle for Hack Wilson with Grimes, Watkins, Orsatti

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hack Wilson, common, hooted in the baseball flesh market last night when the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals took a seat on the exchange. The bidding from this classy source caused a flutter of excitement that quite eclipsed all the solemn announcements emitting from the star chambers at the Congress hotel, in which the National and American league held secret conclave throughout the day.

GEORGE WATKINS.

It was reported from confidential sources close to the management of the Cubs and Cards that the latter had offered a choice of Burleigh Grimes, world series hero; George Watkins, who put the deciding game of the world series on ice with a home run, or Ernie Orsatti, speedy utility outfielder and first baseman.

It'll Involve Cash, Too.

The player selected if the Cubs go through with the deal, will not come to Chicago for Wilson's contract alone. The Cubs will have to dig down for some cash in any event, the amount depending upon which one of the trio is picked by President William Veeck and Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs.

At first blush it would seem that Grimes would be the choice pick, but Burleigh is an aged man under baseball standards. Added to this is the fact that the Cubs outfield is in a critical condition, whereas the pitching staff, with Root, Malone, Bush, and Smith as the big four, stacks up pretty well. It was predicted, therefore, that the Cubs were leaning toward the outfielders, with Watkins the choice of the two, although he did not appear last year except against righthanded pitching.

It was considered possible, however, that the Cubs might go after Grimes also, on a strictly cash basis. Wags about the baseball meeting predicted this would be a good buy for the Cubs even if Grimes sat on the bench. The crack, of course, was prompted by recollections of the ease with which Burleigh has been able to vanquish the Cubs in past years.

Watkins Star in 1930.

Watkins in 1930, his first year as a major league performer, was a sensation. He batted .373 and was a flash on the bases. Last year he slumped off almost as many points as Wilson. Hitting the dead ball exclusively against righthanders, the best he could do was .290. His outstanding feat of the year was the theft of home for a 1 to 0 victory over Dazzy Vance while the Brooklyn ace was lobbing the ball over is first to hold a runner on first.

Orsatti played left field during the spring holdout absence of Chick Hafey, but got but few chances after Hafey joined up.

Orsatti is a speedster but he also fell off in hitting last year. In 1930 he batted .331, but last season slumped to .293.

Grimes' all time major league record is 212 wins to 178 losses. His big-

Majors May Go Back to Rule on Sacrifice Flies

The joint meeting of the major leagues which convenes tomorrow is scheduled to again take up the sacrifice fly rule. Last year the sacrifice fly became passe, but there are some who would like to have it revived for the benefit of the averages of star sluggers.

The American league went on record as opposed to artificial doubleheaders produced by moving up games. During the 1931 season the American league played only eight synthetic doubleheaders, three of which were in St. Louis. The question will be brought up in the joint session tomorrow.

A trade which would send Outfielder Sam Byrd from the Yankees to the St. Louis Browns for Pitcher George Blaeholder was discussed yesterday by Managers Joe McCarthy and Bill Killefer.

Frank Navin was reelected vice president of the American league. Representatives of the Chicago, Cleveland, New York and Boston clubs were elected to the board of directors for one year.

The Cleveland Indians will be back at the old stand, League park, again next season. The politically controlled Cleveland stadium will continue politically controlled, despite the junking of the city manager plan.

Jewel Ens, for more than two years manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has signed as coach for Detroit to succeed Roger Bresnahan.

The American league yesterday passed resolutions of condolence to the family of the late Charles A. Comiskey.

Denis Bush, former manager of the White Sox, was the busiest guy in the Congress lobby. Hush. It's a secret!

GOTTSELIG AND MANTHA SCORE IN 2D PERIOD

Other Chicago Goal Is Disallowed.

Hockey Results

Blackhawks, 1; Canadiens, 1.
New York Americans, 2; Boston, 2.
Toronto, 6; New York Rangers, 3.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Chicago's Blackhawks and the Canadiens played a 1 to 1 tie here tonight in a National league hockey game that saw the invaders come to life suddenly in the second period after an inauspicious start. Tying the score on Johnny Gottselig's goal late in the middle session, the Hawks scored again in the overtime, but it was disallowed, as the whistle had blown before Cyclone Wentworth bounced it in.

It was the Hawks' first appearance here since the Stanley cup playoffs last spring. Despite the fast skating of both clubs, play was loose throughout. Paul Thompson infected his shot in the last 30 seconds of overtime and lost what would have been the winning goal for the Chicagoans.

Tommy Cook drew the Canadiens' defense to the blue line and then slipped Thompson a perfect pass. Thompson was alone with Hainsworth and had plenty of time, but he jerked the puck into the air with a lusty shovel, one shot that lifted it over the wire screen behind the goal.

Canadiens Score First.

The Canadiens scored first early in the second period when Johnny Gagnon, Morenz, and George Mantha combined in a swift moving play in which lightning passes ended in a vicious drive from George Mantha's stick. Gardiner was cleanly beaten.

Gagnon was in the penalty box when Johnny Gottselig scored the tying goal twelve minutes later. Wentworth crushed through the defense and Johnny was right behind him. He picked up the rebound off Hainsworth's pads and drove it home.

Chuck Gardiner was the star of the game, and his smart diving saves robbed the Canadiens of at least three possible goals in the first and second periods.

The first whistle had barely died away before the Canadiens were a man short. Joliat went to the penalty box for tripping. The Frenchmen, nevertheless, kept the play up at the Chicago end of the ice. Chuck Gardiner stepped out of his cage ten feet and checked George Mantha's shot as it left the ice.

Gardiner Dives Again.

The Canadiens' defense was proving too much for the Hawks, and they got no close shots. Morenz and then G. Mantha got inside on Gardiner and the latter made another of those diving saves to rob Nick Wasnie of a score. When Mondou's shot glanced off Gardiner's prone body, Mondou tried again and barely missed the corner of the net as the period ended. Hainsworth had only two saves in this period.

George Mantha beat Gardiner early in the second period as the Canadiens continued to hold an edge in the play. Mantha took a pass from Morenz, sneaked through, faked a pass, and then rifled the puck past Gardiner in 1:05.

Gottselig Ties Score.

The Canadiens held the play at the Chicago end of the ice, but missed several chances to score. Johnny Gottselig sniped from the blue line at Hainsworth and then batted one at the goal from a scramble. Gottselig got through alone, but was overtaken by Morenz. Gagnon then was chased for anti-defense and Couture missed Gottselig's rebound. Wentworth charged through the Canadiens' de-

HYMAN SPLASHES TO TRIUMPH AT JEFFERSON PARK

Prometheus Is Second; Winner Pays $25.20.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Hyman, bred by Harry F. Sinclair and a racer in his colors last year, starred in the Amite purse, feature at Jefferson Park here today, when he ran through mud and water to win by four lengths at $15.20 to $2. Hyman now bears the silks of the Superior stable and in beating five others he scored his first 1931 victory.

The weather was about the worst of the meeting, a heavy, driving rain prevailing throughout the morning and part of the afternoon. The water was so deep that the racing strip could not be seen in some places. Over that kind of track Prometheus, formerly numbered in the string of the late Harry Payne Whitney, but now racing for Mrs. W. R. Padgett, was made an even money choice.

Prometheus Runs Second.

Despite a game ride in the stretch run, Prometheus could get only second, four lengths back of Hyman and two lengths before What Have You. Fervor, Whiteloker, and Miss Ramsey finished in the order named. Weidelein's feather of 126 pounds being only a pound less than Hyman's impost.

The start was a good one, although Fervor was off none too smartly. What Have You sprang into the lead and opened up an advantage of a length inside the first furlong.

Hyman Forges to Front.

Hyman was not long in forcing the pace of What Have You. When the two swung around the bend What Have You began to stop and fell prey to Prometheus. Hyman's time was 1:13 1-5 for the six furlongs.

In the fourth race, the secondary feature, Mrs. S. Orr's Vanquish finished first, with two lengths the best of things over Nick Cullop, a former winner at the meeting. Jockey H. Tinker was Vanquish's rider and he had him in front all the way. The distance was a mile and a sixteenth.

Ye Sport Page Reader Can Be Very Sensitive

convenience and certainly a social asset to the four ever since. And, although the description may have been a slight poetic exaggeration for, after all, they only won a football game, they have never been heard to complain of that.

If then, a team of football players makes a cast for such a big stake and falls so far short, that is the attractive in the gamble.

The truth is that most football reporters, including this one, generally make a special point of minimizing the failures and emphasize only the conspicuous successes and almost unanimously refrain from pointed criticism of the play of individuals. The idea of this is that the players are boys, that they are amateurs, that they are sensitive and that, anyway, it isn't nice to hurt people's feelings.

Some Fans are Sensitive.

But it would surprise a layman to learn how sensitive are the feelings of the people more or less remotely associated with the teams and how grave offense may be taken from the most negative and innocent slights. In the present instance, an attempt to give great credit to the Notre Dames for their great mastery of the game, a skill so high that they could deliberately kill time and spare themselves against a varsity of better than average quality, gave no noticeable pleasure to Notre Dame but marked displeasure to the Navy.

That is too bad, but I sometimes wonder if a sport reporter is a censor or a reporter and suggest that a little less considerate report of the details of the game might save some lives.

Frank Wallace, a Notre Dame man, is a football reporter, but he has never written in a newspaper any story as revealing as his novel, "Stadium," and if that is log rolling, why not? I have rolled many a log for Rickard and Dempsey and the golfers and the job holders of the football business all in the line of journalistic practice.

It's a Cranky Ending.

But I notice that this football season is winding up in a very cranky spirit, and propose that all concerned need a long rest from football, especially the coach who had one of his players locked up for a week under a hallucination that the boy was selling out the signals to the enemy.

As for the Navy team, they still have a chance to beat the team that beat Notre Dame and I will suggest now that if any sport reporter exaggerates their glory in that case there will be no complaints from Annapolis, but only letters beginning, "I read your splendid, accurate, impartial account of the game and I wish to say—"

DE PAUL FIVE IS SHIFTED FOR TROJAN BATTLE

Seeking a scoring combination for the first game of the season Friday night with the University of Southern California basketball team at De Paul gym, Coach Kelly made his first important shift in the lineup yesterday following scrimmage.

He switched Tony Lauritus, veteran who played forward last year, to guard. Capt. Joe O'Connor will be at the other guard position.

Heine Coan is sure to appear as one of the forwards but his running mate is still an open question. Three candidates are fighting for recognition, Miles Rondinella, first string reserve last year; Jack Schaffer and Bill Shea, sophomores.

Every Year Is Leap Year for This Partridge

BY BOB BECKER.

Year after year as Illinois hunters go afield they usually see a few Hungarian or European gray partridges during the course of a rabbit or pheasant hunt. Many are the questions asked regarding this handsome game bird which is protected in Illinois. One question involves the problem of how to tell the difference between the male and female bird.

Last week we heard Gene M. Simpson, superintendent of the Oregon state game farms, present a summary of the latest developments on the propagation of the Hungarian partridge when he spoke before the game conference at the Pennsylvania hotel in New York City.

Hen Does the Courting.

Heretofore, it was thought that partridges with brown horseshoes on their breast were males, while those without this marking were females. Simpson, in raising hundreds of partridges, found that this was not true. To determine the sex of partridges one must take note of the lesser wing coverts, in other words, those smaller feathers toward the shoulders. In the male feather, the ground color is dark, blotched on the inner web with chestnut, but without cross bars. In the female feather the ground color is black with two or more wide irregular buff cross bars.

Another interesting bit of information regarding this game bird which Simpson has learned through his work with the European grays is this: The hen does the courting.

Bury Their Eggs.

In summing up the most important facts about the Hungarian partridge Simpson listed the following items: The birds do not mate for life; cost more to raise than pheasants because they have to be yarded separately; do not drive out native game birds, and bury their eggs in the ground.

JONES AND CURI DRILL TODAY FOR STADIUM BOUTS

Billy Jones, Philadelphia colored fighter, one of the favorites in the National Boxing association light heavyweight tourney which opens at the Chicago Stadium Friday, will work out this afternoon at Brown's gymnasium.

Jones was drawn against Owen Phelps, Arizona cowboy, in one of the five 8-round bouts that make up the opening card. This is Jones' first appearance in a Chicago ring.

Another of the tournament fighters who will train at Brown's today is Humberto Curi, from the Argentine.

Three K. O.'s for Jones.

Jones is coming here fresh from three straight knockouts. His victims and their elapsed times were: Joe Benovic, 7 rounds; Tiger Thomas, 6 rounds, and Primo Ubaldo, 3 rounds. Billy has tied Mazie Rosenbloom twice to an even break, winning and losing. He stopped Fred Lenhart in eight rounds, beat Yale Okun in ten and has won from Joe Sekyra and Roxy Rosales.

Celmps, who went to the north woods to build himself into the heavyweight class and then found himself entered in the tourney, where the limit is 175 pounds, is rapidly dropping the eight extra pounds he picked up in the wilds of Wisconsin. Baxter heads the troupe that is training at Kid Howard's gymnasium. He meets Mario Campi, a native of Italy.

Ebbets Meets Oster.

The hardest job seems to be separating Jones and Phelps and Ebbets and Willie Oster. In the latter bout two real hitters meet and either is likely to win in a punch. Phelps is such an elusive boxer that his followers are inclined to discount Jones' great ability.

Maier, the Milwaukee left hander, is the choice over Roy Williams, but the latter is such a good puncher that conditions may be even at any time during the bout.

Levinsky Goes East to Battle Tommy Loughran

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, leaves tomorrow for New York, where he fights Tommy Loughran Dec. 18. Loughran won a decision over Levinsky in Chicago seven months ago.

The Shrosbree brothers, Quentin and Robin, high school stars, feature Friday's card at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues. Quentin meets Tony Dellessio, Grand Olympic lightweight, and Robin boxes Hank Kastman. Six other bouts round out the card.

A double windup headlines the show at the Madinah Athletic club, 800 North Michigan avenue, tonight. Matchmaker Eddie Fitzsimmons has Jack O'Connell and Joey Lassala in one contest. The other will have Jackie Schwartz and John Gunn. Eight matches are scheduled.

Clinkstock to Post Bond for Londos Match

Jim Clinkstock, who meets Ernie Dusek Friday night at the Coliseum, announced yesterday he would post a forfeit to meet Jimmy Londos.

Clinkstock, who is the tallest wrestler in the game, is an Oklahoma Indian. Dusek looms as the most logical opponent for Londos' next appearance here.

The other four numbers on Friday's card bring to the Coliseum Dick Shikat, Renato Gardini, Ted McCready, and Pat O'Shockey.

Jim McMillen meets Gino Garibaldi.

"Affection and bristles don't go together"

"I CAN'T imagine 'falling' for a man with a day's growth of stubble on his face. You may think this is a testimonial for razor blades, but it's not. I never use a razor. I'm just giving you the average girl's opinion of men who don't shave carefully."

"I honestly believe that neglected beards have spoiled as many romances as soiled linen. Of course I may be wrong about this, but to me a man who doesn't shave closely is actually repulsive."

"I'm not thinking about the men in my crowd alone. A clean shave almost always makes a 'hit' with a woman. Many of the men I see in busses or on the street, carpenters and plumbers and all, would look like a 'million', if they'd only be more particular about shaving." • • •

Let's be frank about it. This typical American girl voices the opinion of womankind. A man is repulsive with a growth of stubble. Of course we know that until now shaving was not especially pleasant, sometimes even painful and injurious. There may have been some excuse for neglect. Today, the new Gillette blade makes shaving a not uncomfortable task.

This new blade is remarkably keen and uniform in quality. It cuts the beard cleanly and easily—never roughens or irritates the tenderest skin. You can prove this on our guarantee. Buy a package of new Gillette blades tonight, and give them a trial. If every shave isn't quick and clean—remarkable for unusual ease, return the package and your dealer will refund the purchase price.

VETERANS CARRY MAROONS' EARLY SEASON BURDEN

Sophomores Will Make Baskets Later.

Members of last year's squad will constitute the chief hope of the University of Chicago basketball team in its early games, although the sophomores will contribute some reenforcements for the conference season. The Maroon team is fast, but it lacks ruggedness and height.

The Maroons have lost Capt. Marshall Fish, one of the best players in the Big Ten and their leading scorer last year, who ranked tenth in the conference; Sidney Yates, forward, and Art Cahill, utility man. The list of returning C men is headed by Capt. Harry Ashley, guard, a senior. Kenneth Traider, another guard, will be available after the first of the year. Paul Stephenson and Scott Rexinger, forwards, and Keith Parsons, center, are the other letter men back.

Sophomores Get Ready.

Among the reserves who should see regular action this year are Jim Porter, a junior, who developed rapidly as a guard last season; Bernard Wien, a senior who is about ready to meet the conference pace; Marshall Daulbaniuk, a junior, and Louis Schliftan, a forward.

Coach Nelson Norgren has been working hard with his sophomores, who include G. Wegner, F. D. Carr, Charles Farwell, S. B. Straske, guards; D. R. Kerr, W. A. Comerford, Alvin Pitcher, and A. W. Offil, forwards, and G. A. Richardson, center. There are several other prospects whose eligibility will not be determined until the end of December.

Parsons Convalescent.

For the early games, the Chicago lineup probably will be Stephenson and Daulbaniuk at forwards; Reisinger at center, and Ashley and Porter at the guard positions. Keith Parsons, who was center on the football team, is convalescing from illness.

The schedule follows:

Dec. 15—Bradley.
Dec. 19—Western State Teachers.
Dec. 30—Carleton.

Giants-Bears Game Will Be One of Passes

Capt. Red Grange, who has participated in a big majority of the Bears' forward passes completed this season, mostly on the throwing end, is going to match Benny Friedman at his own game in the final football game of the National league at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

Grange, who has played in every one of the 12 league battles, has tossed more passes that were completed during his time of play than any of his mates. In fact, Grange's percentage of hits is higher this year than at any time in his career, not to mention the ones he snared.

However, for any one to compete with Friedman at this particular item is a real assignment, for Benny ranks as probably the greatest passer in football. This is not only due to his natural talents, but also because he specialized in throwing beginning with his career at the University of Michigan and continued on in the post graduate field.

During the last three seasons Friedman added to his fame by demonstrating his ability to crash the line and run the ends, and it has been his desire to outdo Grange in this respect every time they have met.

Against the Bears in New York although he had just joined the Giants after being on the coaching staff of Yale, Benny raced 64 yards, tossed a pass and crashed over from the 4 yard line for the Giants' only touchdown. In the 19 to 6 victory over Brooklyn, it was Friedman's forward passes that featured.

FORDHAM TACKLE SUFFERS RELAPSE; FEAR BRAIN HURT

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The condition of John Szymanski, Fordham substitute tackle who was injured in the Bucknell game, took a turn for the worse today. He suffered a sudden relapse Monday night, but had rallied a little last evening. His condition was critical and it was said to be more serious than at any time since Nov. 21, when he was hurt.

Szymanski was one of four players hurt in the game. He went in during the third quarter to relieve the regular tackle, Cornelius Murphy. The latter, injured also, died a week ago today. Szymanski played less than five minutes before he was hurt.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POT SHOTS.

WAKE custom from time to time permits enthusiastic collegians—and there is no more enthusiastic individual than the enthusiastic collegian aroused to a frenzy over the comparative merits of his alma mater's football eleven—to take pot shots at one another. Likewise Wake custom silences these verbal duels when they become too heated.

Once we were asked by athletic officials of two Big Ten universities to curb their exponents in what developed into a barrage and counterbarrage of acrimonious literature, lest it lead to severance of athletic relations because of ill feeling. We acquiesced, for far be it from us to be the unwitting cause of any athletic breaks.

Therefore, just for a little moderate excitement, but assuming no responsibility for the thoughts expressed, we present several selections from our mail bag.

Champions Are Champions!

Harve: There still is argument about Northwestern having to win the conference title twice to have the title. All right. Any team good enough to hold the title should be good enough to best any other conference team at any time, first of the season or last of the season.

Granted Northwestern had a hard schedule. Every team it played was also beaten by some one else. By the Wildcats' own admission and by public opinion they were good in three conference games and slipping in three. When they slip enough to fall down they deserve to fall from the top. Perhaps conference officials will pass a ruling that good teams will have to play other good teams only the days they feel just right and are in "peak" form. As the final standings are, they show the fair merits and true strength of all concerned. Riveter.

Razzing the Wolverines.

Harve: Since Michigan backers showed such poor sportsmanship in refusing to attend the Michigan-Wisconsin charity game and since they still think they should have played Northwestern, something should be done about it.

Here's my suggestion: Let Purdue give its share of the title to Northwestern. Northwestern then will have two-thirds claim. Northwestern then can repeat its sportsmanlike attitude of a few years ago and give its total share to Michigan. Michigan then will have the whole claim and probably will stop crying. [But I doubt it.] Eid from Purdue.

Cards Angle for Wilson with Grimes

gest year was with Pittsburgh in 1928, when he was the biggest individual factor in knocking the Cubs out of the pennant. That year he won 25 while losing 14. Last year Burleigh won 17 while losing 9, but his greatest value was in the world series, in which he won two games. Grimes has appeared in three world series, the last two for St. Louis and in the 1920 series for Brooklyn against Cleveland.

Grimes on Five N. L. Teams.

Grimes since 1916 has been on five National league rosters, including two widely separated hitches with Pittsburgh. In addition to Pittsburgh and the Cardinals, he has played with Boston and Brooklyn. He is one of the four spitball pitchers remaining in the big leagues.

Brooklyn, which had been the leading prospect among the bidders for Wilson, virtually dropped out of the running when Manager Max Carey substituted a cash offer in lieu of earlier player offers. Mr. Wrigley isn't hungry for money and his representatives quickly informed Brooklyn of this circumstance.

Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, got back in the bidding with what was said to be something of a piker offer, with payments contingent upon Hack proving to be sound of mind and body, of exemplary conduct and able to tie all the records he made in 1930. It also was rumored that the Boston club wants a written guarantee that Hack doesn't wear spectacles to read, that he has no spavins and is immune from the heaves.

Frank Navin, president of the Detroit Tigers, was the one nabob who came out for air and while out in the open signed up Bucky Harris for another year as manager of the Tigers.

It Was Sort of Expected.

While it had been understood for some time that Harris would be given another opportunity to lead the Tigers out of the American league depths, there was some mysterious holdup in the signing formalities. It was predicted that Harris would sign shortly after Barney Dreyfuss had decided on his new manager. The Pirate boss signed George Gibson last week.

Harris completed a three year contract as the Tiger manager last fall and had enjoyed little success as successor of George Moriarity, who had been something of a bust as the Detroit skipper.

While the American league prolonged its session much longer than expected, it did permit a bulletin to escape the star chamber relative to the whoopla that had been stirred up in connection with radio broadcasting of major league games.

A. L. Against 1933 Radio.

It was discovered that one National league club, the name of which was not made public, but presumed to be the Cubs, had rushed out yesterday and had signed radio contracts for next season. The executives yesterday decided that nothing could be done this year about radio, but passed a resolution requiring all American league clubs to refrain from signing radio contracts for 1933 until approval has been granted by a joint meeting of the two major league clubs.

Under yesterday's action each club may use its own discretion in regard to broadcasting. No broadcasting is tolerated in New York, Philadelphia, and Washington, and the schedule is restricted in Boston and St. Louis. In Chicago six stations, and sometimes seven, broadcast games without limitation last season.

Both leagues will meet separately again today, and tomorrow there will be a joint session of the two majors, at which Commissioner K. M. Landis will preside.

Hack Wilson to Play Basketball to Get Into Shape

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, Peck's bad boy of baseball, is taking himself more seriously.

Friends of the burly Chicago Cubs' outfielder revealed today that Wilson, a resident of Martinsburg, now has but a single thought in mind—to get himself in shape. Wilson is keeping his own counsel but associates are convinced he is trying to live down his reputation as a trouble maker.

Soon after Wilson returned from Chicago in late summer he started indulging in intensive outdoor calisthenics. This winter he plans to play and manage an independent basketball team. He has kept close to the family hearth.

Wilson never confided in friends the reason for his failure to maintain his hitting stride last season.

OXFORD WINS AT RUGBY.

TWICKENHAM, England, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Oxford today defeated Cambridge, 10 to 8, in the annual Rugby football match. Oxford now leads in victories, 23 to 21, and ten games have been tied.

Blackhawks and Canadiens Play 1 to 1 Tie

fense, and Johnny Gottselig swung in behind him to pick up his rebound and the tie score at 1 to 1.

The Hawks were forced to fight off the Canadians with four men to six as the third period opened, but by ragging the puck in the corners they held out. Morenz broke through on top of Gardiner, but held his shot too long and Chuck dived and took it off his stick.

Gardiner Saves Again.

Rivers and Joliat nearly beat Gardiner with a short passing attack inside the defense. Morenz took a pass from Gagnon, but Howie failed to lift the rubber and Gardiner made another sensational save.

Morenz missed another nice drive, overshooting the cage as March was chased for tripping Albert Leduc. Lola Couture whipped a backhander at Hainsworth that almost went in as the period ended.

Hainsworth had to lie on the puck to keep it out of the goal just after the overtime session started. Wentworth actually jabbed it out from under him into the net, but the whistle had blown, the referee ruled.

Later Thompson rushed quickly down the left boards, but Burke deflected his shot over the boards. Morenz rushed swiftly, but Wasnie went offside on the play as the bell rang down the overtime session. The lineup:

Prof. Kane was accompanied in court by his father, Mse Evans Kane, famous surgeon of Kane, Pa. The professor stood erect when the court demanded that he enter his plea, "Not guilty," he shouted in a voice that could be heard in every corner of the courtroom, which was packed with spectators.

TEACHER LEAPS IN TRAIN'S PATH; EXPECTED TO LIVE

Grief Over Suicide of Sister Blamed.

Her mind apparently unbalanced by the suicide of her sister a few weeks ago, Miss Margaret Finlay, 41 years old, threw herself in the path of a freight train in Berwyn yesterday. Her legs were crushed, necessitating amputation, but physicians at the Berwyn hospital said she probably would recover.

Miss Finlay left her home at 606 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, to go to the Emerson school, 31st street and Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn, where she was a teacher. She appeared to be in good spirits and left home early to do some work before her classes opened, her mother, Mrs. Margaret Finlay, said later.

Leaps Into Train's Path.

When Miss Finlay reached the Burlington railroad station, at Oak Park avenue in Berwyn, a freight train was approaching slowly from the east. There were fifty commuters standing about the platform, waiting for a train to the loop. Miss Finlay hesitated beside the track, and as the engine pulled within a few feet of where she stood she leaped into its path.

Miss Finlay did not lose consciousness, but remained silent as she was taken to the hospital.

"Why am I in the hospital?" she inquired as she was carried into the operating room.

Later Miss Finlay assured her mother that she had no memory of her actions, and that the last thing she recalled before the accident was that she was walking to her school.

Her Sister a Suicide.

Her sister, Miss Eva Finlay, 39 years old, was formerly a teacher in the Oak Park schools, but at the time of her death was on a leave of absence because of a nervous breakdown. Her mother and sister, Margaret, were about to take her to a specialist in nervous diseases on Nov. 14 when she leaped from the third floor porch of their home.

PRIVATE FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. J. A. CARPENTER

Funeral services for Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, society leader who died suddenly Monday afternoon, were held yesterday in the chapel at Graceland cemetary and were private. Only a few intimate friends were present, in addition to the family, which includes Mr. Carpenter and their daughter, Genevieve. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, officiated. A quartet sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and "The Home Road," the latter one of the musical compositions of Mr. Carpenter.

Last night the body rested in a mausoleum at Graceland. It is planned to have the body cremated and placed in an urn, to be taken to Charlotte, Vt., for interment. The estate there, the summer place of the Carpenters, has been in the family for many years and was beloved by Mrs. Carpenter, who had planned the restoration of the old inn there, which was their home. Mrs. Genevieve Mason, a sister of Mrs. Carpenter, lives at Washington, Vt.

The first general meeting of the committee in charge of the charity ball on Dec. 18, which was to have been held yesterday at the Casino club, was postponed because of the death of Mrs. Carpenter, who was chairman of the decorations group.

POLICE CAPTURE BANDIT WHO SAW MINISTER SLAIN

John Sullivan, 36 years old, who has served terms in the Pontiac and Joliet prisons, was identified yesterday at the Kensington police station as one of two men who took part in a robbery last Wednesday of a drug store at 7200 South Racine avenue. In the robbery the Rev. Amos Oyer, pastor of the Southwest Gospel tabernacle, was killed by shotgun slugs fired at the bandits by Charles W. Kenney, the owner of the store.

Sullivan was arrested on Monday at the Parkland hotel, 1552 East 63d street. Those who identified him included Kenney, John Auerlack, who lives above the drug store; Floyd Bolton, 1118 West 99th street, and Nicholas Dykstra, 13 years old, 1248 West 73d street, who was passing the store on a bicycle and saw the two men run out.

Other witnesses pointed out Sullivan as one of five men who robbed the Beverly Ridge Cleaning and Dyeing company of 32 fur coats several weeks ago.

MAMMA GIVES BABY FAST RIDE TO THE LOCKUP

A young woman who asserted she was Mrs. Earl Martin, 3817 Flournoy street, with one hand on the steering wheel and the other holding her 5 month old daughter, Joan, was speeding through Oak Park at an estimated speed of sixty miles an hour last night when Policeman Frank Schwartz and Elmer Paulsen halted her.

"No use arresting me," she said, "I've got a drag."

Just the same she and little Joan and another occupant of the car, who identified herself as Mrs. Frank Schalbia of Bellwood, were taken to the Oak Park station. There Mrs. Martin called Chief of Police Henry Eggebrecht of Bellwood, who ungallantly stated he was in bed and couldn't do anything toward releasing her.

Then Mrs. Martin, who seemed a little disgusted, announced she would stay in jail with her baby. Mrs. Schalbia volunteered to stay with her and the police let them. The license on the car the baby was taking a swift ride in was issued to Earl Martin of 747 Wellington avenue.

Ambitious clerk finds way to beat the game

"EASY," HE SAYS

"I WORK in an office. That means that I've got a raft of details on my mind. And I've got to be right up to scratch every moment. You know how hard-boiled the chief can be if I can't dig up the right data at just the right moment. Hard work—long hours—a good deal on my feet.

"And yet I manage to be full of pep. What's more, I've got a real interest in my job—looking ahead, you know, to a little niche at the top for yours truly. I've just got to keep fit.

"How do I do it? I can't take time for golf. But I do take Nujol. And Nujol takes care of me."

Nujol is just a natural substance containing no drugs or medicine. Nujol was perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City. It keeps the body functioning as nature meant it to, even under abnormal sedentary conditions. It not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

Follow this advice and take Nujol regularly. You'll be amazed to find how much more energetic and efficient you will feel—and be. Take it steadily for three months and watch your improvement. It can't do you any harm, certainly, and might do you a lot of good.

Be sure you get the genuine.

Hammond City Treasurer Indicted on Fee Charge

Henry Heckler, city treasurer of Hammond, who has been called the "stormy petrel" of Lake county politics, was indicted by the grand jury in Crown Point yesterday on charges of misfeasance, malfeasance, and oppression in office. A warrant has been issued for his arrest and his bond set at $2,000 by Judge Martin J. Smith. The charges against Heckler are based on a 50 cent fee which he is accused of collecting in making delinquent tax collections. It is charged that 5,000 such collections have been made. Heckler was elected city treasurer of Hammond in 1929 on the Republican state. In 1930 he supported the Democratic ticket.

Jury Blames Insanity for Suicide of Harry Street

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday at the coroner's inquest into the death of Harry L. Street, lumberman, who shot himself on Monday in the University club. The only witness was his brother, the Rev. Charles L. Street of Sycamore, who was with him a short time before his suicide. The Rev. Mr. Street testified that his brother was in poor health and worried because of business reverses. Mr. Street had life insurance totaling $100,000, the brother testified.

Science finds new reasons for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

MILLIONS have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe way to overcome common constipation. Now science shows this delicious cereal brings three benefits in the diet: "Bulk." Vitamin B. Iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce—only it is concentrated in a more convenient form to relieve constipation. It absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Vitamin B tones the intestines, and promotes regular habits. Iron builds blood, and aids health generally.

No wonder ALL-BRAN is considered far more natural than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Try two tablespoonfuls daily. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal or use in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

RATE INCREASE SEEN AS ONLY PARTIAL HELP

Credit Corporation to Handle Funds.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the 100 million dollar boost in freight rates will help the railroads, it will not clear up their financial difficulties, according to Chicago financiers who are students of railroad economics. However, if the carriers also are able to secure a 10 per cent reduction in wages, at least until traffic regains normal volume, their situation would be regarded as much more comfortable.

The point was made yesterday that while the increased revenue from revised rates will help the weaker roads to meet bond interest requirements it will do little toward aiding any of the railroads in paying dividends. The loans made by the stronger roads may figure as deferred earnings or assets, but they will not help the current cash position of the lenders.

What Actions Mean.

On the assumption that the railroads will drive forward for a 10 per cent reduction in wages unless the railway unions voluntarily accept a reduction, some interesting statistics appeared yesterday. One series estimated what the effect of the higher freight rates will mean in terms of share earnings of the principal carriers. A second series estimated a similar effect as the result of a possible decrease of 10 per cent in wages.

Taken together these statistics would indicate a decided improvement in railroad earnings. In fact, they suggest that several large roads that have cut off or curtailed dividends might be able to resume such payments. There is no doubt that such a contingency would have a vastly beneficial effect on railroad credit and would be rather quickly translated into marked improvement in prices of railroad securities.

Expected Earnings.

Additional earnings per share for the principal carriers as the result of additional earnings from the freight rate increase are estimated for the principal roads by the Standard Statistics company as follows:

Atchison	$2.94	Mo K Topeka	$1.23
Baltimore & Ohio	1.26	Missouri Pacific	2.46
Can Pac	2.22	N Y Central	2.03
Chesapeake & Ohio	1.04	Nickel Plate	4.16
Chicago Great Western	3.86	New Haven	1.30
Chicago & Ohio	1.82	Norfolk & West	3.00
Chicago & North Western	1.83	Northern Pacific	.61
Chicago Gt West	1.48	Pennsylvania	.99
Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul	2.80	Pere Marquette	2.35
Chicago & North Western	1.72	Reading	1.77
Chicago Rock Island	3.60	South Pacific	1.82
Delaware & Hudson	1.96	Southern Ry	2.12
Delaware Lackawanna & West	1.00	St L & San Fr	2.89
Erie & Rio G pf	4.13	St L Southwest	3.67
Erie	1.87	Union Pacific	1.77
Great Northern pf	.76	Wabash	2.32
Illinois Central	2.02	Western Maryld	1.08
Louis & Nash	2.23

Even larger additional earnings would result from a wage reduction, as total compensation paid last year amounted to 42¼ per cent of railroad gross revenues and about 60 per cent of operating expenses. Additional per share earnings for the principal carriers that would result from a 10 per cent wage cut are estimated by the Investment Management corporation as follows:

Atchison	$3.61	Illinois Central	$4.42
All Coast Line	3.29	Missouri Pacific	5.87
Balt & Ohio	3.03	N Y Central	3.65

WILL MAKE LOANS

BY SCRUTATOR.

Members of the Association of Railroad executives will meet in Washington on Friday to outline the organization of the Railway Credit corporation, local railroad circles were informed yesterday.

The new corporation will handle the estimated $160,000,000 additional annual revenues accruing to all lines as a result of the freight rate increases granted Monday by the interstate commerce commission and will provide the instrumentality by which the money will be lent to needy railroads.

The Railway Credit corporation will be incorporated in Delaware with a nominal capital stock of twelve shares of $100 par value each.

Boxes in Directorate.

There will be twelve directors distributed as follows: Five from the eastern territory, three from the west, two from the south, one representing the short lines and one at large, the latter presumably to be the active head of the corporation. In addition there will be a vice president and a secretary. Headquarters will be in Washington.

Rail executives yesterday expressed the belief that the corporation would begin functioning by Jan. 1. The main purpose of Friday's meeting is to secure the adhesion to the plan of a sufficient number of lines to insure an early start.

A master tariff or supplement will be issued to all station agents to enable them to compute the new freight rates quickly without the expense of republishing complete tariff lists.

As sums of money accumulate, the credit corporation will place them in banks at interest. The hope is that the current expenses of the corporation will be covered by interest received.

Security for Loans.

Railroads needing loans will make application to the corporation. The latter will permit the directors to exercise their own discretion to a great extent in decisions regarding the granting of loans.

Loans will be secured by "the best collateral available," but it is understood that in many cases this may mean only that the borrowing road will agree not to pay dividends while it owes money to the Railway Credit corporation.

No attempt will be made to maintain air tight banking arrangements, according to railroad executives. They point out that in most cases if the borrowing lines had treasury assets to secure loans they could obtain credit in the ordinary way without appealing to the credit corporation.

Rate of Interest.

The rate of interest charged will be the current rediscount rate for the Federal Reserve bank of New York. A readjustment will be made every three months when there is any alteration in the New York Federal Reserve bank rate.

The following members of the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives will attend the Friday morning session in the Transportation building at Washington: R. H. Aishton, chairman; W. W. Atterbury, L. W. Baldwin, J. J. Bernet, E. G. Buckland, W. R. Cole, P. E. Crowley, L. A. Downs, Carl R. Gray, Fairfax Harrison, Hale Holden, Alfred P. Thom, and Daniel Willard. The afternoon session will be held in the ballroom of the Mayflower hotel.

Martin Insull Is Quizzed On Middle West Affairs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, Dec. 8.—A surprise witness, in the person of Martin J. Insull, was put on the stand today by the federal trade commission, which is examining the affairs of the Middle West Utilities company, of which Mr. Insull is president. He is a brother of Samuel Insull. Mr. Insull's appearance had not been announced by the commission.

MARTIN J. INSULL.

Mr. Insull was called upon to give testimony regarding the destination of $44,100 which the commission's examiners had found in the expense account of the company's books and which was unexplained. The item was recorded in the early part of 1926 just prior to the Illinois senate campaign in that year.

But despite persistent questioning by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the commission in the public utility inquiry, Mr. Insull threw little light on the disposition of the $44,100. He said that the money was turned over for a "special requisition" to E. A. Davis, vice president and comptroller of company and at that time auditor, and that he did not know to whom the cash was delivered.

Recalls Early Testimony.

Mr. Healy acquainted the witness with testimony submitted earlier in the commission's investigation to the effect that the amount in question was composed of four or five transactions and that cash was made available on Mr. Insull's order.

"I understand it was," the witness said.

He asserted, however, that he did not know to whom the checks were issued and to whom the cash was delivered.

When asked by Mr. Healy if there had been other instances of a transaction like this, he replied, "I don't remember." He added that it was the only one "that has come to my attention."

Asked by Mr. Healy if there was a political campaign pending in Illinois at that time, Mr. Insull said, "I think there was a senatorial campaign."

Mr. Healy then reminded the witness of testimony of Samuel Insull before the Reed committee of the senate in 1926 in which Mr. Insull testified that he had borrowed from and later returned to the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago some $272,000 which was contributed to the Frank Smith-Small-Lundin and Harding organizations for the Illinois campaign.

"Did any part of the $44,100 go to make up the Samuel Insull contributions?" Mr. Healy asked.

"Not to my knowledge," the witness replied.

"Are you prepared to say on oath that the $44,100 was not used for political purposes?" Mr. Healy continued.

"I can't say," he responded, "because I don't know what it was used for. If I knew what it was used for I would tell you. All I can say on my oath is that not to my knowledge was this money used for this purpose. I want to do anything you want me to do," he told Mr. Healy, "but I don't want to do anything I can't."

Commissioner McCulloch asked if it was often that money was so disposed of by the company as to "disappear in thin air."

"It was for some purpose I deemed to be of interest to the company, I presume," the witnessed responded.

Is Shown Vouchers.

Mr. Insull was then shown several vouchers which he identified. The signature B. A. W. on one of them, he said, was a Miss Waindell who was in the treasury department of the company. Miss Waindell is now the wife of Oliver E. McCormick, who was treasurer of the utility company.

Asked if Miss Waindell delivered any of the money in the vouchers to him, Mr. Insull replied, "I don't remember."

Middle West's vice president, Mr. Davis, who was mentioned by Mr. Insull in connection with the $44,100 expense account, also testified. He said that the amount had been originally charged on the Middle West books to any entry termed "donations, dues and subscriptions," but that later it was put under "an equalization account."

ELECT BUDD TO PRESIDENCY OF BURLINGTON RY.

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, today was elected president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway, effective Jan. 1. He will succeed E. E. Williamson, who becomes president of the New York Central Jan. 1. W. P. Kenney was elected a director to succeed Mr. Williamson in that position. The Burlington is controlled by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Mr. Budd, who is 52 years old, had been president of the Great Northern since 1919. He was born in Waterloo, Ia., and began his career as rodman for the Chicago Great Western railroad in 1899, three years later becoming assistant engineer. The Rock Island line then claimed him as a roadmaster, and later general roadmaster and division engineer.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending Nov. 28 were announced today by the American Railway association as totaling 558,807 cars. This was a decrease of 94,696 cars below the preceding week and 142,243 below the corresponding week in 1930.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 195,289 cars, a decrease of 60,050 cars from the same week last year; merchandise, 177,033, a decrease of 17,728; grain and grain products, 29,592, decrease of 4,041; forest products, 19,240, decrease of 12,255; ore, 4,190, decrease of 1,583; coal, 104,451, decrease of 43,366; coke, 4,741, decrease of 3,033; livestock, 23,571; decrease of 189.

North Western Loadings Show Weekly Increase

Car loadings on the Chicago and North Western railway were up 3,710 cars from Dec. 1 to 7, inclusive, 1931, over the preceding week of Nov. 24 to 30 inclusive, 24,190 cars being loaded the first week in December, as compared with 20,480 in the last week of November. The proportionate decrease in cars loaded in the first week in December as compared with Dec. 1 to 7, 1930, was 14¾ per cent.

LOREE READY TO BUILD NEW LINE IF HE GETS COMMISSION SANCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—In the event that the interstate commerce commission gives approval, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, acting for the Harriman estate, will go ahead with plans to construct 200 miles of railroad across Pennsylvania as a segment of a new low grade rail route between the great lakes and the Atlantic seaboard.

The Delaware and Hudson has no financial interest in the proposed new construction, but if Mr. Loree's plan for formation of a fifth eastern group had been sanctioned by the commission, such a new line would have fitted admirably into the system proposed by Mr. Loree but dismissed rather perfunctorily by the commission.

In the present setup for the consolidation of the eastern trunk lines into four major systems, neither Mr. Loree's former fifth trunk line nor the proposed new 200 mile line has been considered in the plan agreed upon by the eastern trunk line executives waiting action by the commission.

CHICAGO STOCKS ARE UNMOVED BY EVENTS OF DAY

Utility Shares Exhibit Greatest Activity.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Unresponsive to either the President's message or the adverse dividend actions taken by the directors of a large number of corporations, the Chicago stock market continued sluggish yesterday, with the volume of trading ebbing to around 60,000 shares. A slightly reactionary trend prevailed, but changes were insignificant.

Utility stocks were the most active shares on the board, with leading issues showing fractional recessions. Middle West Utilities and Insull Utility common were both comparatively active and well supported. Interest in the motor shares was at low ebb except in the case of Cord, which turned over in good volume and was in supply at lower prices.

Plan Special Meeting.

Lindsay Nunn preferred appeared on the tape at 9½ after a long period of inactivity. The price was only a fraction below the previous quotation. Resumption of dividends on the issue, which pays $2 annually and is now $1.50 in arrears, is considered not improbable. Directors will hold a special meeting Dec. 12 to consider a rearrangement of capital structure which it is believed may pave the way for the resumption of preferred payments. It is understood that the board will consider marking down the value of the common stock, which has a stated value of $10 a share.

The company is reported to have earned $2.11 a share on preferred in the ten months ended Oct. 31. This showing brightens the dividend outlook for the preferred, inasmuch as the remaining two months of the year are usually among the best of the fiscal period.

Foote Gear Pfd. Drops.

Among the inactive stocks there were a few sharp breaks. Central Illinois Public Service broke 5 points, then recovered all its loss. A 200 share transaction in Foote Gear preferred was completed at 12. It was the first trade in the issue in more than 18 months, at which time the issue was selling around 78.

The favorable estimates on the earnings of the leading printing companies in Chicago has failed to awaken any interest in the companies' shares. Hall Printing closed yesterday at 12, off a fraction for the day, while Lincoln Printing shares were unchanged at 17.

Five Large Railroads Take Unfavorable Dividend Action

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—Five large railroads yesterday took unfavorable dividend action in which payments were omitted either on the common or preferred stocks. These were the New York, New Haven and Hartford, which omitted the common; the Colorado and Southern, which omitted the common; the Texas and Pacific, which took no action on the common but authorized the regular payment of $1.25 on the preferred; the Missouri Pacific, which took no action on the preferred, and the Boston and Maine, which omitted payments on the first preferred stocks, but made the usual payment on the prior preferred.

The action of the New Haven board in omitting the common dividend came as a surprise. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share was declared on the preferred stock, payable Jan. 2 to share owners of record Dec. 18.

In explaining the action of the board the company declared that "dividends of 4 per cent having been paid on the common stock during the year 1931 the board decided to take no further action on the common dividends this year."

Omits Common Dividend.

Colorado and Southern railway directors today omitted the annual dividend of $3 on the common stock due at this time. The regular semi-annual dividend of $2 on the first preferred stock and the regular annual dividend of $4 on the second preferred were authorized, both payable Dec. 31 to stock of record Dec. 18.

Directors of the Boston and Maine, in which the New Haven has a 26.4 per cent interest and the Pennsylvania, together with its subsidiary, the Pennroad, has a 22.5 per cent stock interest, voted to omit the dividend on the first preferred series A, B, C, D, and E, and on the 6 per cent noncumulative preferred stock. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share was declared on the prior preferred.

A quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share was announced on the common stock of the Virginian Railway company, compared with annual distributions of $3 in 1929 and 1930. The road is a comparatively small one operating in the coal district of West Virginia. Following the dividend action the company said:

"Board of directors of the Virginian railway has determined it to be in the interest of the corporation, and in the future the question of the declaration of dividends on the common be considered quarterly instead of annually as heretofore."

Take No Action.

Directors of the Missouri Pacific railway today took no action on the preferred dividend of $1.25 for the final quarter of this year.

Directors of the Texas and Pacific railroad declared the regular quarterly dividend of one and one-fourth per cent on preferred stock, but passed action on common dividends. An interest payment of five per cent was declared on outstanding second mortgage bonds of the Texas and Pacific, payable on or after March 1, 1932.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad today declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $5, payable Dec. 26 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

F. E. Williamson, president, said that the road's profit "has been disappointing," that November loadings were approximately 21 per cent below the same month a year ago, and that the decrease for the eleven months this year was 19 per cent below 1930.

Reduces Its Dividend.

Western Union Telegraph company today declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50, placing the stock on a $6 basis against $8 previously. The reduction complied with a recommendation of the executive committee made in October when wages were cut 10 per cent.

Directors of Remington Rand, Inc., today omitted the quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the second preferred stock due at this time.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—Judging by the action of the stock market, Wall street was somewhat disappointed in President Hoover's message to congress today. Prices turned sharply downward following the delivery of the message, numerous issues selling off anywhere from 1 to 3 points below yesterday's final figures.

Possibly the market was looking for the President to wave a magic wand over the country and restore prosperity with one fell swoop. At any rate it chose to pass over the admittedly constructive features of the message and dwell on the gloomier aspects of higher taxation, the tremendous government deficit, and of proposals before the new lawmaking body of the nation to interfere with free markets. And being in the mood to look on the darker side of the picture it had no difficulty in finding other "bearish" news in the day's budget to aid and abet its pessimistic frame of mind, such as the omission of the New Haven railroad's dividend, for instance, and the failure of another stock exchange brokerage firm, the eighth of the year so far.

Rails Firmer Early.

In the early part of the session there had been a promising upturn in the railroad shares in response to the overnight ruling of the interstate commerce commission permitting the roads to make "loans" instead of gifts from their proposed freight rate pool for the benefit of weaker lines, and the industrials for a time had shown signs of falling in line on the advance. Bidding on the pivotals, however, failed to attract a following and the self-appointed sponsors of the "bull movement" soon gave up. It was evident that the trading fraternity was not disposed to do much pending publication of the President's message around noon.

The street has been looking for some time for something of a constructive nature from this source and it is probable that hopeful sentiment on this account has been largely responsible for the "good" days which the market has enjoyed occasionally

State Street Deal.

A bit of State street frontage changed hands yesterday at the rate of $17,418 per front foot which was purchased back in 1876 at $1,328 a foot. This occurred when David Dangler conveyed to the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., as trustee for an undisclosed purchaser, an undivided one-quarter interest in the south 33½ feet under the Consumers building, at the northwest corner of State and Quincy streets. The transfer was made subject to a ninety-nine year lease.

Capitalizing the rental at 6 per cent establishes a value of $119.85 per square foot of the 4,867.55 square feet, or $17,412.92 per front foot on State street. This land was acquired on March 5, 1875, by Henry Corwith for $41,000, or $1,223.85 per front foot. Charles H. Binney of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. represented all parties.

City Pays $281,275.

The city of Chicago paid Darling & Co., manufacturers of fertiliser, poultry feed, tallow, glue, etc., $281,275 for a strip of land ten feet wide and 195 feet long, which cut a slice off their five story factory building at 4201 South Ashland avenue. This was used in widening that thoroughfare. A new front had to be built on the factory, and all the company's machinery, as well as its offices, had to be moved.

In recently reporting the lease by the Frigidox Food Products company of the E. E. Stulis Realty company calls attention to two typographical errors. The address should have read 4115 Ravenswood avenue and the term of the lease is 5½ years.

GENERAL MOTORS SELLS 29,359 UNITS IN NOVEMBER

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Total sales of General Motors corporation cars to dealers last month, including Canadian and overseas shipments, were 29,359 units compared with 25,975 in October and 57,257 in November, 1930. November sales to American consumers were 24,573 units against 49,043 in October and 41,757 a year ago. Sales to American dealers totaled 22,710 against 21,305 in October and 41,155 in November of last year.

The corporation said the sales comparison for November was unfavorably affected by the fact that the new Chevrolet was introduced around the middle of the month in 1930 whereas this year it did not appear until December 5.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Christmas and New Year's holidays on the Chicago Board of Trade will be different from usual. There will be four regular holidays between Dec. 24 and Jan. 3 inclusive. There will be no session of the exchange on Saturday, Dec. 26 and Saturday, Jan. 2. Counting the Sundays there will be six exchange holidays. It is many years since a similar situation has occurred.

The late weakness in wheat, largely on liquidating sales, lifted the market partly out of the rut and created a more bearish feeling among operators who have been friendly to the buying side the last week. It is said that there is no large interest on either side of the market at present and with holidays approaching, the disposition is to go slow. The fact that the market is without aggressive leadership on either side is taken as more bearish than bullish. However, it is said that foreign news becomes more bullish, and export business increases, the market is in a position to score and hold a fair advance.

Traders in corn are mostly bearish with the exception of a few locals, who have tried to sustain the market. Cash premiums in Chicago are said to have erased, but so far shipping sales are not heavy. Traders who have been bearish, however, are advising caution in following declines with short sales.

"World importers next year will ultimately turn to North America as a source of wheat supplies and, in face of smaller amounts of export wheat there in prospect, will be satisfied only by drawing from the present large American visible or farm supplies," says Lamson Bros. & Co. "A gradual reduction of these will tend toward higher wheat prices because our farmers are determined to hold old wheat and raise less at present price levels, and depend more on farm grown products for their living."

WHEAT PRICES FOLLOW DROP IN STOCK MART

Rain in Kansas Brings In Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market was on the down grade again yesterday. The break in stocks and reports of rain in the Dodge City, Kas., area, where it has been abnormally dry for a number of months, brought in sufficient selling to carry prices off as much as 2¼c from the finish of the previous day with the July leading.

The close was well toward the bottom with net losses of ⅞@1⅜c, with December finishing at 54¼c; March, 55⅝@55½c; May, 56⅝@56⅝c, and July, 54⅞@55c.

Wheat traders paid little attention to President Hoover's message after it was issued, the price remaining unchanged for several minutes after it was received. Buying by several houses with eastern connections appeared later which caused a bulge of around ⅝c to a new high for the day, the May touching 58⅜c. Toward the last aggressive selling credited to the east uncovered stop loss orders, and the price dropped rapidly with the break checked by buying against bids.

December Wheat Tight.

December wheat showed further tightness and went to 2c under the May, the smallest discount so far. A leading elevator interest bought December and sold May early at 2⅛c difference and later at 2¼c. The strong domestic cash position with 28⅛ per cent protein dark hard winter selling at 67c at Kansas City or 26c over May is having some effect on the nearby delivery. As the result of the relative strength in the December here it went to 3⅛c over Liverpool at the time the latter closed. Net losses for the day in the English market were ⅛@⅝c per bu, with December quoted at 52⅝c on the basis of $3.25⅛ for sterling.

Lack of foreign demand for American cash wheat is counting against the maintenance of the market even though the trade is disposed to ignore the declining price level in Liverpool to some extent. Pressure of Argentine grain was reported abroad. Showers were reported in that country Monday, but there were no quotations from Bueno Aires, owing to a holiday.

Offset Exchange Rate.

Closing of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago wheat, the selling being in the former market, offset to a large extent the lower rate of exchange, and the close was 1¾@1¼c lower in the Canadian market with the December quoted at 58⅜c with the exchange rate showing a discount of around 16 per cent, as compared with American.

A decrease of 9,816,000 bu in the world's available supply of wheat for the week brought the total down to 462,114,000 bu, against 459,126,000 bu last year.

Corn Resists Pressure.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to pressure and prices averaged higher for the day, although breaking toward the last in sympathy with the sharp decline in wheat and stocks. Final trades were unchanged to ⅜c lower with December finishing at 36½c; March, 39@39¼c; May, 41⅜c, and July, 42⅞c. Buying of corn against sales of wheat had some effect on the former grain. A cash interest bought December and sold May corn around 5½c difference. Country offerings of corn to arrive were light with purchases of 18,000 bu reported.

A fair export business in Canadian oats is being put through from time to time with the continent, and messages from the seaboard indicated that further sales were made yesterday. Futures fluctuated largely in sympathy with corn and finished unchanged to ⅜c lower, with the December at 34½c; May, 36⅝@36¾c, and July, 35⅝c at the last.

Buying of rye by houses with eastern connections was offset to a large extent by selling by the northwest, and the late weakness in wheat also had some effect. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅝@⅞c, with December, 40½c; May, 45½c, and July, 45⅝c.

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM

Butter and egg futures moved back slightly from the sharp declines of the previous session on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, quoting 16c and eggs 15c. Green Mountain potatoes dropped 3 points, while others were unchanged. Selling was moderate in butter and eggs early, but support, largely covering, improved toward the close. Sales: Butter, 1,367,200 lbs; eggs, 936,000 doz; potatoes, 780,000 lbs. Deliveries: Eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

Cotton Trade Surprised by Government Report

The government gave the cotton trade a surprise by estimating the crop at 16,918,000 bales, when more than 17,000,000 bales were expected. The estimate was about 1,100,000 bales below the highest of private estimates, compared with 13,932,000 bales last year. Ginnings to Dec. 1 were placed at 15,023,451 bales, which was in line with private estimates. Prices were advanced after the report was announced, but the market met selling and gradually receded, with the close around the lowest of the day. There were net losses on futures in Chicago of 6@10 points, except on December, which lost 1 point.

In other markets losses were 2@9 points, New Orleans being the weakest, with spots there off 10 points to 5.95c. New York spots, however, were unchanged to 6.10c, with Galveston, 6c, and Houston, 5.85c. Liverpool closed 6@8 points net lower. A good deal of short covering was on after the issuance of the government report, but the market ran into selling, due to disappointment over the President's message. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 12,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 24,000.

Sellers were unable to hold the gains they had scored on Monday's session, despite the fact that hog receipts were only moderate yesterday and considerably smaller than the record supplies of a week ago. There was a fair amount of action in the trade and all interests swung in for their share soon after the start, but the market seemed to go down of its own weight.

The accumulation of pork from last week's big slaughter is having some affect, and though buyers are not inclined to hold back long after the start it is generally conceded that any recovery in prices will slow up the movement of supplies into packing houses and buyers will bring as many bearish factors into play as possible.

Current quotations are not more than 5@10c above the 32 year bottom. Yesterday's extreme top at $4.35 was 10c under Monday's highest price and only 5c above the lowest since 1899. The general average moved down 10c at $4.25. The range of hog prices is acutely narrow and the trade is closer to "splitting nickels" than they have been since this practice was abolished in the early days. Approximately 80 per cent of yesterday's sales were made at $4.25 and $4.30. It is significant the way demand expands for hogs when prices slip down to $4.00@4.25 at leading market centers and how abruptly orders drop off when prices go up to $4.50. Packers say the cutout value shows a very small profit at present.

Strength in Futures.

Although there were no actual sales reported in the futures market yesterday less pessimism was noticeable in the selling side of the trade, particularly in contracts that terminate in five months. No May contracts were offered below the $6.00 line. Bids were made at $5.50. January light and mediums were bid $4.50. December contracts were lowest on the board, with bids at $4.10.

The range of cattle prices narrowed down some yesterday. Buyers and sellers have been striving to get away from the disadvantages of an abnormally wide price range, but have been pulling in opposite directions, and until this week little progress has been made. The buying side is finally showing most pull in the "tug of war" and top prices are being gradually hauled down, while bottom prices remain unchanged. However, the range is still much wider than in other years.

Only a scattering of choice steers passed $10.00, with the peak at $11.50 for 1,291 lb averages. Medium grades of cattle selling at $6.00@8.00 comprise a big share of offerings and poorest grades range downward to $4.00. On last Tuesday's session the extreme range was much wider at $4.00@12.50. Little change was recorded in other branches of the cattle trade except in calves, where prices moved up 25c.

Lambs Higher Late.

There was a late advance in the lamb market yesterday, the upturn coming just before the close of trading, and large local packers were among the leading competitors for top grades. Natives and fed westerns sold to them at $5.25 near the close and four carloads of good Colorado fed lambs reached $6.10. Aged and yearling sheep were unchanged.

Feeder lambs met fair call at $4.65 and some mixed fat and feeder lambs sold at $4.75. Outlet for lamb is broader than it has ever been, yet there is little optimism heard in the trade because of the fact that cornbelt feed lots are "bulging" with fat lambs that will be marketed in the next few weeks.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $10 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all sums above $100 is almost another figure than the maximum permitted by the usury loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1929 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the amount balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.65. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment.

There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to borrow any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or any part sooner. The Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.
